Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow...

Time is not an easy thing to discuss and the best thing to relate its discussion to is a circle. All these circles show time; yesterday, an abstract beginning, followed by today and still followed by tomorrow. But as the cover poem shows, all goes around and around until you've lost a concept of the whole thing. But one thing leads to another which in turn leads to another which in turn ...

Jane,
 you are a very nice person and you have a great personality

Yesterday's School - a Place to Learn

There have always been places to attain knowledge: schools, educational institutions. Knowledge from these schools has been essential to survival in society. In the recent past, having a job, a well adjusted family and a car meant surviving adequately in this society. Throughout the ages, the established social ideals have constantly changed. Yet schooling has always been a qualification for a high social position. Most had to study tediously for acceptance. School was a place with one purpose; it was a place to learn. Education on a large scale began to roll into American life. In Austintown this centralized education began in 1916. Austintown-Fitch, a place to learn, and the cycle begins.

Reality is the side of life recorded as true. It is the sequence of actions and reasoning. Behind every action stands a reason stemming from experience. Experiences range from a course in physics to a bad fall down the stairs. Reality forms a circle in life that has no definite beginning or end. A monstrous revelation comes about only through proof of its minute parts. This proof becomes a reality. One reality leads to another; but to what destination? Existing knowledge tell only where we've been.

Yesterday's reality,
where is it leading to?

around and around and...

“Dreams, so they say, are for the fools...”

Human nature involves the act of living. For a human to have life he need not only breathe. There must be a driving force to push man onward, and from that force must come a desire to meet each day. Life has its peaks and its deep, empty valleys, and there are solutions for the human weaknesses throughout. At a peak we are vulnerable because we may be attacked and brought down; there is a constant danger. This is the peak of our success. It may be destroyed at any moment, but there are always dreams to fall back on.

Experience and knowledge command our lives. Today the importance of these is set by the individual, not by society. If studying and learning are included in one's life, it is because he wants them there. Just learning the basics of human nature and responding to environmental stimuli may be everything in one's life. School intertwines experience and knowledge into the classroom of today's school.

Today Reality — Tomorrow's Memories

Whatever is real to an individual or to the world as a whole is worth remembering. Unfortunately all of the realities of today may not be recorded in the book of history. Memories can be of trials to be overcome or they can be purely sentimental in nature. Some of today's realities will not become definite memories at all, but will mingle with all realities to form the personality of a unique human being.

I live each day in the Austintown-Fitch High School building, and everyday I'm forced to wait in lines at doors and at desks, in restrooms, and other places. It's always the same, and I get tired of it, but I'm a Fitch student, and I guess they wait at Mooney and Boardman too.

- Z and Y. Early in the morning, we awaited Mr. Chepke and Mr. Winterburn's arrival to process our early excusals.
- X. When there was money to be deposited, many found themselves waiting at Mrs. Morrison's door.
- V. When we were hot, we didn't mind waiting here.

x

- Z. Watching some teachers became boring.
- Y. Lori Grossman watched her boyfriend from the hall.
- X. Watching at the pep assembly was reasonably quite difficult.

We watched

Watching is a big part of our education here at Fitch. In a single day our eyes watch hundreds of thousands of things, and from most we learn a lot. We watch people, plays, smiles, frowns, games, and many more. And how will we end up? A ph.D.? A B.S.? A master of our field. But most probably, however we end up, we'll wear glasses.

We worked to Obey

- Z. We worked in gym classes.
- Y. Home economics seemed like fun, but it, too meant a lot of work.
- X. Ken Banfield learned a trade, but it took work at the M.C.J.V.S.
- W and V. Falcon students learned about bodies at the vocational school.

Often times an intrinsic desire for knowledge was not enough motivation for students. Consequently, teachers had to provide students with more than just facts. Teachers livened up their courses and their rooms hoping to attain a more appealing atmosphere.

Most high school students had already learned the basics and were now ready to synthesize them coming up with new insights and concepts. Teachers provided students with additional knowledge starting them on their ways. Some teachers' efforts, unfortunately, went to waste. A number of students had little interest in learning. But the students who were willing to learn, accepting the challenges of it, were the ones that benefitted. Each teacher had his own special courses and techniques, but they all had a common purpose in guiding and directing students.

This year there were many attempts to revive spirit at Fitch High School. Students worked. Teachers also worked—sometimes harder than students. Teachers posted schedules in their rooms, attended pep assemblies, helped students learn songs and cheers, and sometimes helped decorate.

Sometimes it was even more important

Many of the teachers' interests could be discovered beneath the academics. Most were interested in guiding the student as a whole. They offered such things as inspiration, time or assistance. They, too were important factors in the educating of a student. A teacher's willingness to offer individual attention to students was certainly welcomed in a school the size of Fitch.

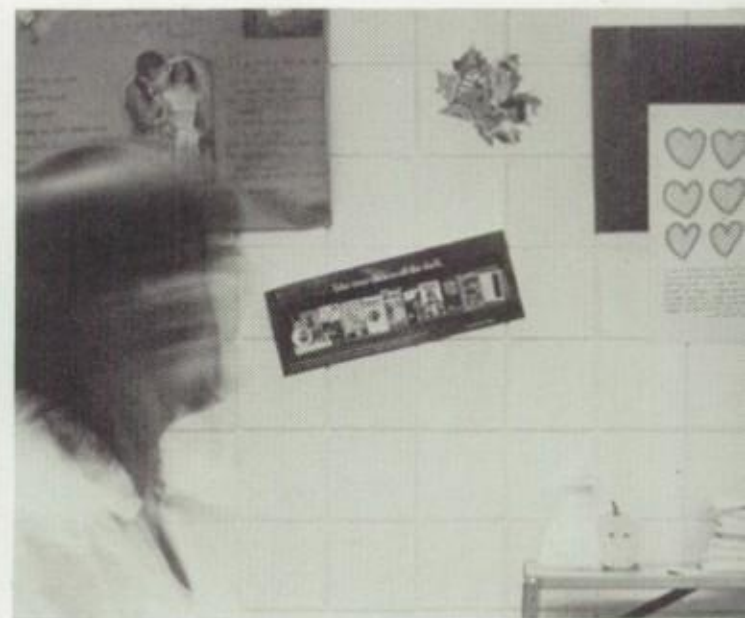

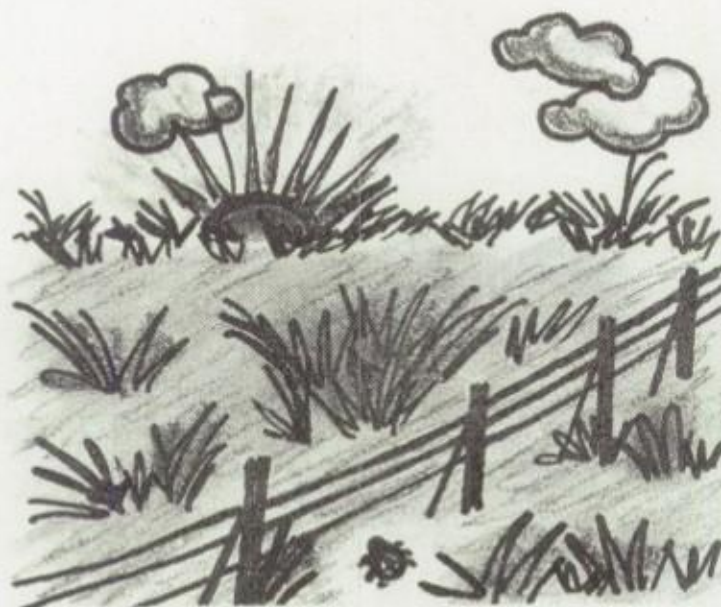

- T. Mrs. Taylor's interest in photography often was beneficial to the Yearbook.
- S. Mrs. Kunic encouraged students to become aware of themselves and others.
- R. Mr. Dickerhoof felt that it was important to consider the student's future.
- Q. It was Mr. Muresan's intention to keep in touch with his students.
- P. Mr. Bohla realized the importance of allowing students to learn on their own and to develop self responsibility.
- O. Miss Gulfo and Mrs. Yeckel also dedicated themselves to the Spanish Club.
- N. Learning about yourself was included in Miss Haller's teachings, as she helped students in more ways than Spanish.
- M. Mr. Garcia was responsible for the unique spirit displayed by the Cross Country team members.
- L. Mrs. Logan always taught with a positive attitude because she believed, "You're only as good as people say you are."
- K. To know one's self was an idea that Mrs. Mackil included in her teachings.
- J. Mrs. Jones combated the loss of hope with a cheerful, hopeful smile.
- I. Mrs. Lough related literature to the student's everyday lives.

Past generations may have looked upon a meadow and envisioned a highway or a battlefield. Hopefully the present generation, in search of progress, will take time to follow the path of a spider or a lady bug pursuing life in this meadow, or look up to see a buffalo, a bear, or a face in the clouds, or return the smile of a freckled friend.

They will understand.

Teachers encouraged students to increase their academic knowledge as well as their general knowledge of life. Some classes, such as humanities, were directed towards the study of man and his environment. In other, not-so-oriented classes, teachers managed to work such ideas into their lectures. The language and social studies teachers taught about ways of life and cultures of people of different times and different countries. The study of literature revealed universal and ever-living truths. Sciences traced the development of the physical and natural worlds. The incorporation of these ideas into the students' courses guided them towards new outlooks.

As every student is becoming what they are, they can't help realizing the important roles that their teachers have played in their lives. Students spend svene and a half hours a day, five days a week with them. This valuable time became the steppingstones for many peoples' futures. Teachers put forth some efforts. They realized that the future totally depended on these students. Teachers offered their knowledge, ideas and experience. The rest was left up to the students. Most retained what they learned and began to shape the future.

School was not always just books, lectures, and tests. There was also a lighter side. A more relaxed atmosphere in some classes allowed teachers to become more acquainted with students and vice-versa. Expressions of teachers, and students' interests could be found in various rooms. As the teachers became more interested in students, it was hoped that the interest in each other would become mutual.

The staff at Fitch High School also included secretaries, custodians and assistants. Each person had a special job, each bettered the school in some way. Without secretaries, there would not have been enough time for principals and teachers to do their jobs properly. The custodians kept our school clean and in order. Mr. Antell, who assisted Miss Kascher, definitely was important to the choir. The nurse, how could some students have done without her. They were all vital to the success of each day at Fitch.

Mrs. Honey Topped Many "Senior-Days"

With confused ideas and problems that seemed unconquerable, we ran to that one person who seemed to have the solution to everything. This person was tremendously understanding, fantastically organized and unbelievably patient, and her name was Mrs. Honey. College was a big step in our lives and it scared most of us, but with Mrs. Honey just a few minutes from any class we had, our problems seemed to work out fine. We knew we would never be able to repay her for her fabulous time counseling, but we would like to thank her from the bottom of our hearts, for she did indeed, "top our senior days".

Thoughts Of College— no Longer a Dream

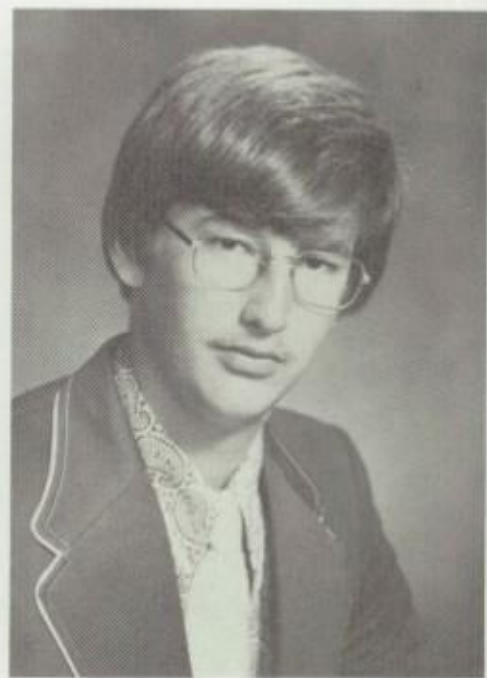

Ever since grade school we were told high marks were essential to be accepted by a college. Those of us that had made it this far, had either worked hard with college as their goal or planned to have a good job right after high school. Now the time had arrived for us to prove just what we had learned in our school years. We were finally worthy to receive a college education and build lives for ourselves. We knew that our own determination and knowledge would carry us through our dream of college and to success.

T,R,S, and Q. Senior Class Officers, (Ken Erdner, treasurer; Cahrlie Shreve, secretary; Dean DePerro, Vice-President; Joe Zarconi, President.) were determined to have "Show Day" in spite of its postponement.

It is most often quite simple to list the accomplishments of the officers of a class. It is common for class officers to be inactive and apathetic. But with the senior class, it was different. The concern of Ken Erdner, Charlie Shreve, Dean DePerro, and Joe Zarconi, went toward getting the class together for a final year. There were new things developed, like a senior party, senior breakfast and senior countdown. A snow day was planned and also a number of different plans were made for graduation. All in all, it was a good year, and yet, ironically, the biggest job these four would face, was yet to come. These officers, under Joe Zarconi's direction, must reunite six hundred thirty-six people ten years from now for the Class of 1974's reunion.

Gamble— Best Freddie Ever

Throughout the years Fitch has had many deserving mascots bearing the name of "Freddie the Falcon". Each was an individual possessing qualities for the demanding task. But in this spirit-filled year of 1974, we experienced the desire and devotion of the best "Freddie", Fitch has ever seen, that skinny, little, masked senior, Marcia Gamble. We all knew her heart and soul were behind every single cheer, though we could never see her face. Marcia was constantly on the go, spending long hours painting signs and helping at assemblies.

No matter how many events took place, Marcia was there, practically splitting herself into two and always giving every ounce of spirit her 94 pounds could have. The senior class is very proud to have contributed this wonderful person to our school and we, the Class of '74, could never thank her enough. All we can say is, "We love you Marcia Gamble".

Government could be considered on whether it was viewed as part of the past or future. Regardless of the context in which government is viewed, the country is most significant. In this country the government is set up to protect the innocent from being taken over by the unjust. This is not the case in all countries. Many are organized to hide evil motives of those in power, leaving the people in total ignorance. Cross Country—another Great Year

This year, as always, the Falcon harriers came through with fantastic results. We are especially proud of the three senior members of the squad, who will be a tremendous loss to the future Cross Country teams; Bob Lunn, Dalvin Baehler, and Paul Giba. These men of '74 have led the team to outstanding victories in the Potter Invitational, the Malone Invitational, Ashland Classic, Steel Valley Conference, Canfield Invitational, sectionals at Boardman, District at Akron, and a very respectable finish at the State Finals, just to name a few. The class of '74 is certainly proud of these three men.

While scheduling during the summer, the seniors were the first group to be offered a chance to be office aids during a study hall. The girls ran errands from office to office and collected the many attendance sheets from the classes. They helped keep records on the students and their daily activities. For the girls who knew how to type or run the office machinery, there were many reports and letters to be sent out for information. The time went quickly and the girls were always on the move.

To fully understand our rapidly changing community was no easy task. There were some really wild informative and heated discussions about our social structure. Our yearning to understand was not limited to classes only. As seniors, we needed to know about the world we were soon to face. We had new ideas and didn't always agree with our parents on the issues of politics, religion, and even ourselves. Nevertheless, our understanding grew. We strove to obtain knowledge to fulfill our dreams and the pains of learning about what our community left us after a period of reflection and "recuperation," to ready ourselves for our roles as citizens of tomorrow.

Jobs Provided Experience

"On the job" was not just an expression used by our parents anymore. Some of us had had many jobs for almost as long as two years. We had been earning money and something even more important; wisdom. This wisdom was obtained through much hard work that was classified as "experience". We were not always the person in charge, but the work still depended chiefly upon our willingness to exert ourselves to our fullest. The hours seemed long after an even longer school day, but the confidence and security that came along with it were invaluable to our futures after graduation.

Band Gave Us Goose Bumps

At every football halftime, 154 students, many of them seniors, marched out onto the field to entertain the fans. The precision of their marching along with the fantastic sound produced was a sight to behold. Paul Rohrbaugh's great leadership was certainly evident as the band always appeared in perfect form. Whenever the band played, no matter if it was the "fight song" or "Exodus" we had sensitive feelings deep inside. Sometimes these feelings were really felt, like when our "Alma Mater" was played, and we were overcome with "goose bumps".

Many seniors experienced a very different kind of class this year. It was college typing and required much concentration. Nimble-fingered seniors sat down at the keyboards and attempted the "warm-ups". Twelve words a minute we were doing well, and if we limited our mistakes to fifteen we were doing great! The course will be a real help to many of us in future years and most of us have no regrets of taking it!

Senior Y-Teens Kept Busy

The Senior Y-Teens did a fantastic job of living up to their goal, that of being a service organization to the school and community. They collected canned goods and provided for holidays of needy families. They planned for a "Winter Formal" to include the different grades. Y-Teens had a Christmas Party at Lynda Newberry's house. BOB Lunn: SuperStar...

There is a tremendous number of outstanding athletes in the Class of '74. Most of them put forth as much as they possibly could give, 100 per cent. But there is one athlete who seems to give more than that, and of whom we are very proud to have as a member of our senior class. That athlete is Bob Lunn. What else can be said of a young man who has made many sacrifices in the past few years, running his heart out, whether it be raining or snowing. Bob devoted practically every spare minute getting into shape for cross country and track. He has been an outstanding performer all four years of high school, leading the Falcons, to two consecutive state titles. Yes, Bob Lunn is a true "superstar", in every sense of the word.

Each day as we sat listening to the announcements, six familiar words were heard, "And now for Mr. Winterburn's comment". Senior girls who had extra class periods in the day and wished to partake in any daily exercise could become "gym aids". They had already learned most of the gymnastic activities and could teach them to the freshmen and sophomore classes. It was a great help to the girls who had trouble catching on immediately. They gave more individualized attention; to those who wanted to learn. The class was especially active when the "gym aids" participated, because they conveyed their willingness to be there to those who were somewhat reluctant to partake in the events of the day.

National Honor Society faced many problems in 1974. But in spite of the problems, poor attendance probably being the biggest, the chapter managed to get things done. Under the direction of Charlie Shreve and Mr. Pormen, N.H.S. organized a trip to Kent basketball programs, the N.H.S. bookstore and various other things. The National Honor Society of '74 was, however, somewhat different than that of preceeding years. This chapter constantly underwent change in selection and induction procedures. We expressed Ourselves

We're the class of '74. The class of '74, just one of the individual classes. At Fitch. A class that was able to express their emotions and ideas in many ways. Senior countdown was one unique way of showing many interested seniors the number of days remaining in the school years, thanks to Joe Zarconi, senior class President, it was well taken care of. Along with the senior countdown came the victory bells that were sold by the senior spirit club for the senior game. The seniors not only expressed themselves, but encouraged the underclassmen when help was needed. This characteristic of leadership was one of the many important qualities the senior class had as, "we expressed ourselves".

Over the years the fire of spirit at Fitch has dwindled and died. Most students didn't give a darn. But these attitudes seemed to change and spirit year, seemed to spread. Much of this enthusiasm was sparked by the Senior Class, who did not think that they were "too old" to stand up and cheer. Seniors showed their pride by decorating their tower on Sunday, before spirit weeks by attending pep assemblies and sports events and ringing the victory bell. We seemed to have the respect of the underclassmen who listened tentatively to every "Senior Power". Yes we the class of '74 have helped the cheerleaders and Freddie in their drive to bring spirit back to Fitch and we were proud, all the way through our last "Senior Rah".

Through a unique set of circumstances, the pictures on this page and the next were almost omitted completely from the '74 edition. A mix up with Abey Studio caused a late delivery of the glossies. When the pictures were delivered, deadlines had passed, and the book had been finished. Luckily, this two-page tip in was arranged with Inter-Collegiate Press. We only regret that these pictures were not listed in the index; but they're here, and that's the most important part. Special thanks to ICP!

We began again

Finally we made it as "big" eighth graders and then, in three months, we were back on the bottom rung of the ladder. After all those years of waiting to be the oldest in junior high school, we then had to go to high school and were put down by the upper-classmen. The next year, we would be Sophomores and it would be our turn to get back at the frosh, for all that happened to us as Freshmen. Maybe next year we would be nice to the frosh and start a new tradition.

- T. To get back at the upperclassmen, the frosh went to such "extremes" as sticking out their tongues at them, behind their backs of course.
- S. Trying to get away from the older guys was a job when they outnumbered you 3 to 1.
- R. Even though we were put down, we still had the opportunity to wear a Fitch jacket.
- Q. We knew one day we would be at the top of the ladder as seniors, but down here we had to make the best of it.

The frosh gathered in the gym along with the upperclassmen ...
... to cheer for their favorite team.
Decorating the halls with "home (school) made" signs was only one way in which spirit was shown.
Cheerleaders put in much time and hard work to earn their title of cheerleader. They also did a good, loud job at leading and performing cheers.

FRESH displayed spirit

We gave our all when it came to pep assemblies, and even though quite at first, we soon progressed to be as loud as the upperclassmen. With the help of many enthused Freshmen, who worked diligently, the spirit stick was bestowed upon us. The cheerleaders led us in yelling and inspired us to decorate the lockers and halls.

they advised us

Mrs. Mahoney and Mr. Razor had counseled us when we needed a little assistance with our school predicaments and some that didn't always pertain to school work. When they could, they directed us to solving our own problems in life. Mr. Demas was the "tough, but sweet" principal during our Freshmen year. To most of us, he was a friendly person who seldom showed an upset attitude. Next year we hoped our principal and counselors would be equally as patient and understanding.

FRESH MADE THEMSELVES KNOWN THROUGH SPORTS

The Freshmen football team tied for Steel Valley as they ended their season with a 5 - 1 - 1 record. Coached by Mr. Hura and Mr. Razor, the Freshmen Falcons did an outstanding job on the gridiron. The members of the frosh track team looked very promising and we could hope to have them take us to state. Our expectations were high for our basketball team, as the boys did one excellent job after another; shooting their many scoring baskets.

Police Patrolled Our School

There were new things everywhere you looked. In all the changes where for the better, but some changes were hindrances. The building was much larger and easier to get lost on our way to classes and the thought of a policeman patrolling the school grounds made us feel a little odd at first, but soon it turned out, we had a new friend.

We Searched For Variety

Get up, go to school, go to classes, back home, to bed once more, and then all over again. That was how every one of the five week days began and ended, and it became a vicious cycle. We constantly saw the same faces, used the same books and learned more about the same subjects. If we were lucky we had a substitute and we were even luckier if to break the monotony we had an assembly. Of course if we would have had assemblies every day, they too, would have become boring!

Problems Surrounded Us

As Freshmen and being it was our first year in high school, there were many problems which we had to overcome. The first problem was adjusting to the huge atmosphere at Fitch High School. Then next, we had to face the reality that we were young adults and not act as little kids do. There were also problems for us shorties as we tried to reach the top lockers. The problems were numerous, but next year we hoped to triumph over them.

Through troubled times

We spent many hours in the school building. In fact, it was one third of the day and it wasn't all fun either. There were many troubles, all during the days, weeks, months and the year. How did they expect you to go to the right classes, get through tests and survive through the demerit cards. It was impossible! By the end of the day, your head felt as if it were ready to burst. Next year shouldn't be as bad because we will already be familiar with the ways of high school life.

- T. During the day, the halls were always full of different types of kids. Looking back at the empty halls makes a person wish they were there.
- S. Taking aptitude tests was one way of figuring out what our vocations would be. Tests of all sorts was a major factor of high school.
- R. There was so much to think about. There was the past years and the next three years of high school yet to come. There was graduation and a whole new life that was to come.
- Q. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." That quote certainly applied to this frosh who had a difficult time.
- P. After a year of not cleaning out your locker, it became a real mess. When you finally got around to cleaning it, there were gloves, hats and other items which were given up for lost.
- O. Piling up the knowledge which came to us during our first year at Fitch.
- N. Time is a big factor in anything which happens. There are really no bars which can prevent us from learning.

The Year Passed Quickly

We had a fairly good year despite all the struggling and pains. It had been fun, but now we were ready to move up to the level of Sophomores. Our Freshmen year had only been a small step toward the many adventures that laid before us. We had made it successfully through our first and toughest year.

Sophomores Promoted Spirit

The Sophomores worked as a unified body to generate spirit from their class, to the entire school. They worked after school to paint signs and decorate. They took pride in their team and their school. It demanded many hours of hard work to show how they felt. Their reward was the capture of the spirit stick. Many weeks it was seen in their showcase. They displayed it proudly for all that it meant to them. They were Falcons; they were the Class of '76.

- Z & Y. We showed our Spirit with our great attendance at assemblies.
- X. We found the Spirit Stick in our showcase many times.
- W. This was our symbol, and we were proud of it.
- V. The cheerleaders psyched us for the games.

We had a devoted Council

The sophomore council worked together to keep order among their class. They tried to put forth the ideas of everyone in their class; not the ideas of the same few. The council raised money for future needs, such as prom and graduation, by sponsoring a dance. The music was by Horizon. Having worked in unity with each other on the different council committees, the sophomore council brought the best to their class.

They were always helpful

We always depended on the counselors to offer help to us in solving our problems; both school and personal. They had solutions for most every problem. Mr. Roth appeared everywhere, whether his assistance was needed or not. When needed, he was around the corner. Yet when we were caught skipping or smoking, there was no pity on his part. Our grade principal and counselors did their jobs with the general welfare of the class in mind.

driver ed. was a real trip

Drivers Education was a class that we looked forward to during the day. We had fun and found an opportunity to meet informally with the students in our class. The teachers made the classes interesting and informative. They tried to calm our nerves on our first drive, but after regular practices and became pros. We were determined to get our license, some day a car and then our independence.

a Few of us were Psyched For Learning

We were determined to learn everything new and exciting. By this time most of us had planned what we would do after graduation, so we took subjects that pertained to our future expectations. The teachers did their job by keeping our attention in class. We had fun in acting class, acting out different situations. Although when it came to Biology and Geometry, the fun faded a little. These subjects needed more concentration and efforts. Looking back on our Sophomore year we were grateful for what the teachers brought forth for us to learn and for what we took in for our own purposes.

& Y. Some of the figures in geometry posed problems.
. Acting class was among our favorites.
. Biology was an exciting class where we learned many things about life.

Where were we going

We awaited our 16th birthday, for with it came independence. Only where were we going and what did freedom really mean? Being able to drive, most of us could go where we wanted, without having to ask someone for transportation. We became free to be ourselves because we could then date and go places with our friends. Is that all it meant to be 16? No! We had become young men and women instead of "children". We had started our long, journey into life.

was a year of Solitude

Solitude was a word we all cherished. Just thinking about being alone gave us something to look forward to in our few spare moments. Only when we alone, we became acquainted with the most important people in the world - ourselves. We began to form judgements so that we could support our points of view. When we were absolutely convinced, we were right, we reflected our ideas upon others. This sharing of thoughts helped us all to work together for a better future.

Many of us looked to the future with mixed emotions. We didn't know what it would bring and we were afraid of what the outcome might be. There seemed to be a lot of time to think and many decisions had to be made. The answers weren't easy to come by as it was hard to visualize further education. Our freshman year was a year of experimenting but this year we soon realized we had to settle down and seriously think about our futures.

rings highlighted our Junior Year

The highlight of our Junior year was the Ring Assembly. The auditorium was decorated in carnation pink and sky blue flowers and crepe paper. Speeches were given by our Junior Principal, Mr. Lewis; Mr. Copploe of Copploe's Jewelry; and Joe Zarconi, the Senior Class president. At the conclusion of Joe's speech he presented our Junior Class president, Marie Ferrante, with her ring. She told of how differences in sizes, styles, and colors expressed our individual tastes and personalities. She then presented the Junior Council Representatives, with their rings which in turn, they presented their home rooms with the rings.

Z. This was the beginning of a wonderful relationship.
 Y. In the excitement, very few things missed inspection.
 X. We sat, anticipating the moment when our rings were really ours.
 W. President Marie Ferrante acted as Mistress of Ceremonies.
 V. Council members opened their rings first.

Council was Junior Class Backbone

Besides leading the class government, Junior officers and council members strove for class unity and success. To prepare for Prom and graduation, they had a booth at the Firemen's Festival, held window washes and bake sales, sponsored class ice skating parties, sold suckers at the football games, and maintained the Donut Stand in the morning for a daily source of revenue. Juniors not on council were seen many times participating in their class projects; showing their pride.

Junior

In academic and practical courses, many Junior faces were seen daily. They were to be found in all the shops, kitchens, history classes, and every imaginable academic phase of the Fitch curriculum. Guidance from the Junior counselors, pointed them in the right direction, but the Juniors alone had the power to make their success possible.

- Z. Mr. Cook and Mr. Flickenger were always available.
- Y. Home Ec prepared girls for later life.
- X. Draftsman John Winkle expanded his practical knowledge in the shop.
- W. Foreign students, Janet Portugal and Jan Patel conferred with Mr. Lewis.
- V. Much printed information was available to students in the Junior Office.

Juniors took a Vocation

The bulk of the students at the Mahoning County Joint Vocational School were from Fitch High School. Falcon Juniors were engaged in many courses to learn a trade and prepare to make a living after graduation. Most of them, although not college bound, still needed to study and practice, for their futures depended on it.

Z. Tina Barnett, Dave Fronius, and Debbie Spencer worked on data processing.
Y. Janice Doran practiced finger waves on Karen Krake.
X. Bob Mancini was one of many in the horticulture class.
W. Bob Vitullo looked into the nose of the plane he was building.
V. Kim Moorhead, Pam Cook, Janet Koch, and Sharon Constantino planned to be secretaries.
U. Ray Nemergut and Dan Staffrey worked on a computer.
T. Joe Zitello held the light for Mike Infante while Blane McElwain watched.

Driving Dave's Status

In addition to the many extracurricular school activities, Fitch Juniors supplemented their incomes by holding jobs. Working long, hard, hours that were not always exciting, seemed easier after payday.

- Z. Junior Bob Burns prepared for a career in business, after school.
- Y. Juniors made use of their driving privileges.
- X. Julie Seaborn demonstrated the useful skill she learned at work.

WE FOUND A PIECE OF THE ACTION

A piece of the action was dominated by Juniors in every sport. Juniors were found representing Fitch High School on many varsity and junior varsity sports. Their drive and ambition to succeed was apparent and was acknowledged repeatedly. There were letters awarded to outstanding juniors at the various sports banquets.

O. Even the drill team displayed a flurry of spirited color.

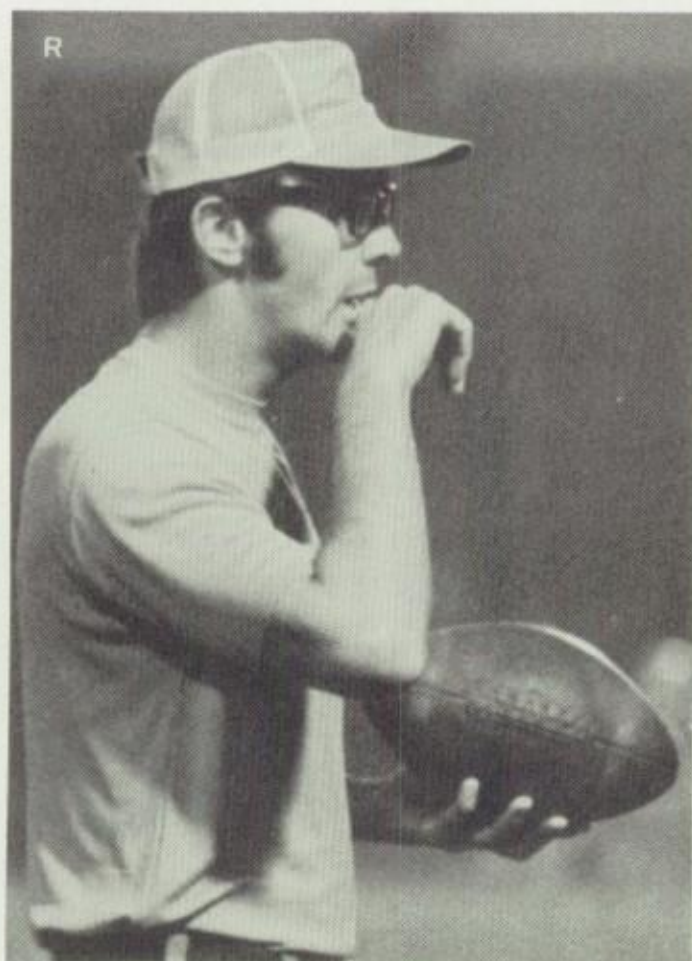

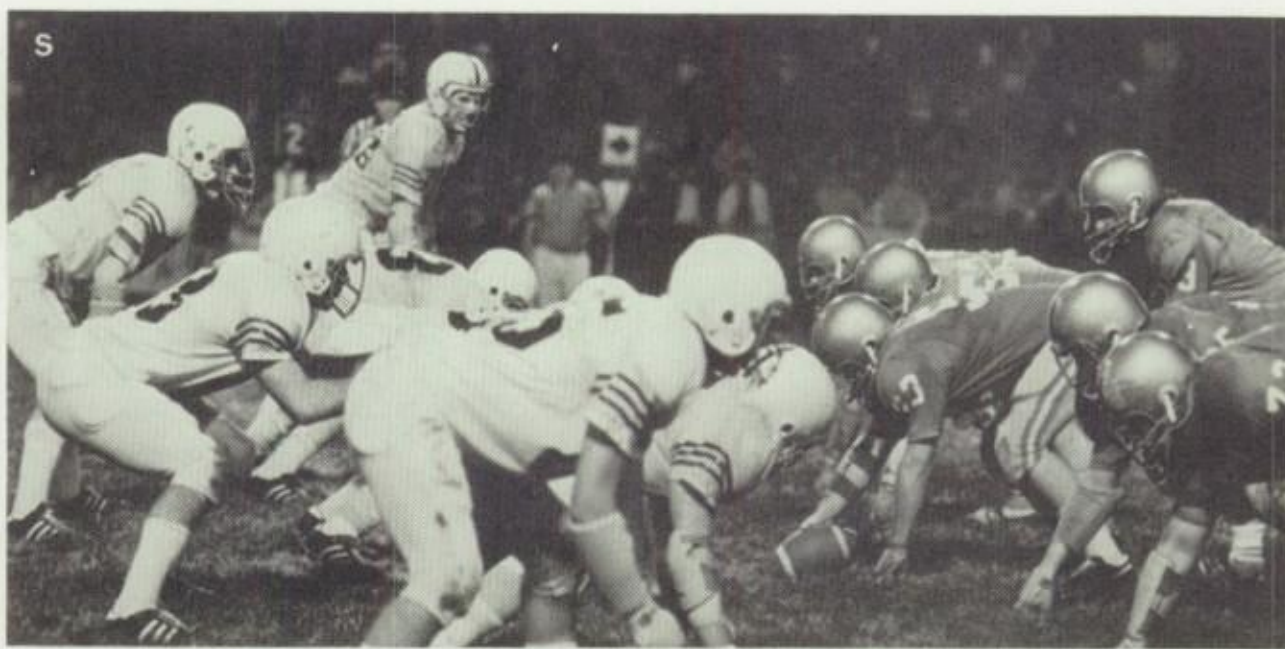

we had spirit

Juniors were leaders in spirit. They decorated rooms and halls to give incentive to our Falcons. The spirit leaders and cheerleaders played integral roles in promoting spirit. Concerned Juniors, out of sheer pride, spent many hours participating in the worthy cause. In the end we were awarded the school spirit stick many times as fruit of our efforts.

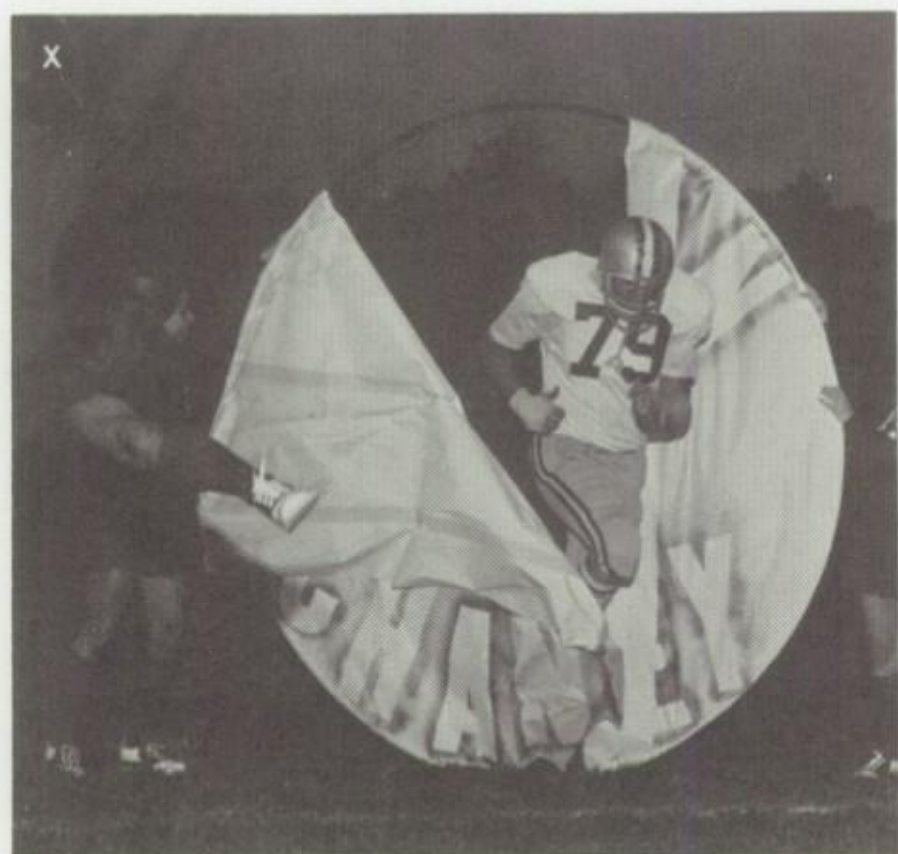

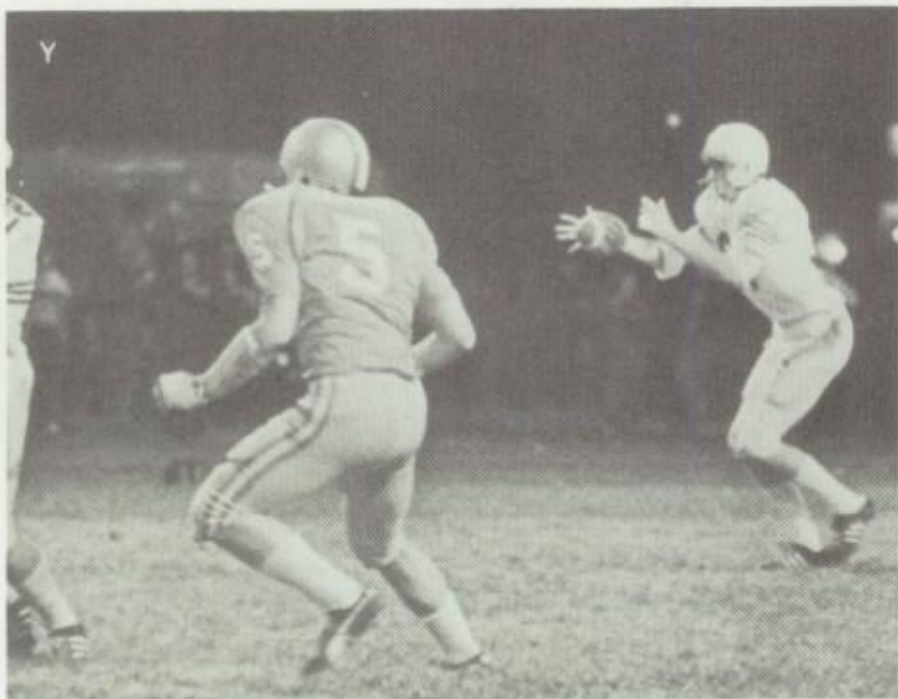

- Z. This is how an option looked to Kieth Lemke.
- Y. Warm-ups before the game, helped the team greatly.
- X. Ron Kohl looked for his recievers, which he often found.
- W. Bob Dimick's runs . . .
- V. . . often ended in triumph.
- U. Against Mooney, the offense ran wild.
- T. Jim Calhoun, all Steel Valley guard, was often called on for his key blocks.
- S. The offensive line, consisted of much talent.
- R. Offensive line coach, Mr. Sachire, was a study of concentration . . .
- Q. . . and offensive guard coach, Mr. Lahoski, looked occupied too.

many veterans

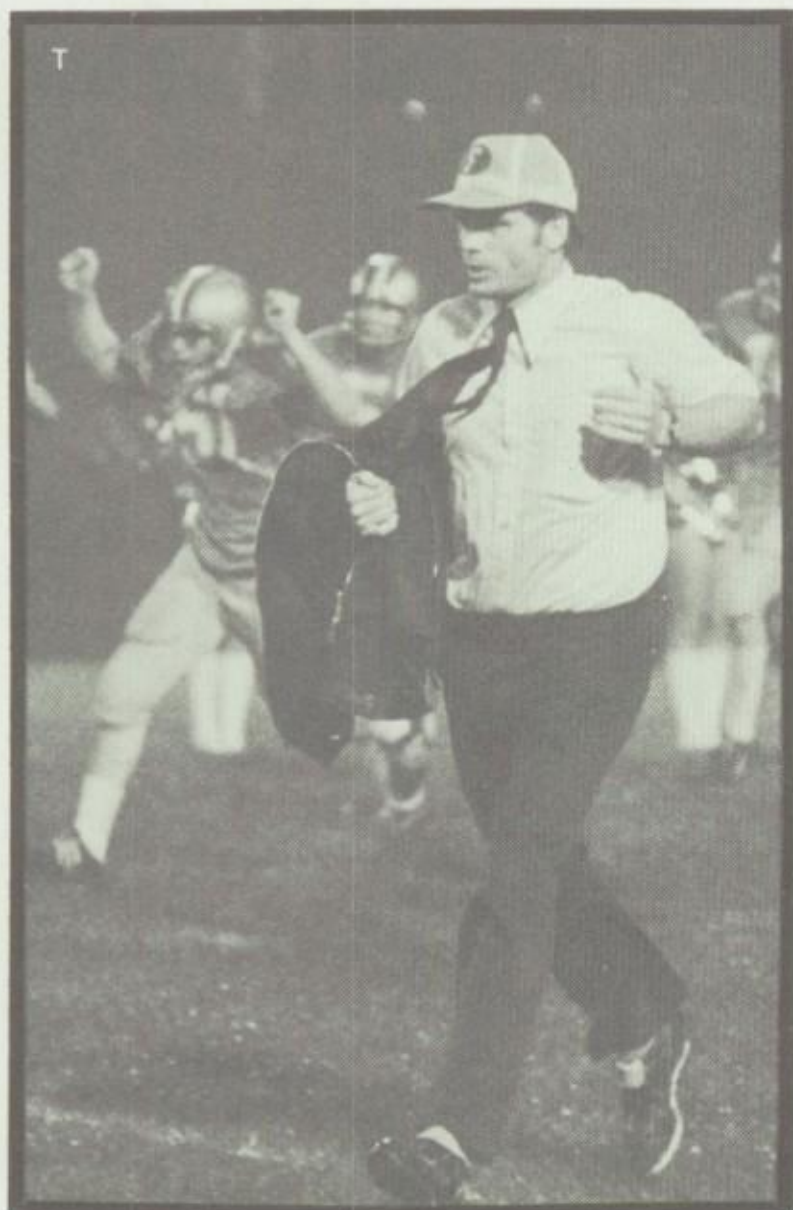

returned to the team

On this year's girls' basketball team, everyone could be considered a star, as all contributed to each win. The Falcons' fast break offense and 2-1-2 defense, made a winning combination. Miss Reha said that the team was exceptionally easy to coach because each had determination and desire to be successful. They worked extra hard to improve themselves and helped each to improve. "There is a great feeling of cooperation and a great feeling of the word, team."

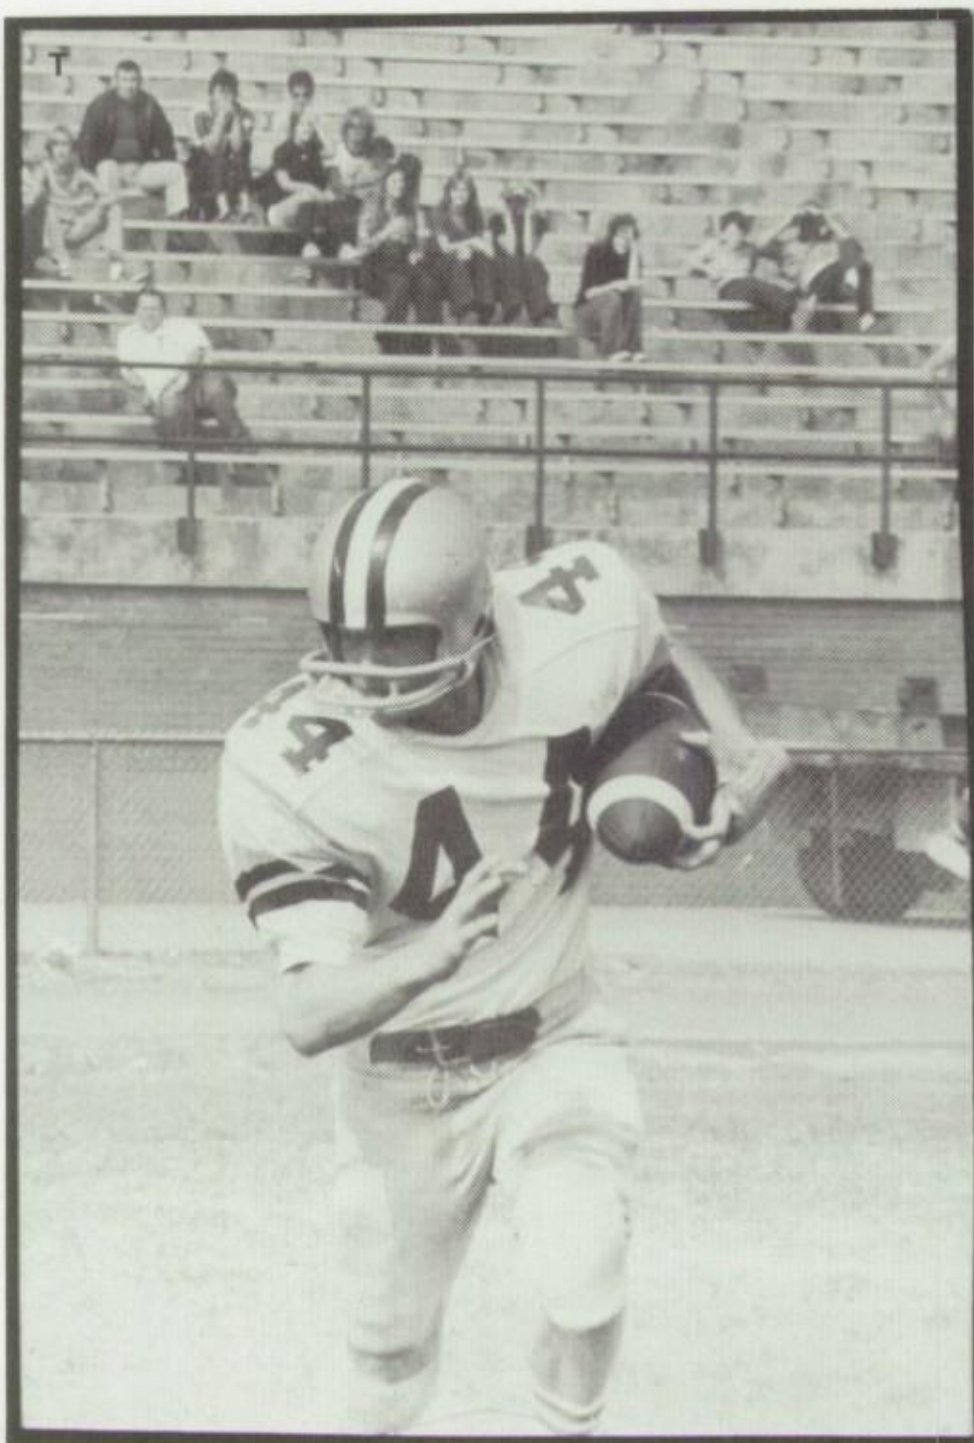

- Z. Thursday, the day before the game, held many last minute changes.
- Y. The defense was good at returning punts.
- X. Mike Chizmar enjoyed breaking the hoop.
- W. A solid interception was made by Tim Stevens.
- V. Middle linebacker, Jim Shina, was great at filling the opposition's holes.
- U. Howard Stamp, tackle, made the difference in our favor.
- T. The head coach, Mr. Price, led his fired-up team on the field, with pride.
- S. Defensive ends, Mike Dockry and Mickey Brooks, stopped the opponents outside running threat.
- R. John Pitlick, was not only good at defending a pass, but could "stick" to the ball carrier also.

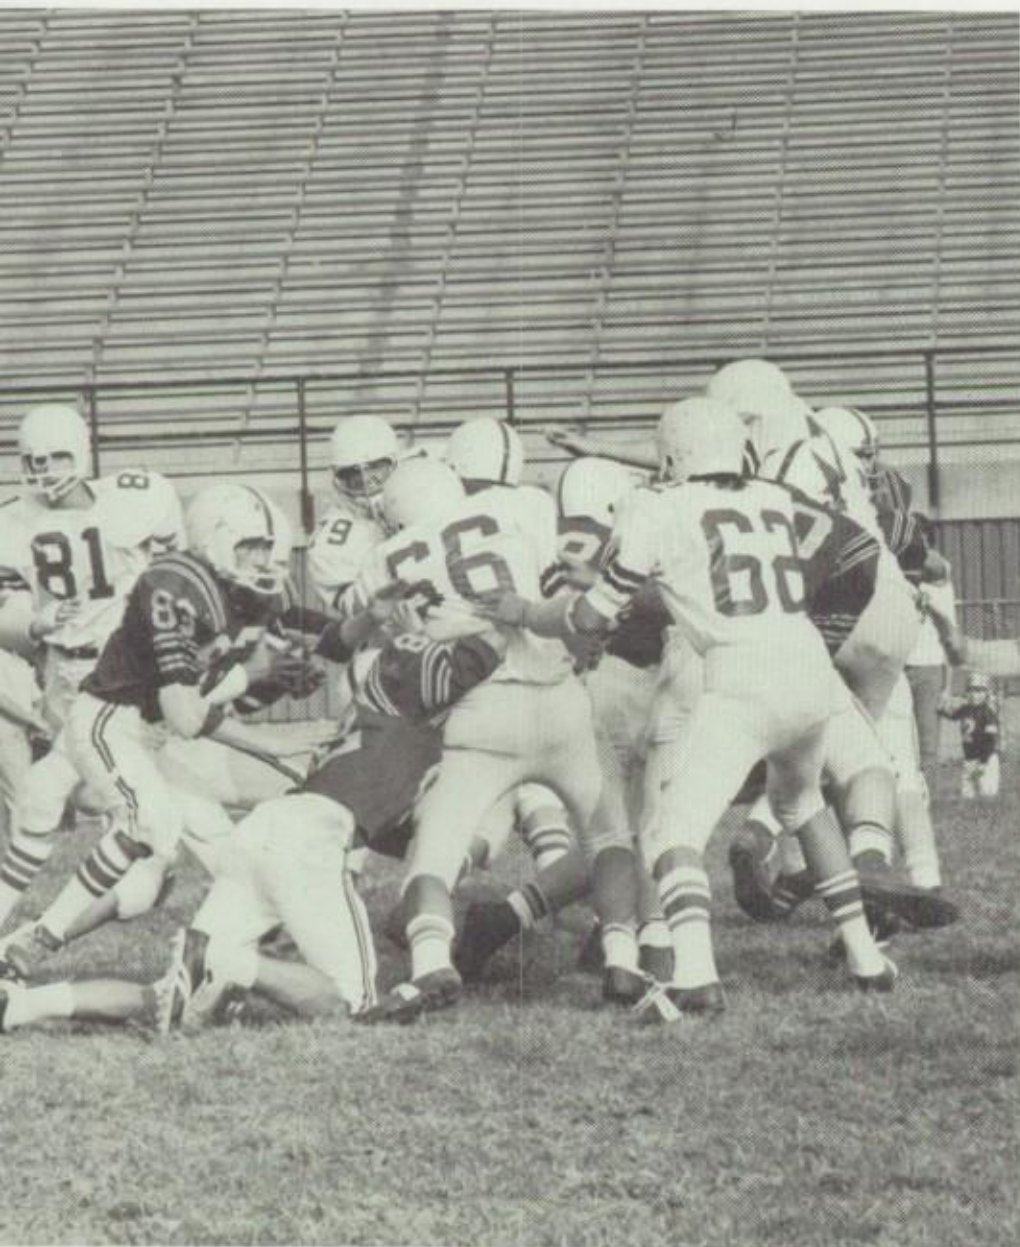

Defense Played Aggressively

The defensive team this year was a team with pride. After the first two games, the defense came through with two shutouts of the next four games. The "D", as the players called it, was made up of eight lettermen. Mike Chizmar, one of the defensive players, made honorable mention on the all Northeastern Ohio all star team. Other defensive standouts were Jim Shina, Rick Kieffer, Mike Dockry, Mickey Brooks, John Pitlick, Tom Winterburn, and Howie Stamp.

- T. Slot back, Bill Winterburn, found that self effort along with use of your team made a fantastic duet.
- S. Mike May's fine kicking showed great promise for the years to come.
- R. Quarterback, Mike Sachire, used exceptionally great ball control and quick thinking to fulfill his position.
- Q. defensive team work led to many gang tackles.
- P. Jim Winterburn a great quarterback, became a fantastic running back early in the season.
- O. The frosh squad defensive showed the same great team work as all Fitch teams.
- N. Doug McGlynn displayed his ability as a power runner.
- M. The frosh showed the Mooney Cardinals a preview of what was in for them in the years to come.

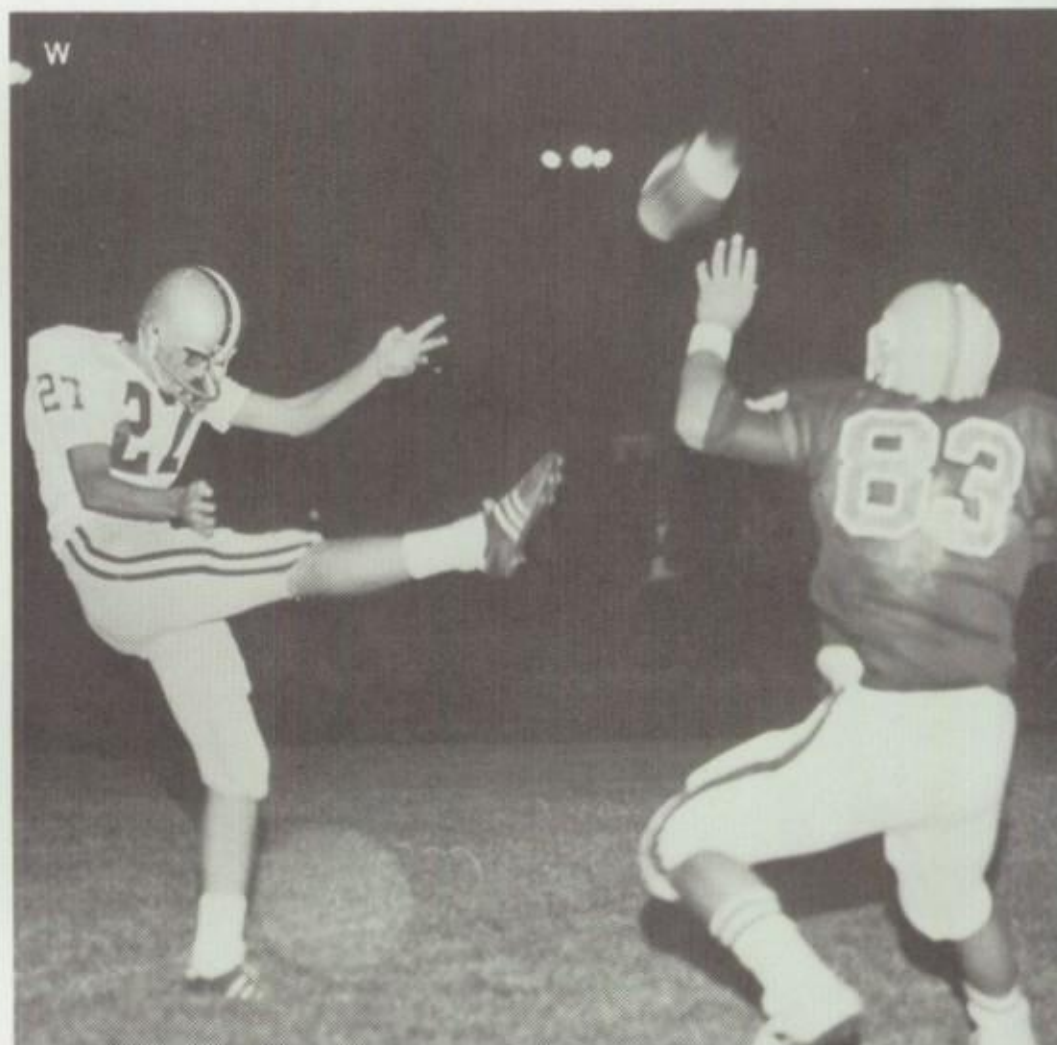

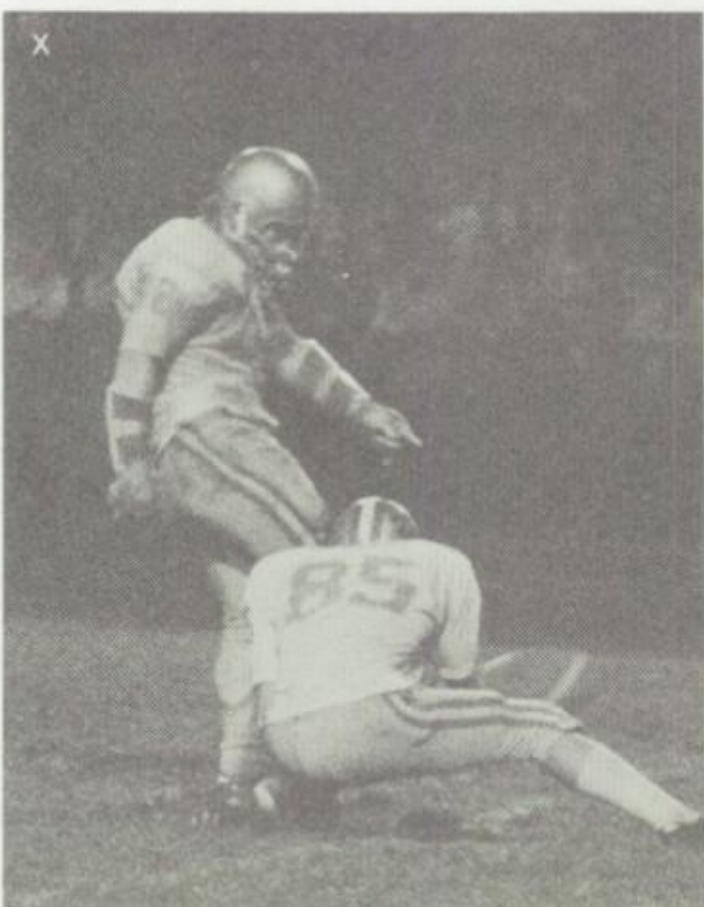

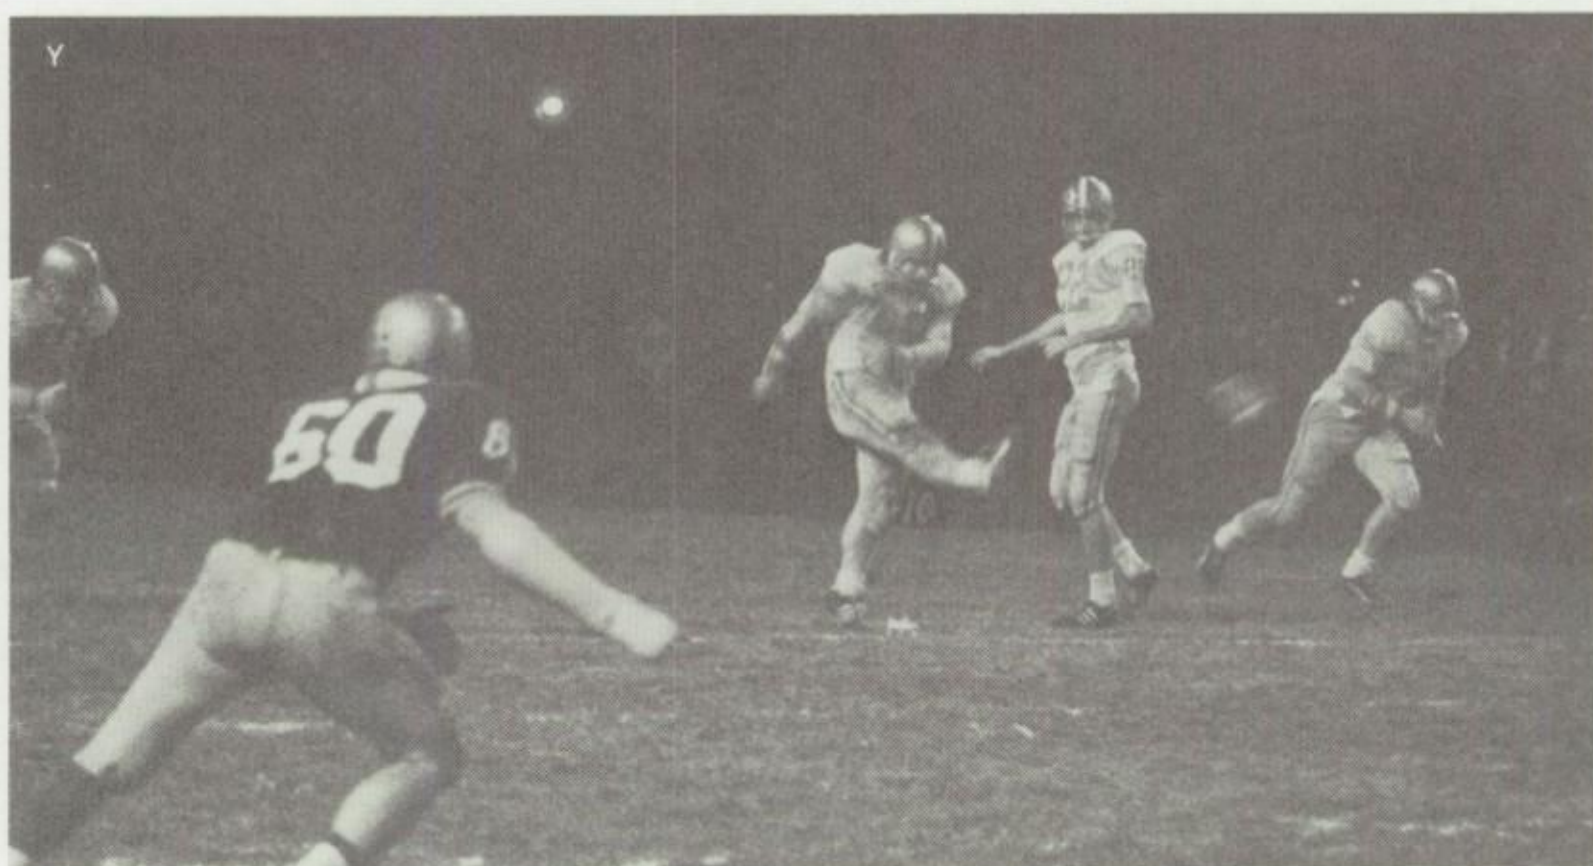

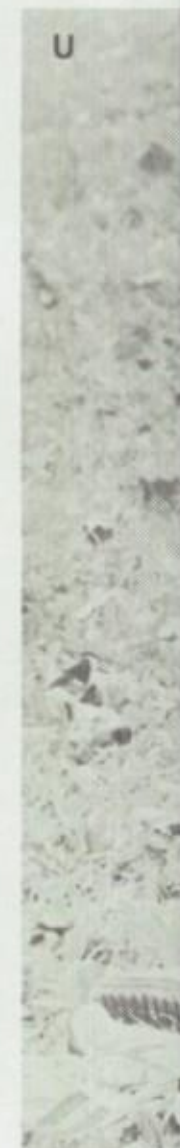

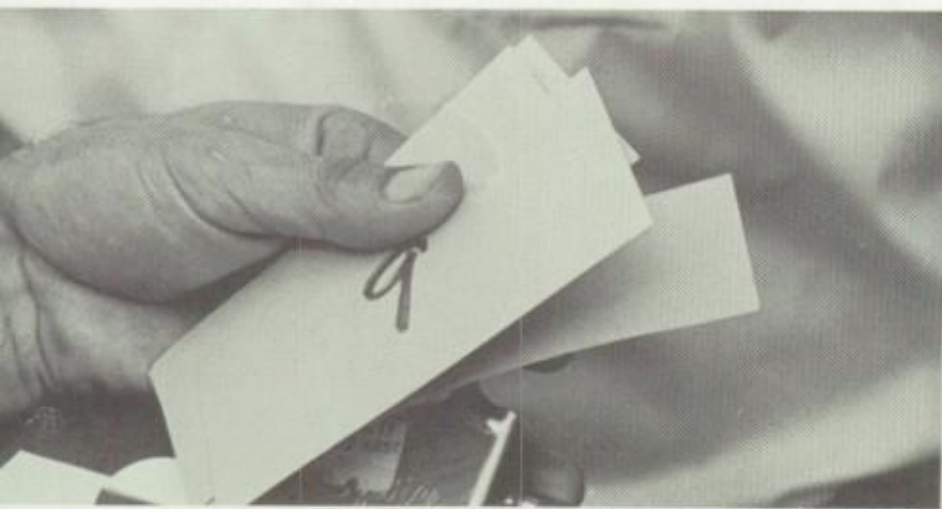

Showed Great Promise

Jr's & Fresh

The Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. Borek and Mr. Thompson, showed great promise for the varsity in years to come. With a 6 - 3 - 1 record, the Junior Varsity played such tough competition, as Mooney, Ursuline and Warren Harding. Showing great achievements to be surpassed in their future were Mike May, as he kicked a 32 yard field goal. Paul Markovsky and Ken Riefler were exceptional running backs. The Freshmen, coached by Mr. Hura and Mr. Razor, also looked good with a 5 - 1 - 1 record. They played a tough schedule and definitely came through like true Falcons. Freshmen standouts were Jim Winterburn at tailback, Doug McGlin at fullback and John Maslack at outside linebacker.

- Z. Rick Kieffer, defensive captain, was also the center for Bob Wire's extra points.
- Y. Bob Wire was successful at kick offs
- X. as well as extra points.
- W. Putting all he had into it, Steve Sachre boomed another great punt.
- V. Falcons often found themselves in the top ten.
- U. The Falcons got ready for another successful season.
- T. Doug Scharsu, a sophomore, was a winning asset to the team.
- S. Tragedy struck all, when Dalvin Baehler got hurt.

about Fitch C.C.

The idea of the Speciality Team was to run down the field as fast, as one can, like a maniac, and destroy everything and anything that had the opponents colors displayed. This year's Speciality Team did just that. Most people overlooked our speciality unit, but it played a major role in the Falcon's season.

The Cross Country team had another undefeated season (6 - 0) in dual meets. Was their winning season due to the coach's talent, or was it how the coach motivated his runners? The runners felt it was both, and were glad Coach Garcia was there.

- Z. Senior, Alex Shaffo, worked hard for his team.
- Y. Ken Erdner usually placed among the first 15 in dual meets.
- X. Dalvin Baehler, who placed 7th in state competition, suffered an injury early in the season, but recovered very well.
- W. Bob Dannels's first year as a Cross Country runner ended up to be a great success.
- V. The backs of Fitch harriers was all that most runners ever saw of them.
- U. October athlete of the month, senior Bob Lunn, was a great Cross Country runner.
- T. Most Falcon runners did not use that much time to run the course.

"coach" motivated

Dalvin Baehler was a very good runner and competitor, but competing with Bob Lunn, Dalvin was a little underrated. At the state meet he finished 7th. Several other runners, such as Bob Dannessa, Doug Scharsu, Jim Little, Tom Corbett and Paul Giba also finished close behind Lunn.

- T. Coach Garcia was the kind of man that could listen to the boys' problems.
- S. "Let's get in a straight line now."
- R. Senior, Paul Stevens, had what it takes to be a Fitch Harrier.
- Q. Dalvin Baehler says, "It takes guts to be a great runner".
- P. "Runners ready?"
- O. Sophomore, Kevin Kemp, will know doubt follow in Jeff Kunkle and his brother's (Rich Kemp) foot steps.
- N. "Go!"
- M. For his great performance in Cross Country, Bob Lunn was voted "Most Athletic" of the senior class.

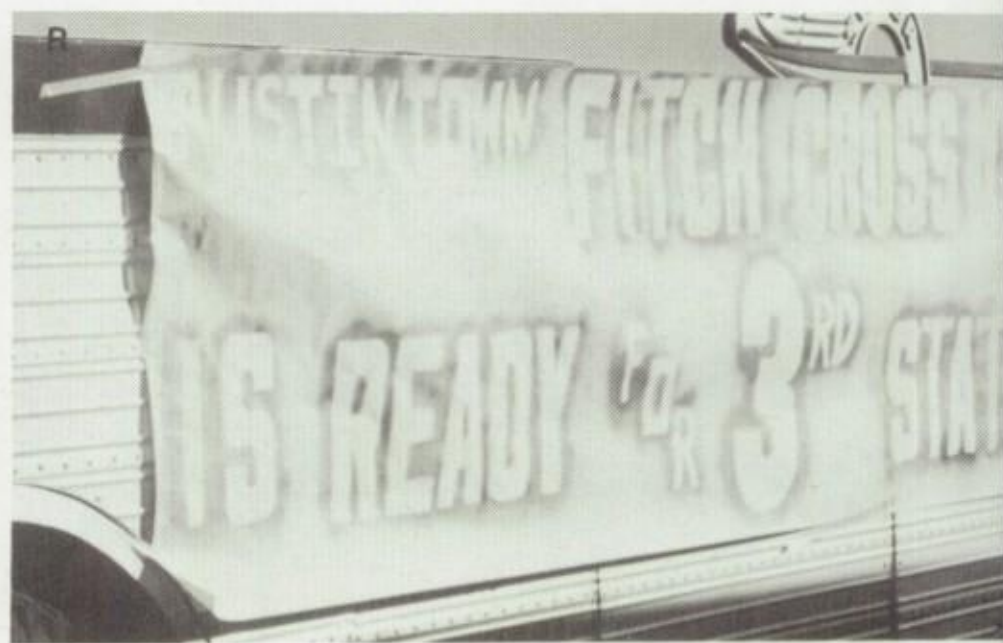

THE WORK PAID OFF

The track team ran to another Steel Valley Championship, with Bob Lunn heading the team. Dalvin Baehler came in second preceeding the rest of the team. Bob Lunn was also voted athlete of the Month in October 1973. Cross Country was and is the most winning sport in the school.

T

they ran to another State meet

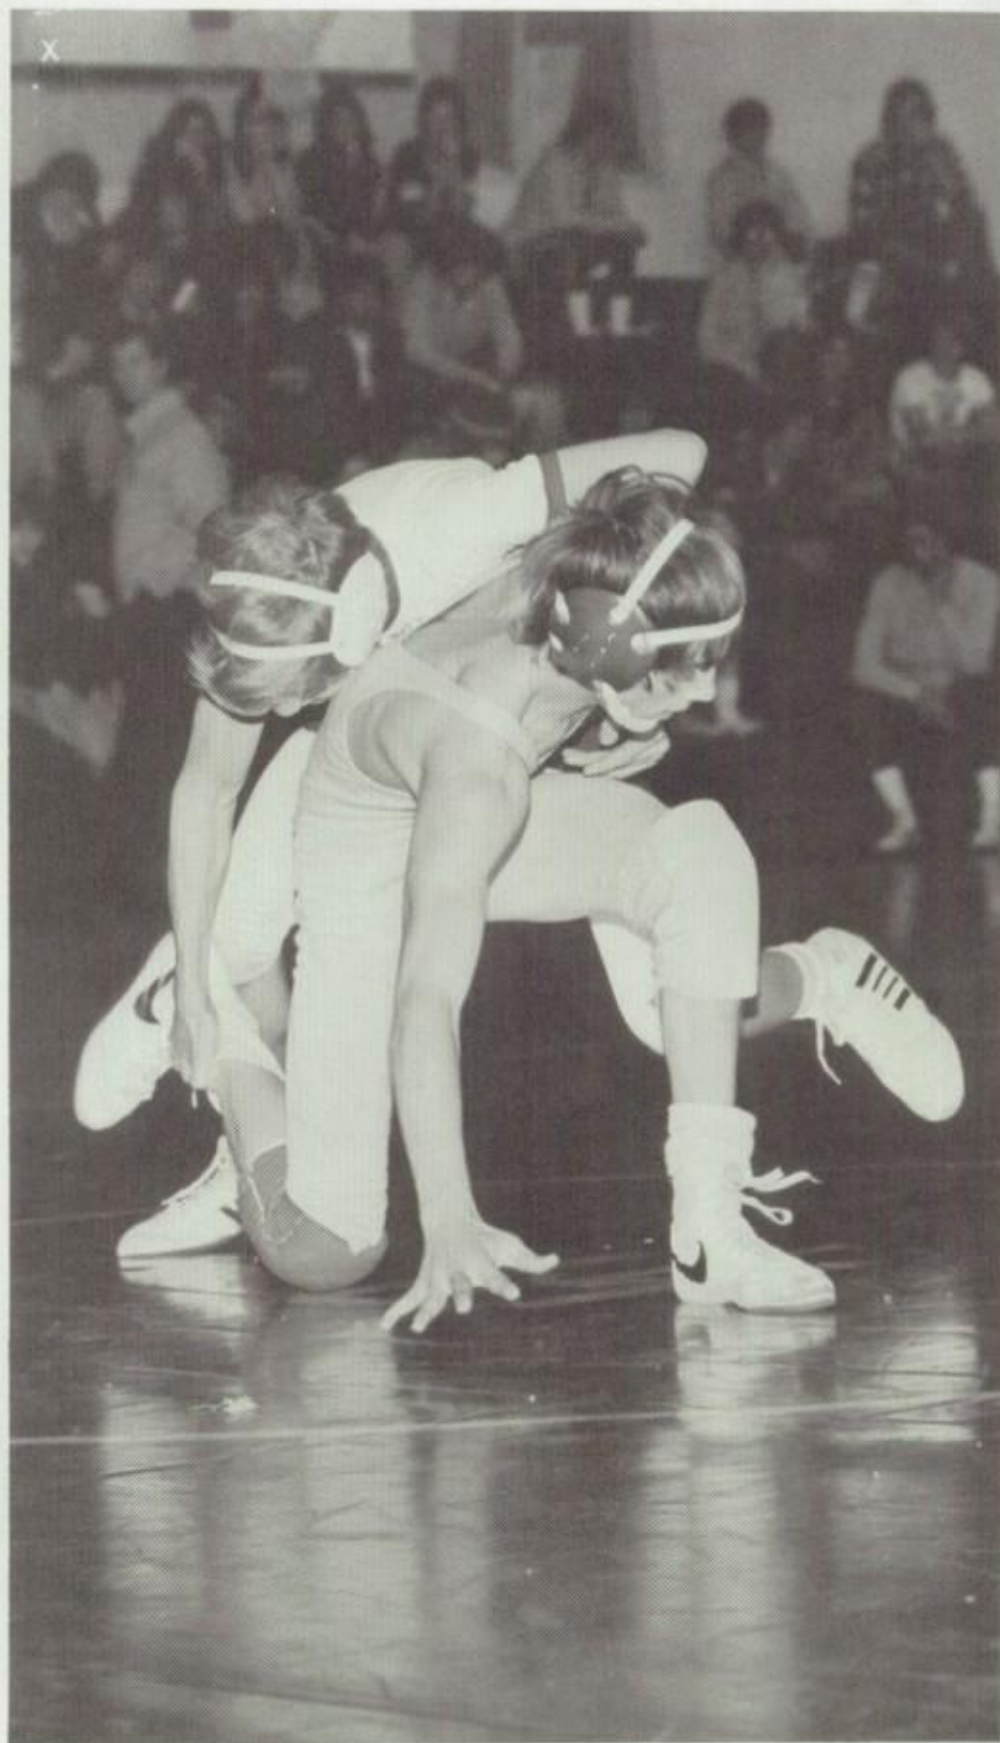

The State Cross Country Meet was an event of confusion and disappointment for the Falcon Harriers. It was confusing because of the finish, but the new State Champs could have been hurt too. There was disappointment to the runners, but the school should be proud of this team. Cross Country made Austintown-Fitch a name to be feared and a team to beat. Bob Lunn finished 3rd and Dalvin Baehler, with a valiant effort, finished 7th.

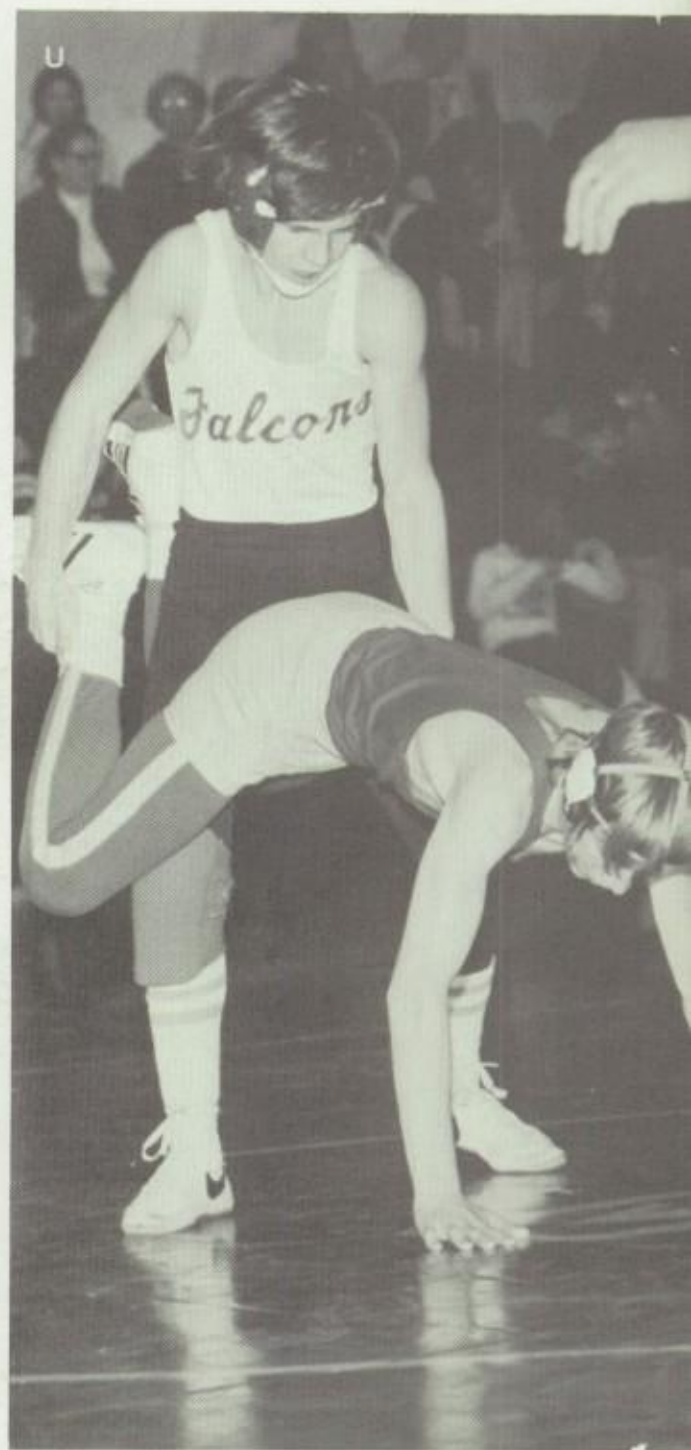

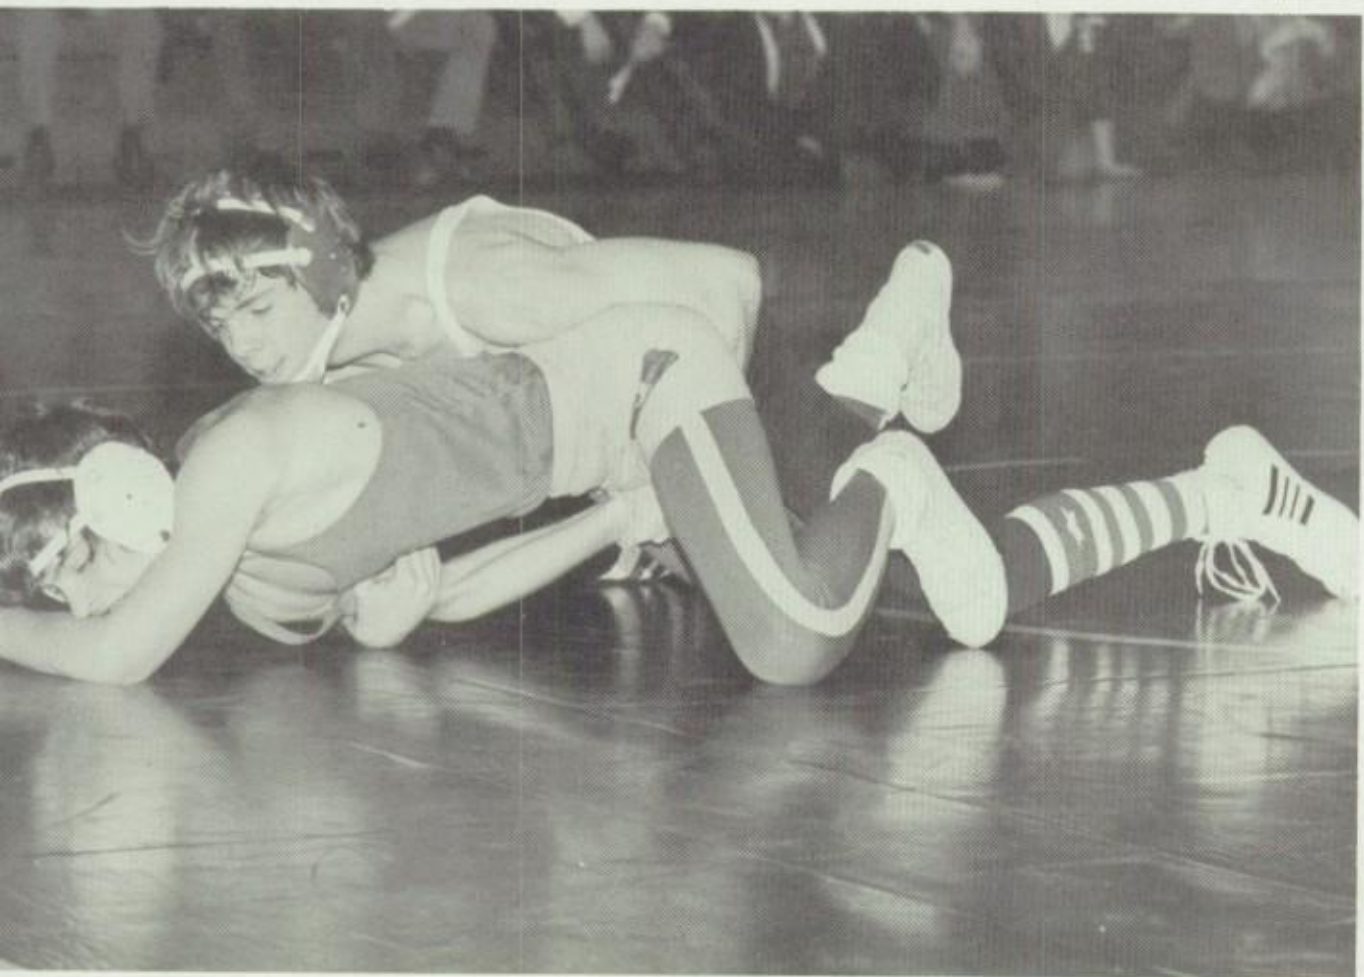

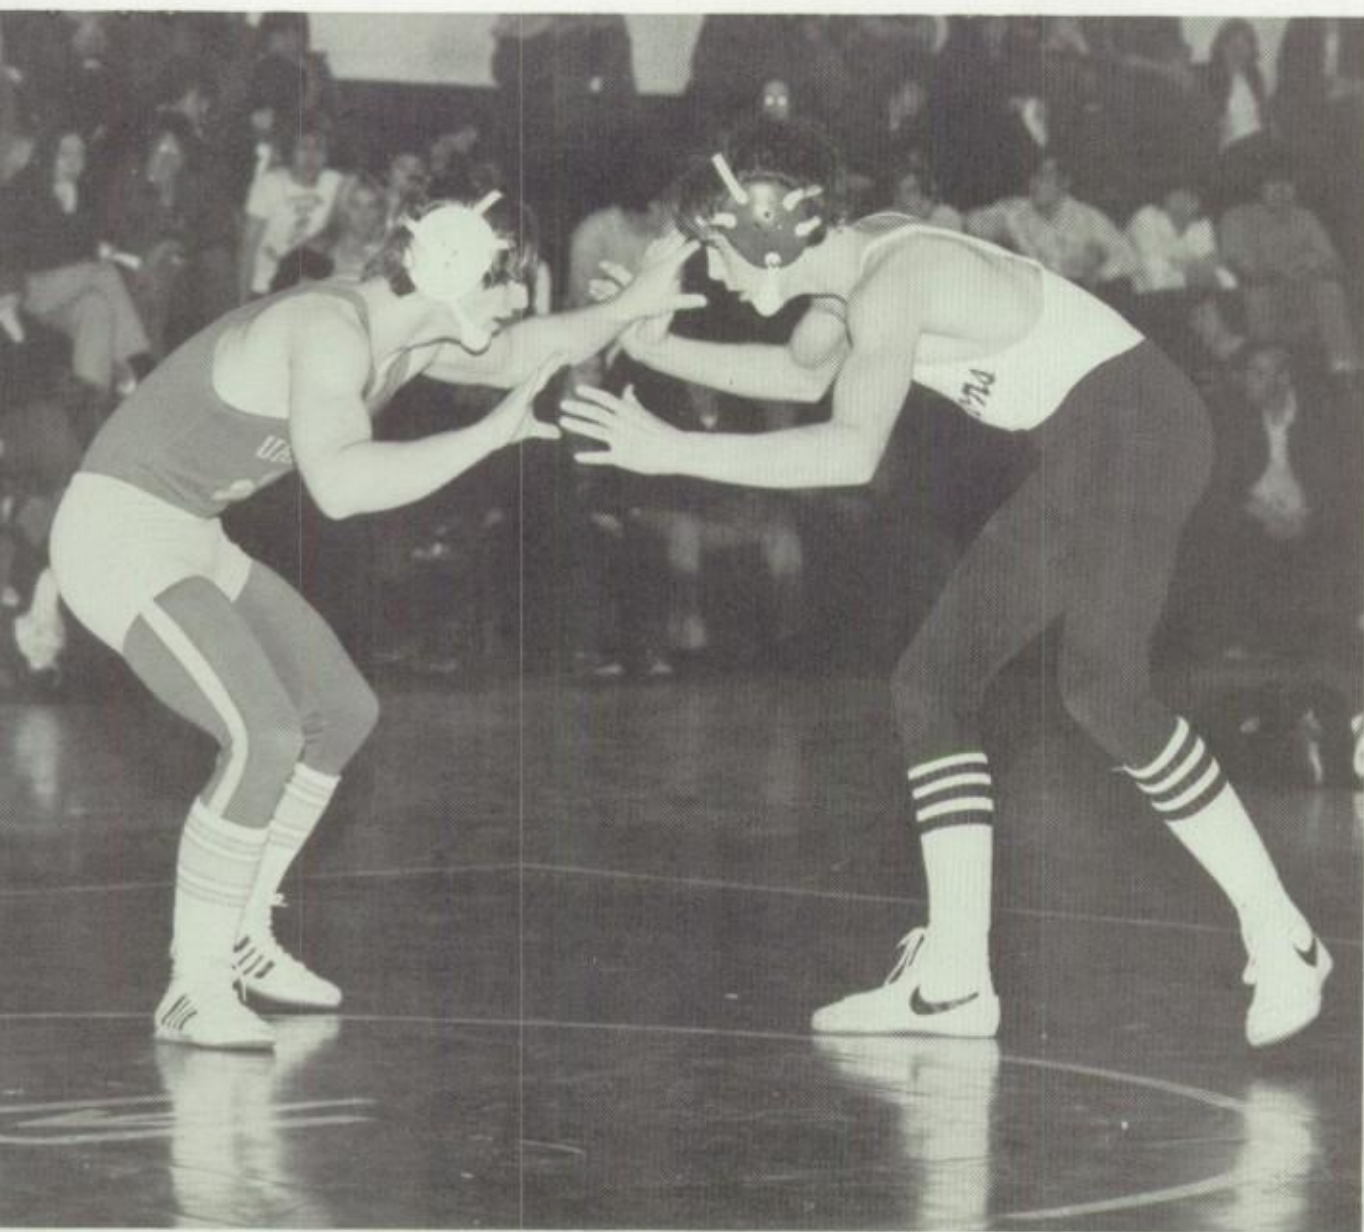

- T. They're off to another state meet.
- S. Fitch runners talked and got familiar with the course.
- R. Woul we or wouldn't we?
- Q. Mr. Garcia showed what an outstanding coach he was through his great sportsman-ship.
- P. Second yaer man, Jim Little, displayed his great ability in running.
- O. Bob Lunn finished out his high school career with mixed emotions.
- N. Falcon Harriers looked on eagerly for the results.
- M. Senior, Paul Giba, finished the year with a fantastic showing at state.

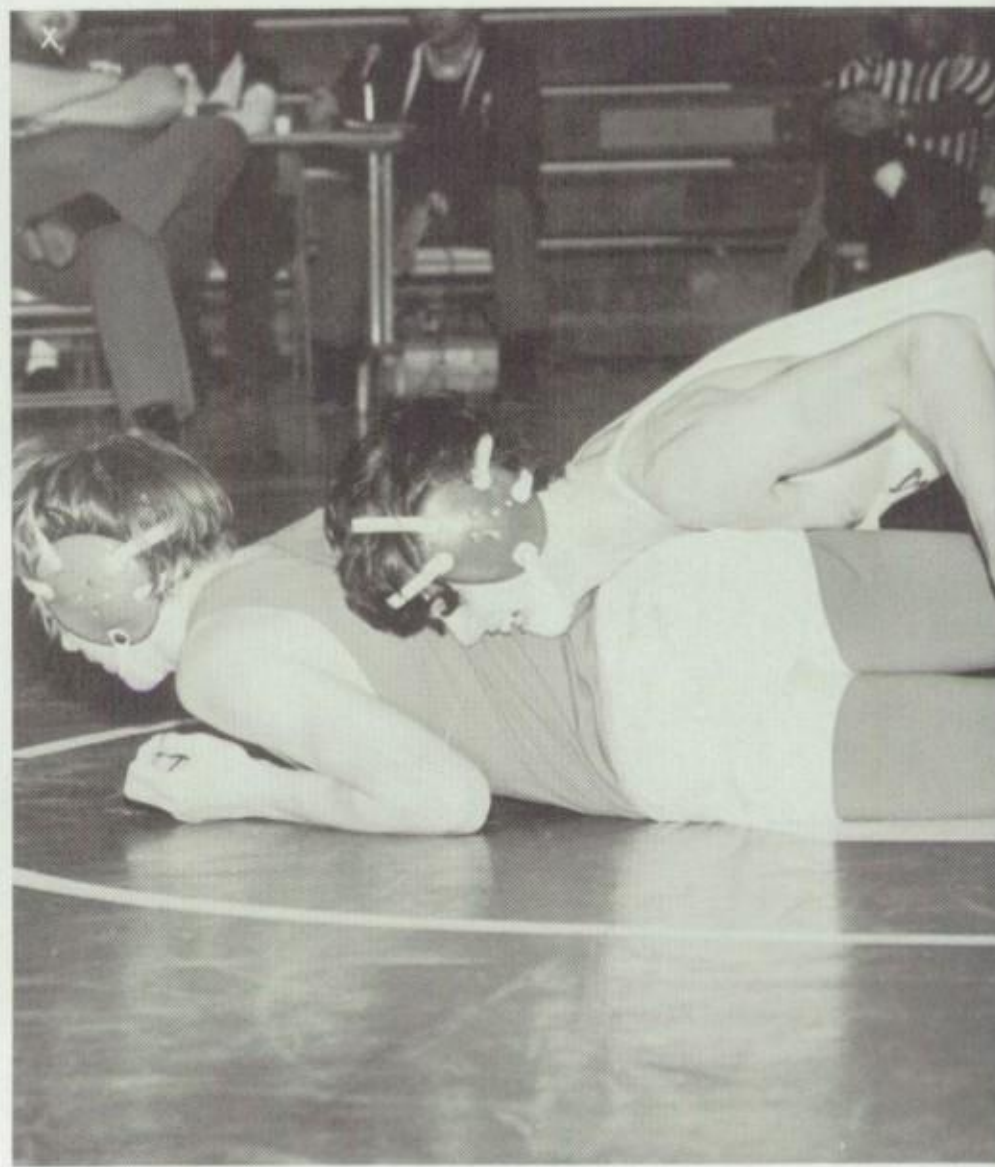

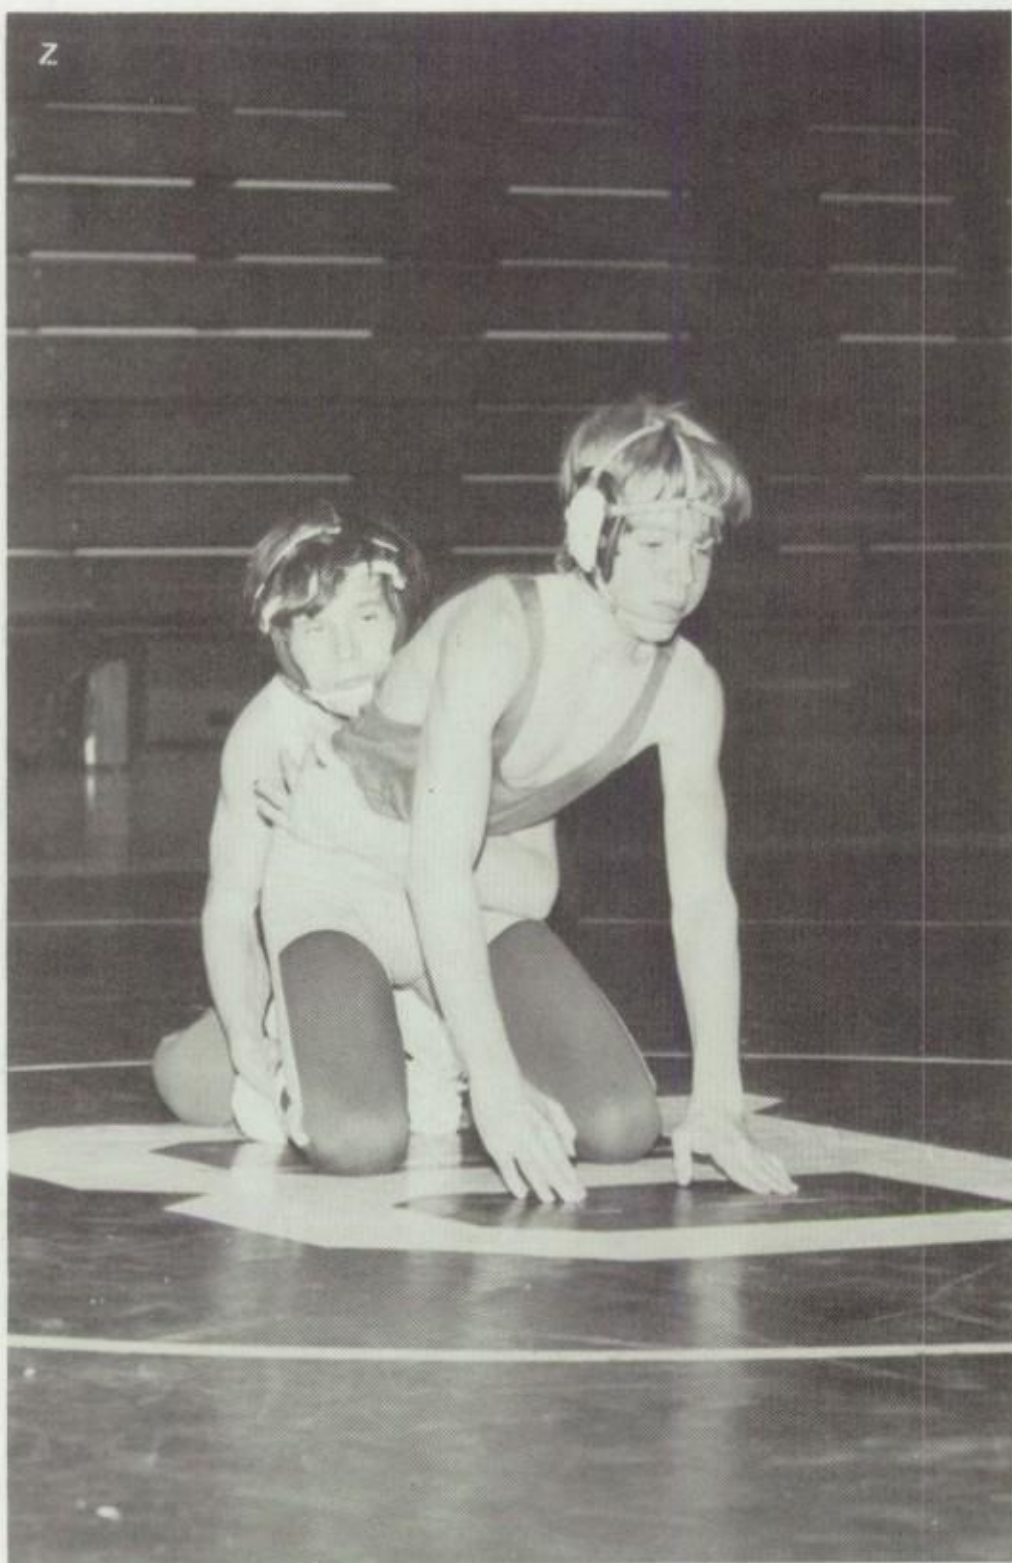

Wrestling is a sport of dedication and desire. The dedication comes in when a wrestler has to lose ten pounds in five days. There was no force on the part of the coach, only self dedication. The desire was to win. The idea of being one-on-one with your opponent, puts a desire in a person to excel and excel is what the Falcons did this year, winning the Eastern Ohio Wrestling League and the Steel Valley Championship.

- Z. Bob Danadee had his opponent tied in knots.
- Y. It's a 98 pound victory.
- X. There are times when wrestling gets on your back.
- W. Dane Stilgenbauer attempts to seize another victory.
- V. The "Falcon Ride" as demonstrated by Mike Flynn.
- U. Come on! This isn't a wheel barrel race.

The Grappers Fought Proudly

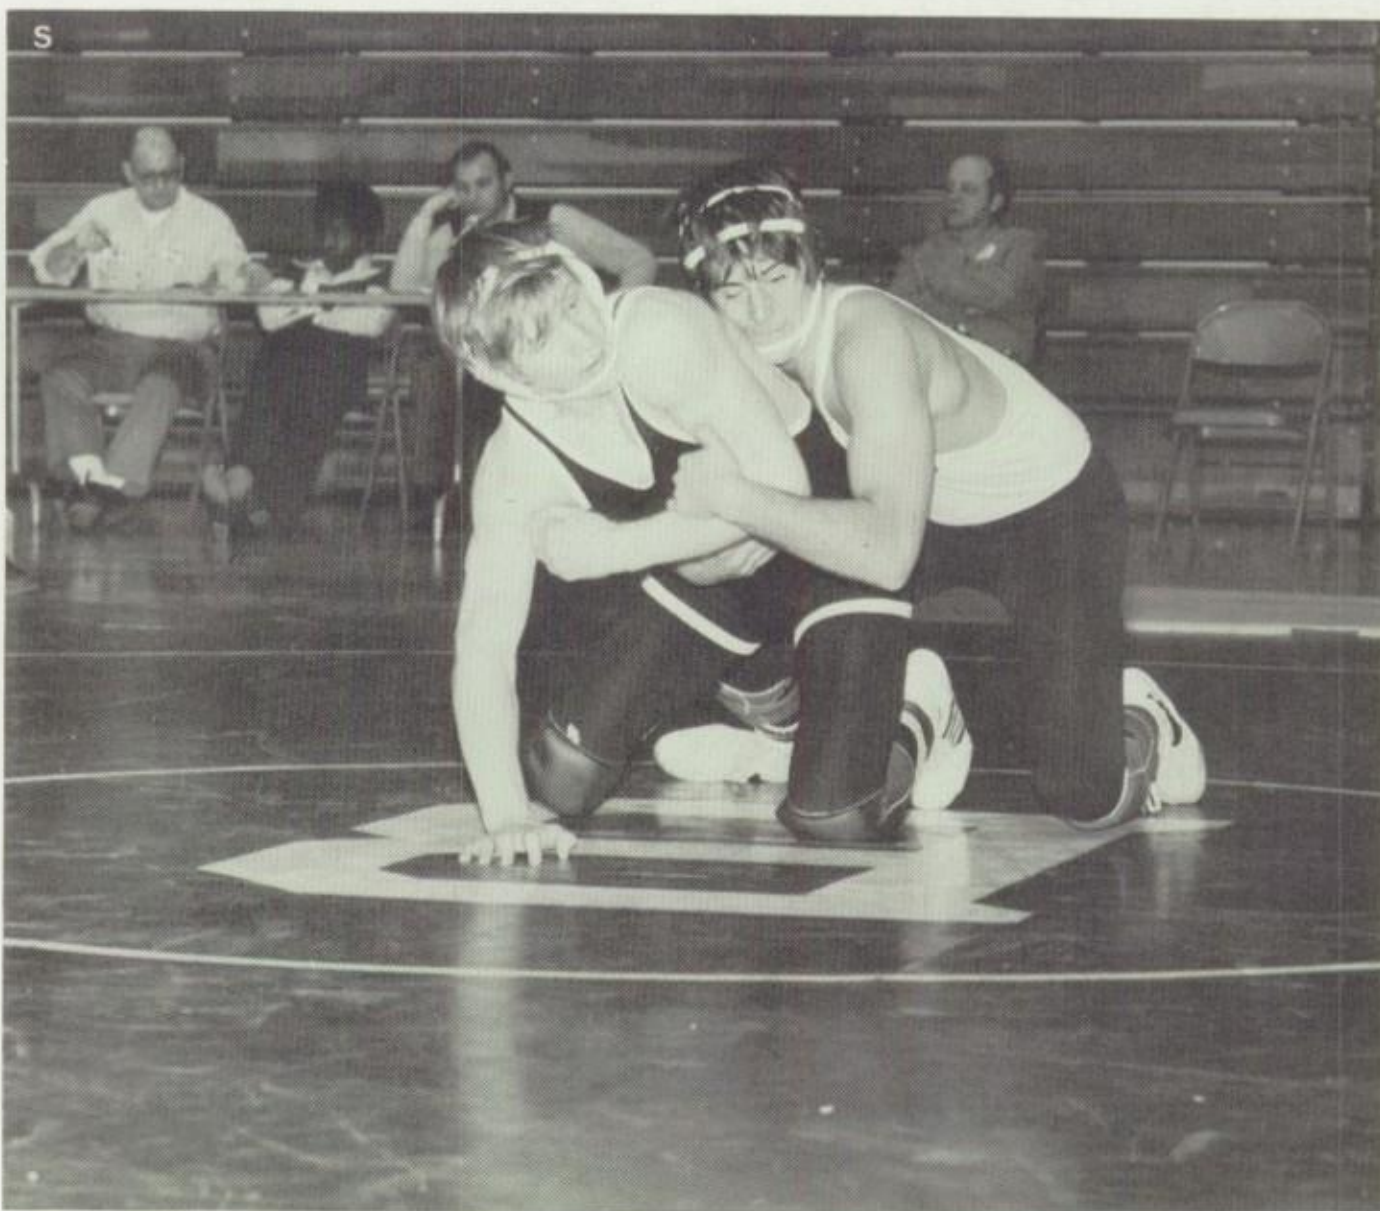

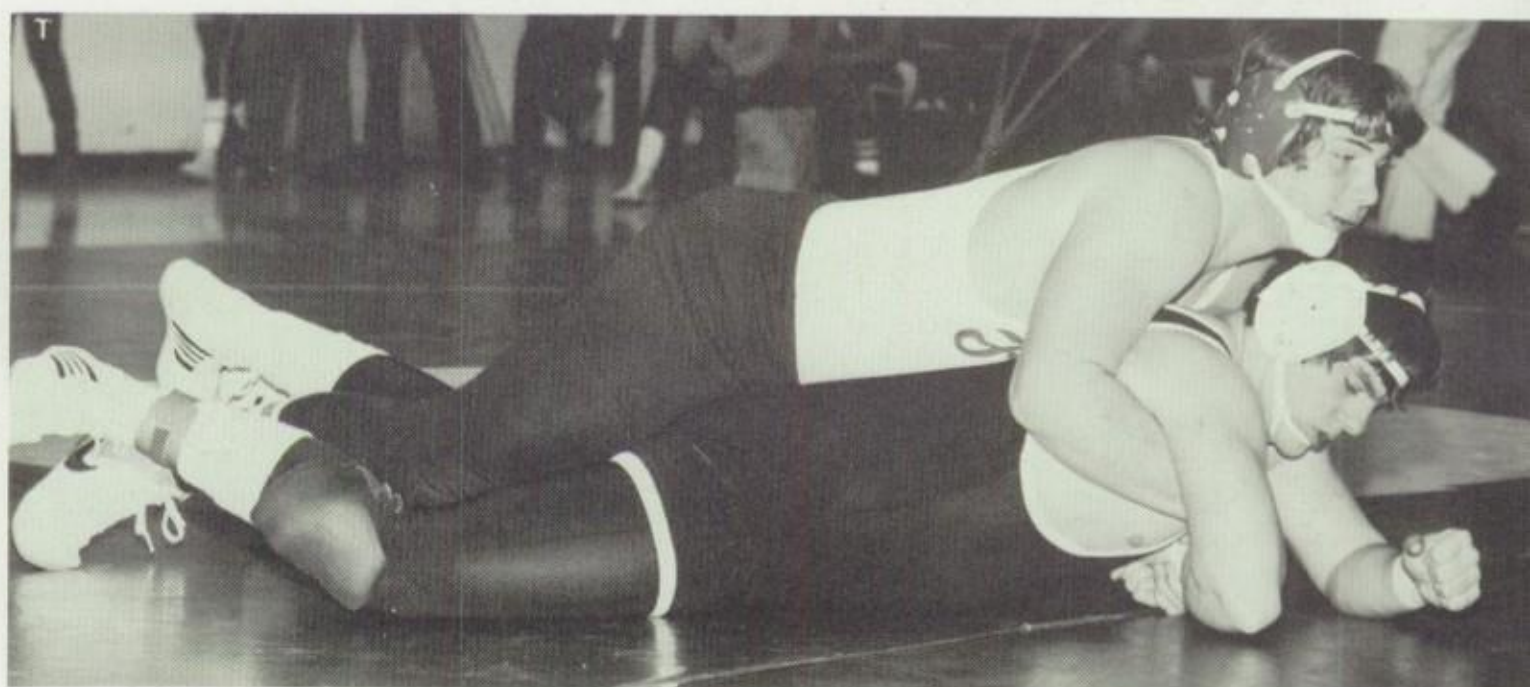

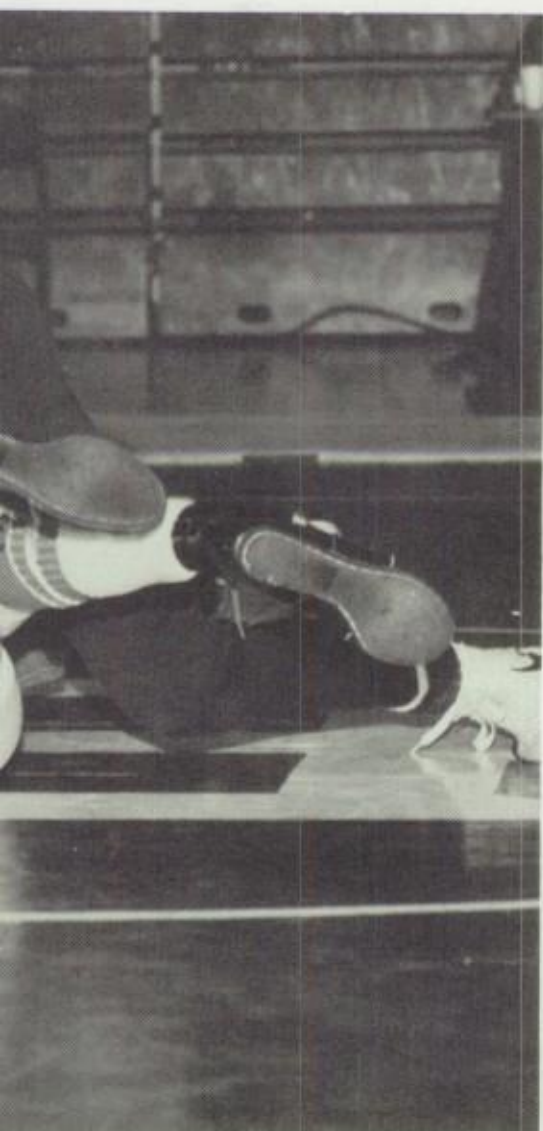

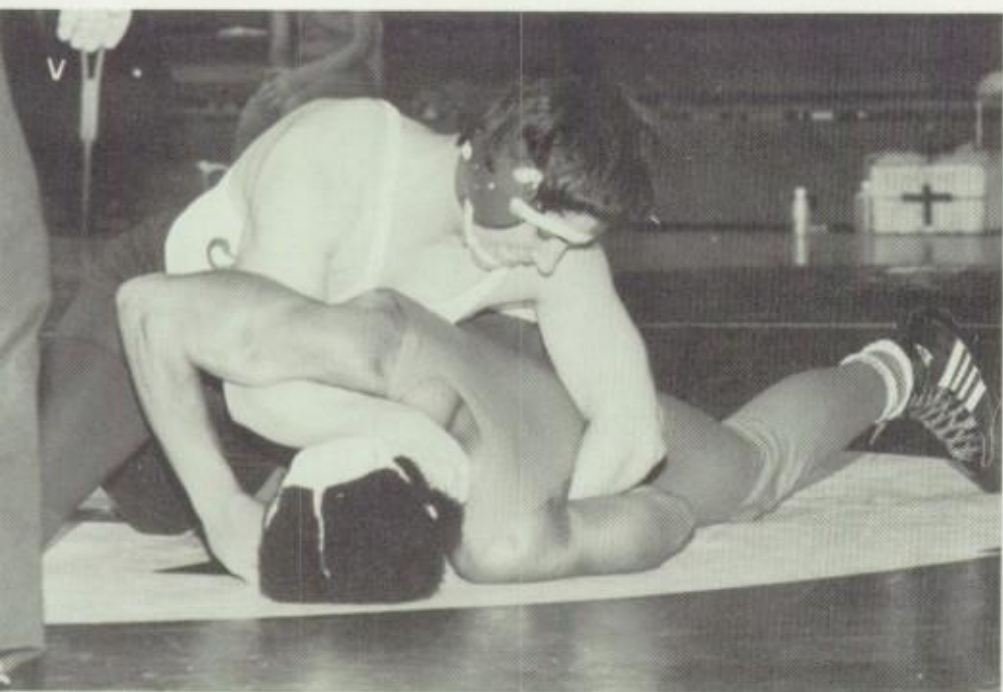

Z

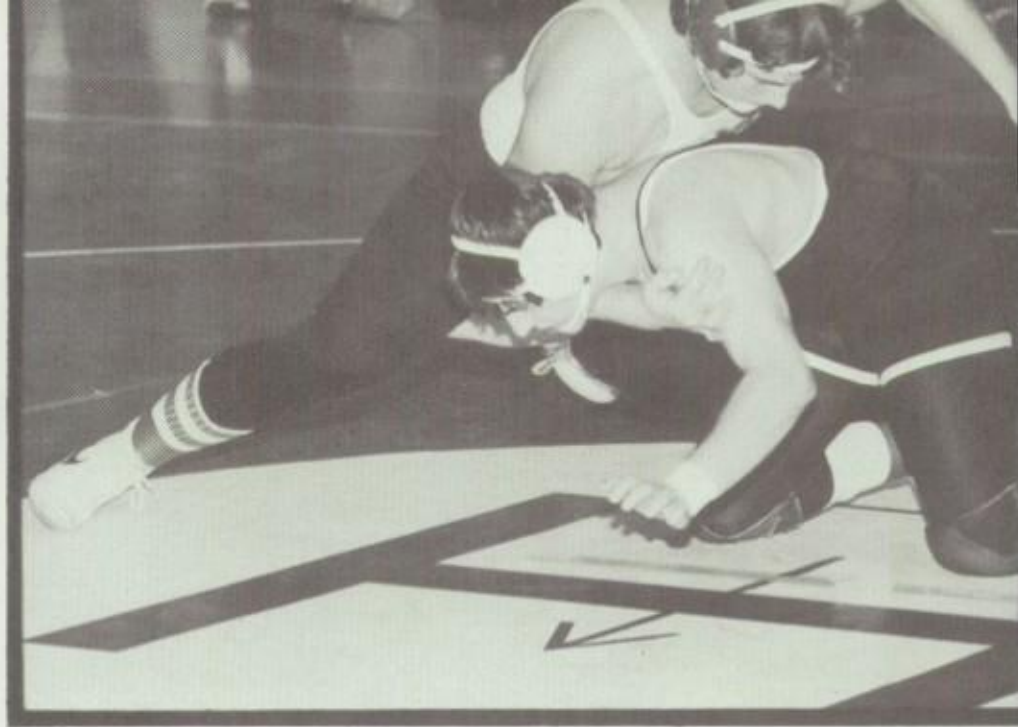

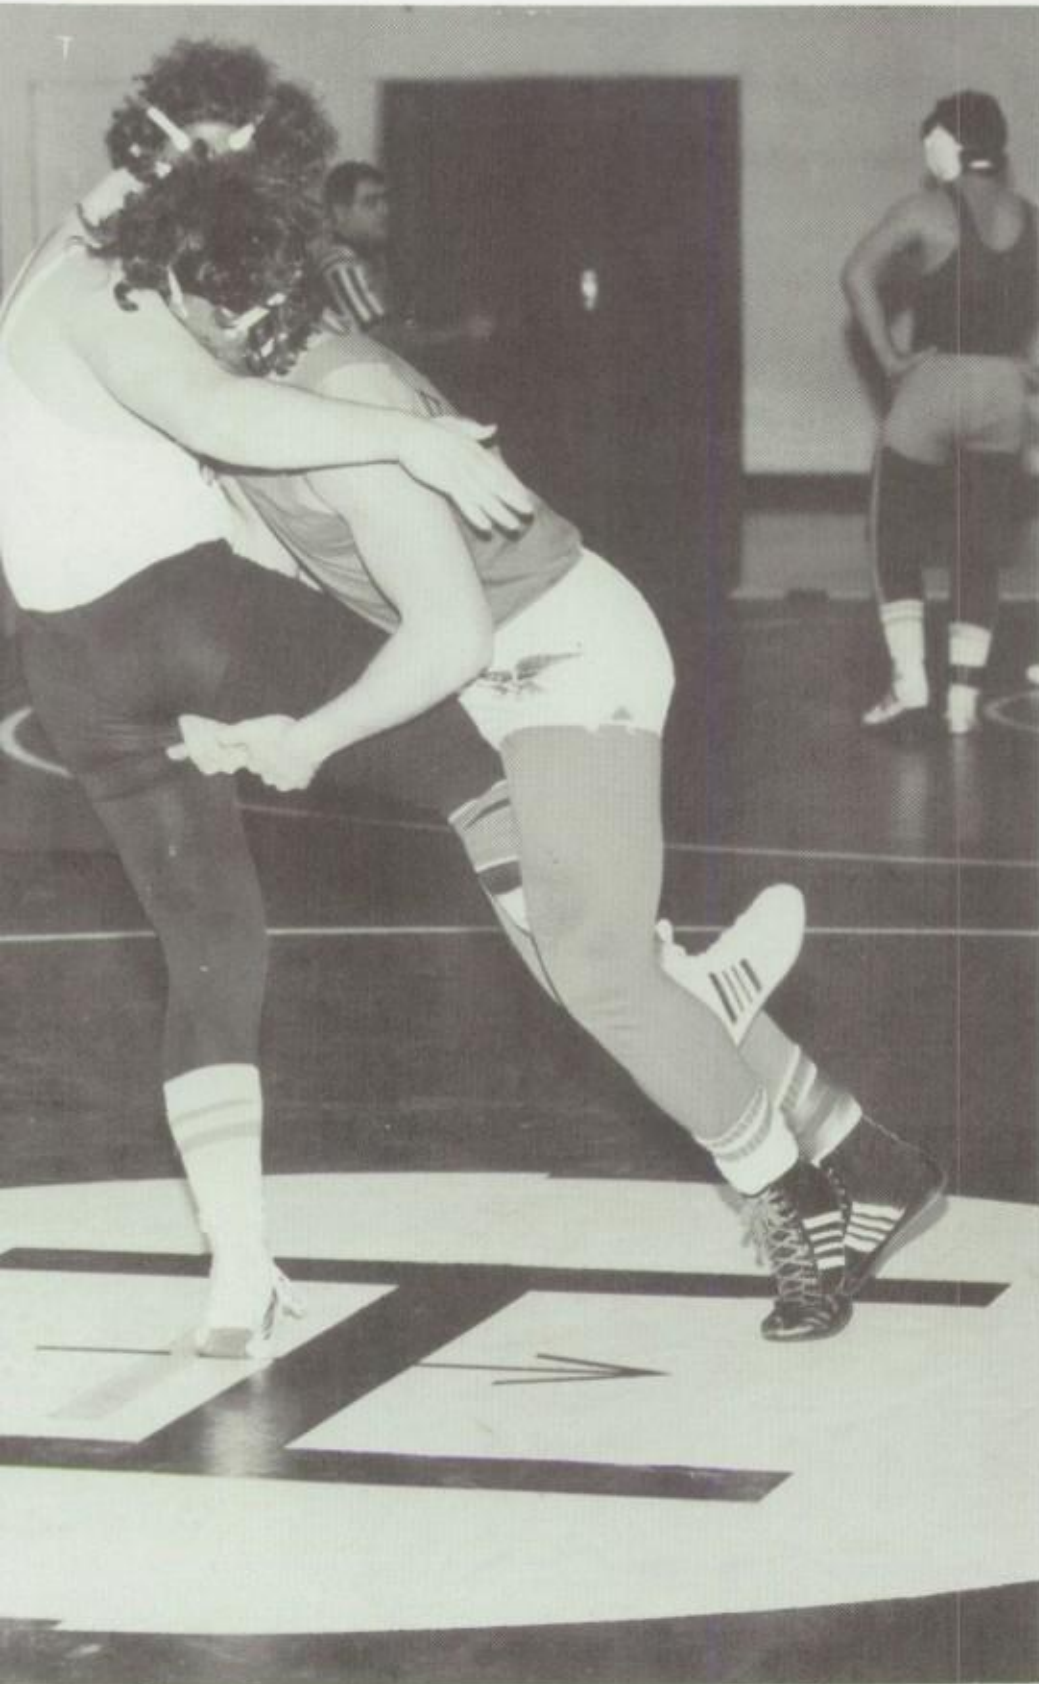

Wrestlers Took Hold of any Situation

The Eastern Ohio Wrestling League Tournament entertains some of the best wrestlers in Ohio. The Fitch Falcons with a fine showing, won it. The winners were: Mike Hardy at 98 lbs., Jim Garland at 105 lbs., and Mike Flynn at 112 lbs. Runner-ups were: Buddy Strickland at 138 lbs., Tom Kingsley 119 lbs., Kevin Kish at 145 lbs., and Dane Stilgenbauer at 132 lbs. This was only one highlight of the Falcons' winning season. The junior varsity, coached by Mr. Stevens, was very eager, and made up of sophomores, Tony Greco, Tom King, Tony Brune, and Bill Winterburn.

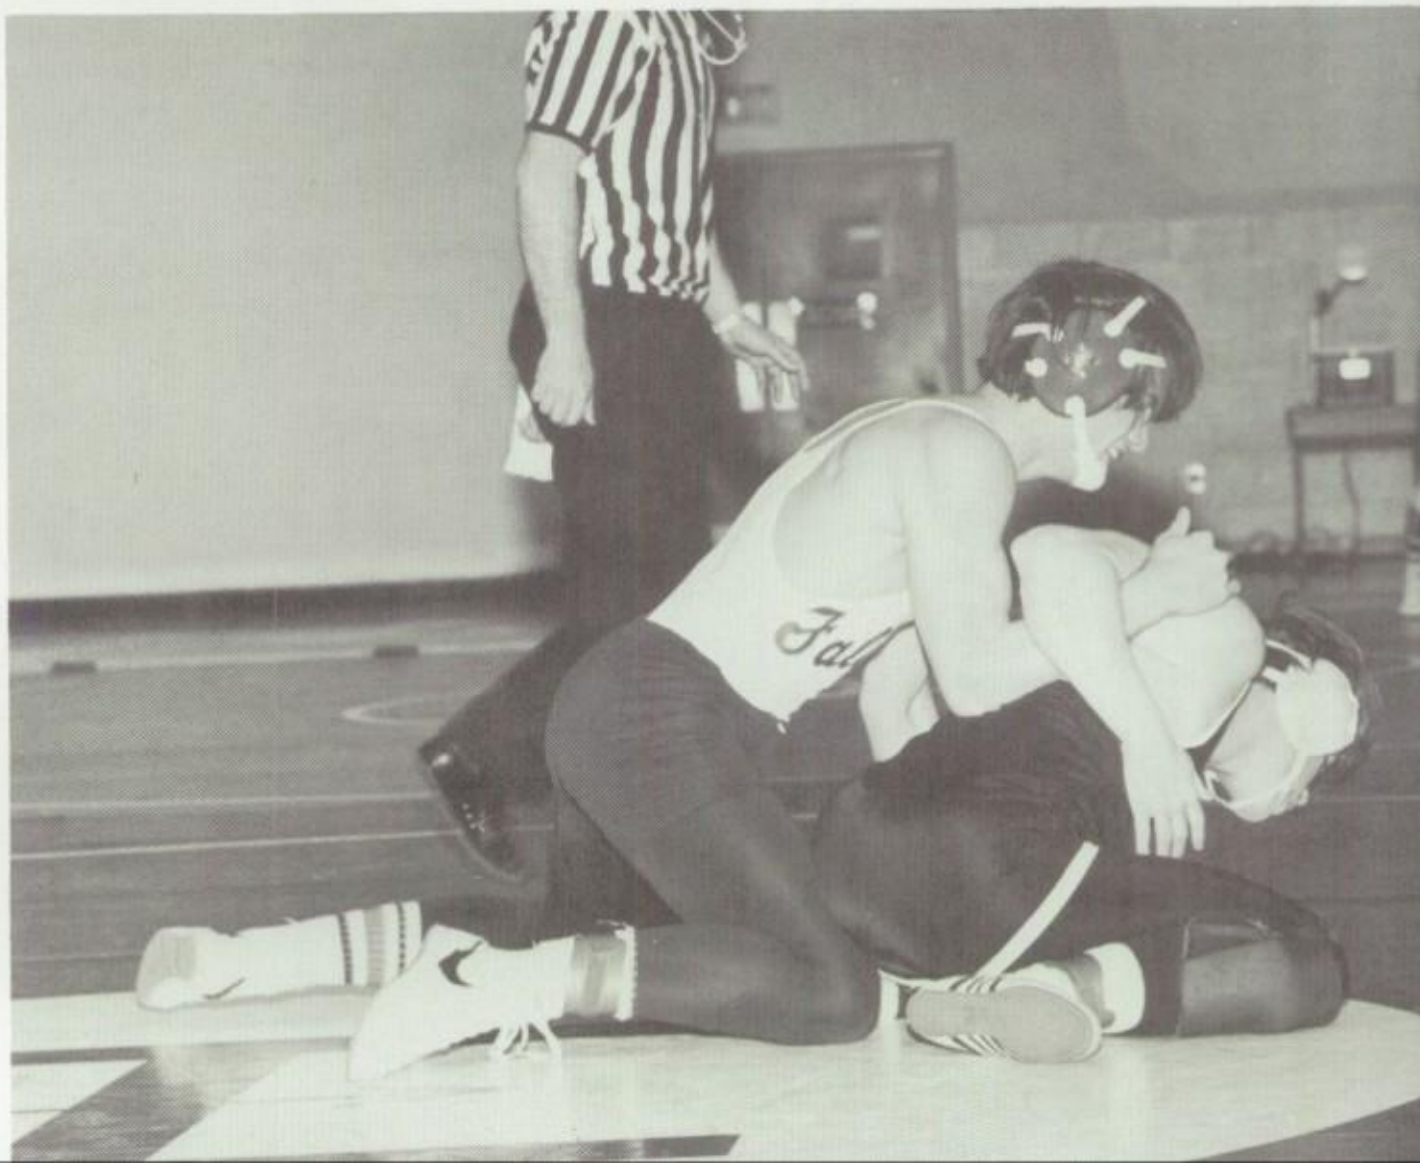

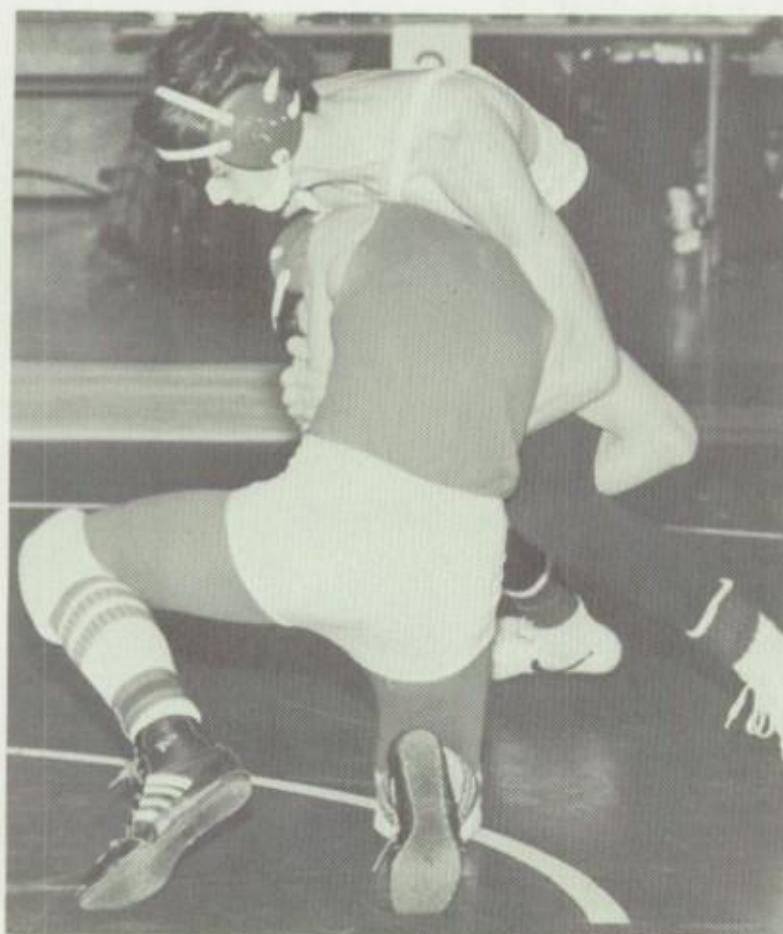

Terry Brewster fulfilled his JV - 98 spot very well. Tom Kingsley is surely going to be a great loss to the team next year. Rolling over for the pin ... is the hardest part of wrestling. The man on the top of the table usually had the advantage. The Falcons were usually on top. Sophomore Tom Kind showed great promise in the heavy weight class. Jim Shina had a successful year in the 168 pound class.

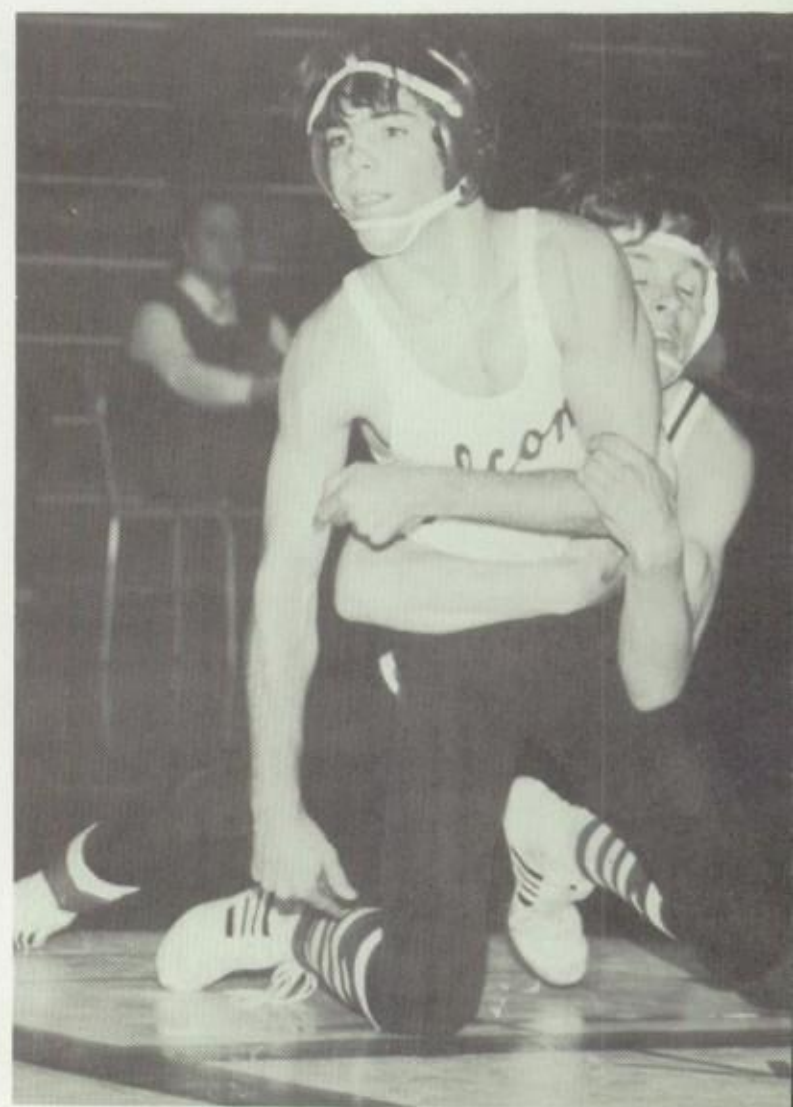

- T. Someone should tell him the sport is wrestling not football.
- S. Jim Garland was always moving his way to the top.
- R. Tom Winterburn applied constant pressure.
- Q. Tom Kingsley worked his opponents on their backs.
- P. Weeks of practiced paid off.
- O. Dennis Garcia wrestled many tough people.
- N. What should I do now Coach?

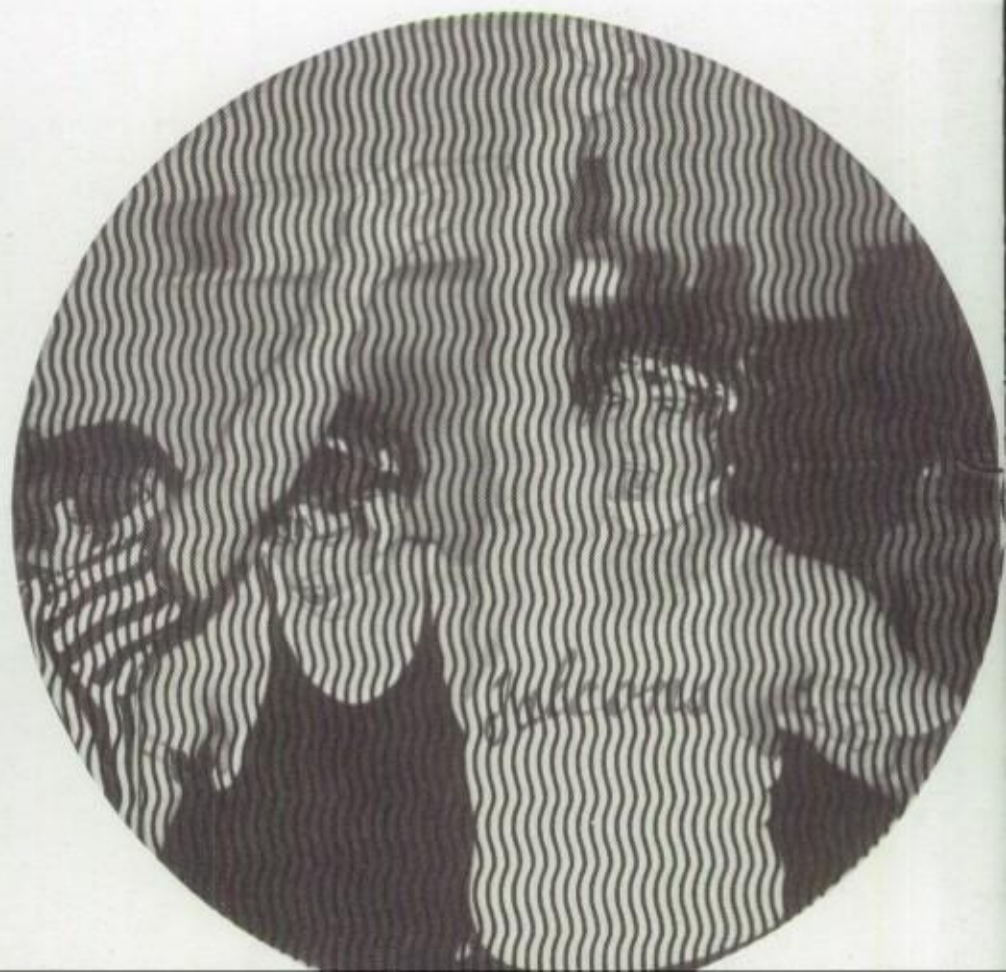

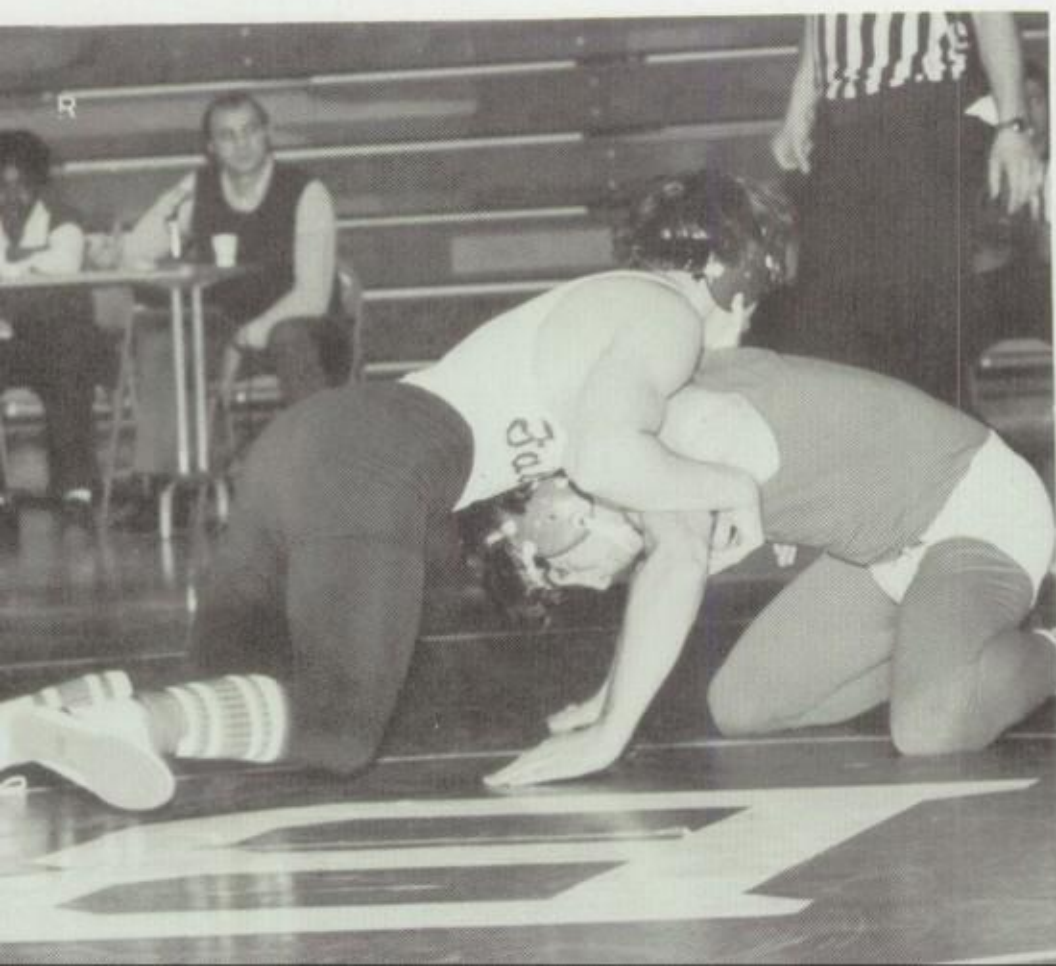

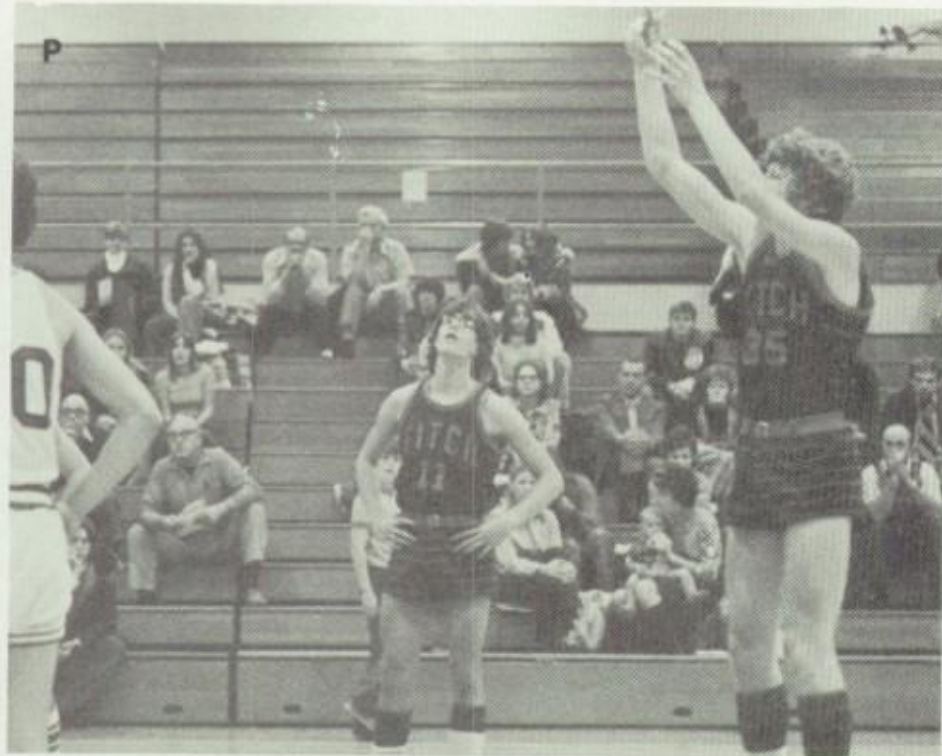

Wrestling Became More Popular

The Falcons won the Steel Valley Championship Tournament this year. It was the fourth consecutive championship the wrestlers have brought home. Tom Kingsley at 119 lbs. won his third straight first place finish, and Kevin Kish won his second. Following these victories were Dane Stilgenbauer at 132, Don Hernan at 126 and Tom King at heavy-weight.

T. Opponents often found they had run out of room.
 S. It's a shame you do not ...
 R. get points for stare downs.
 Q. Concentration was a big factor.
 P. Foul shots aided the Falcon scoring.
 O. Coach Morgan looked in on admiration.
 N. Hey we're on the same team.
 M. Driving in was Keith Lemke's speciality.

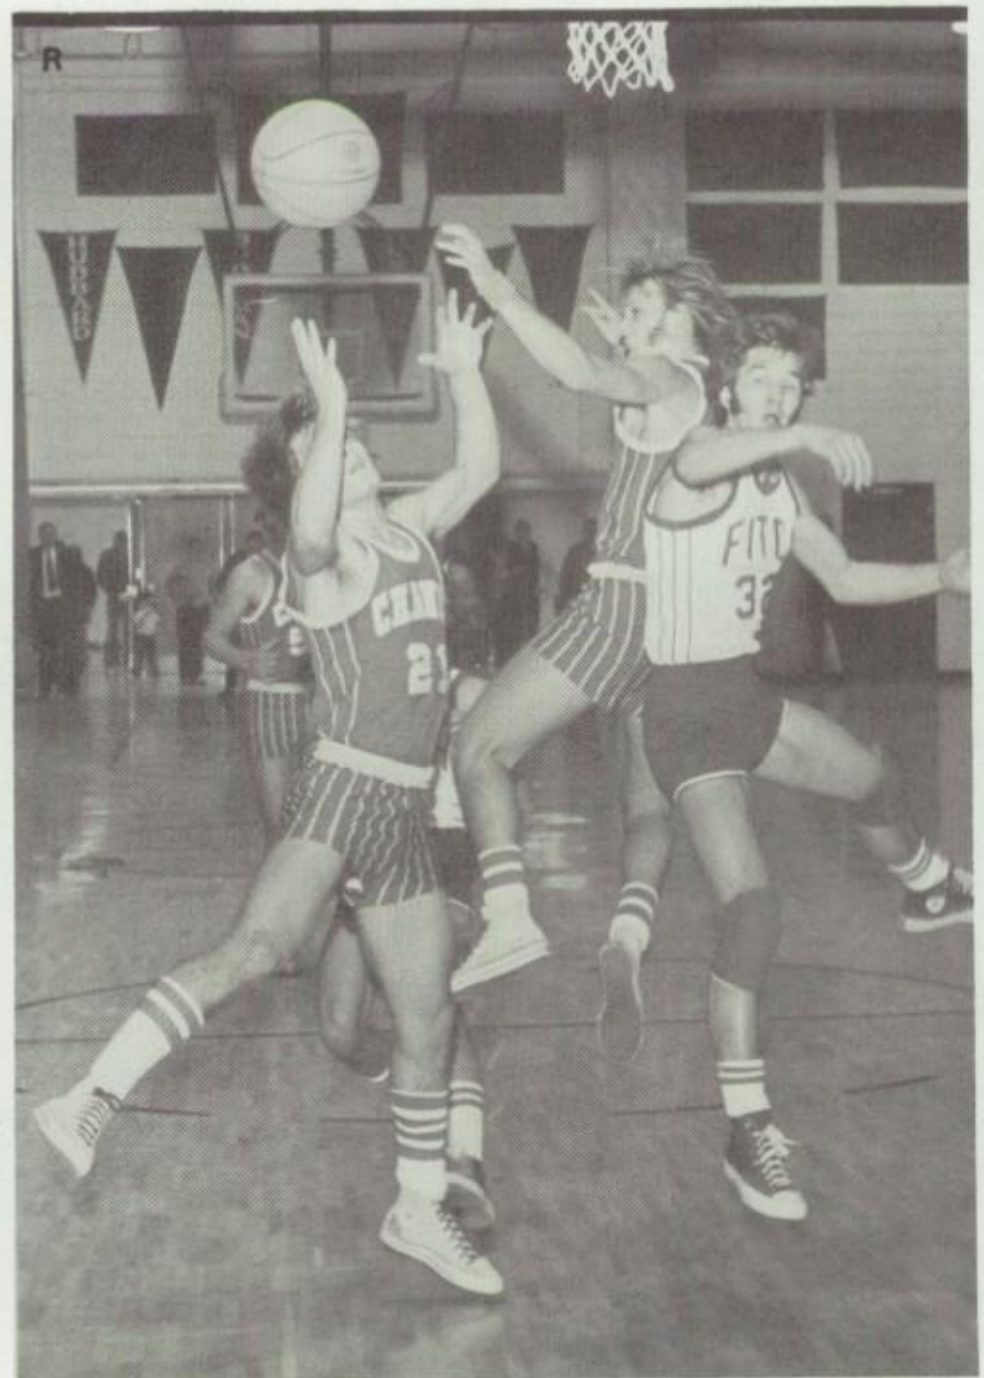

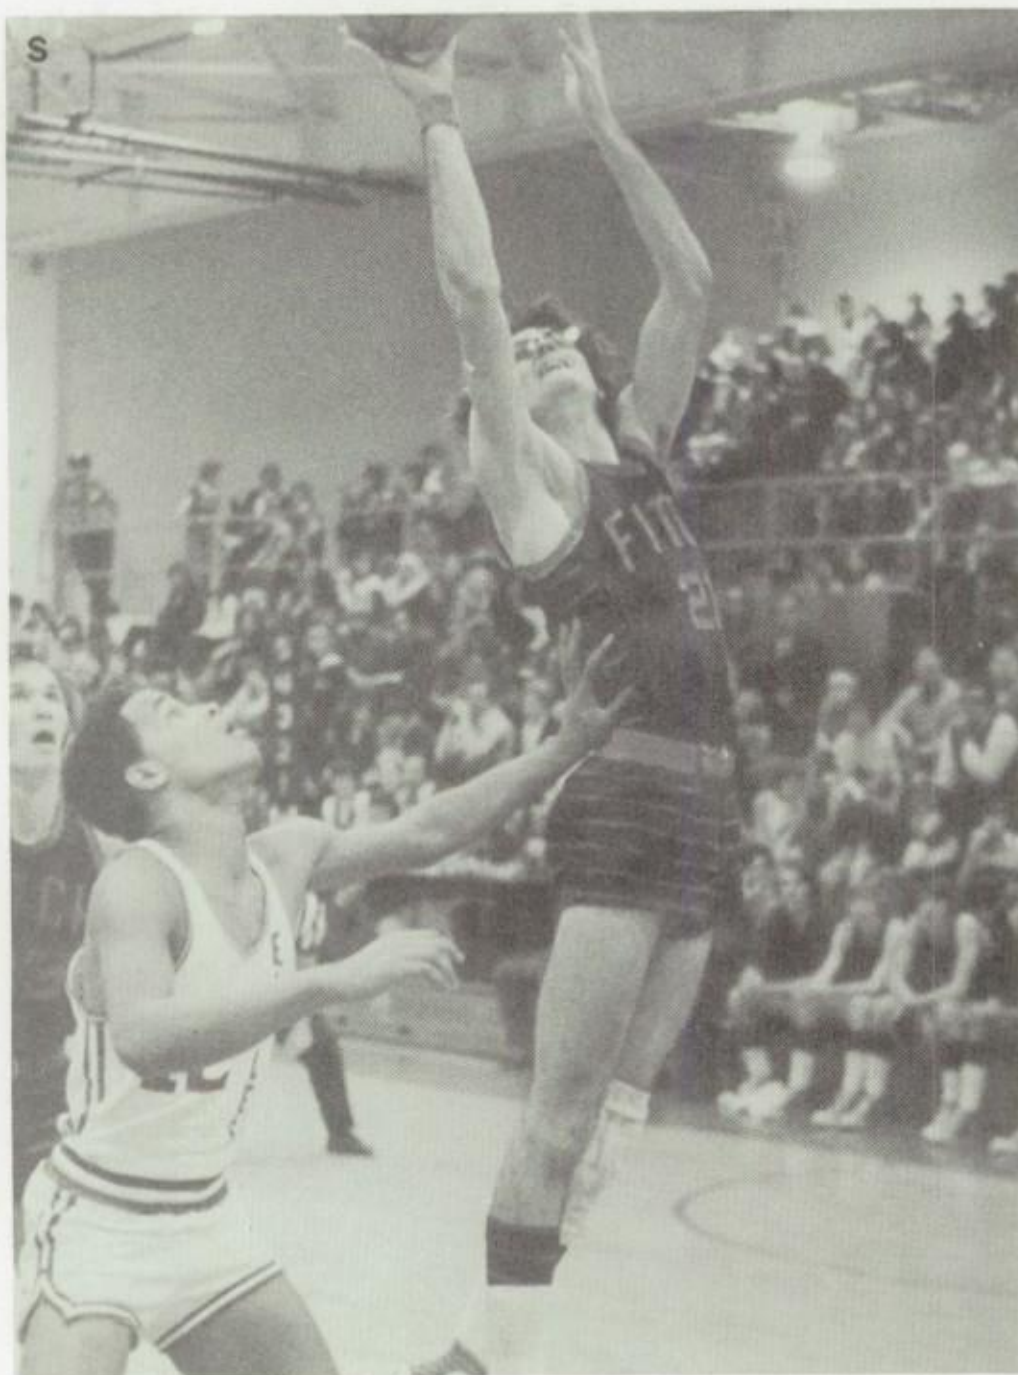

"Get That Rebound!"

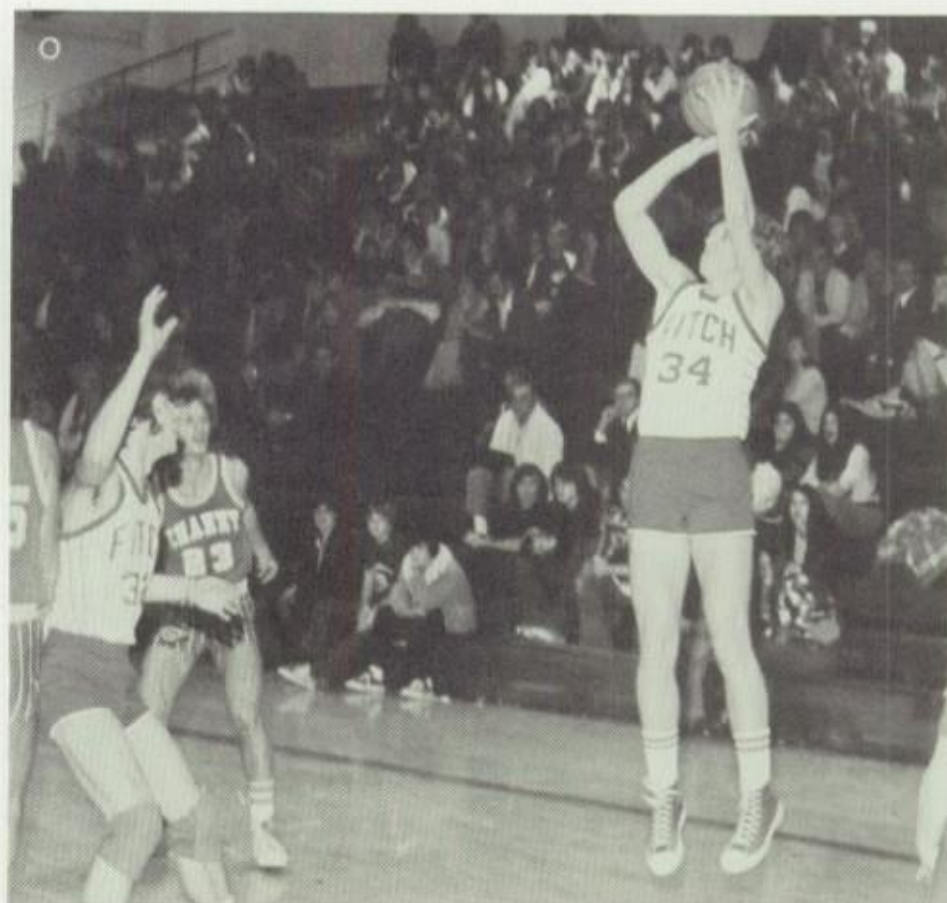

Coach Morgan stressed conditioning this year. The offense strategy was the fast break and to run a fast break conditioning is necessary. During the pre-season, they did such exercises as hopping up 41 bleachers and running around the track. Coach Morgan's philosophy was a conditioned basketball team is a smooth team and a smooth team is a winning team.

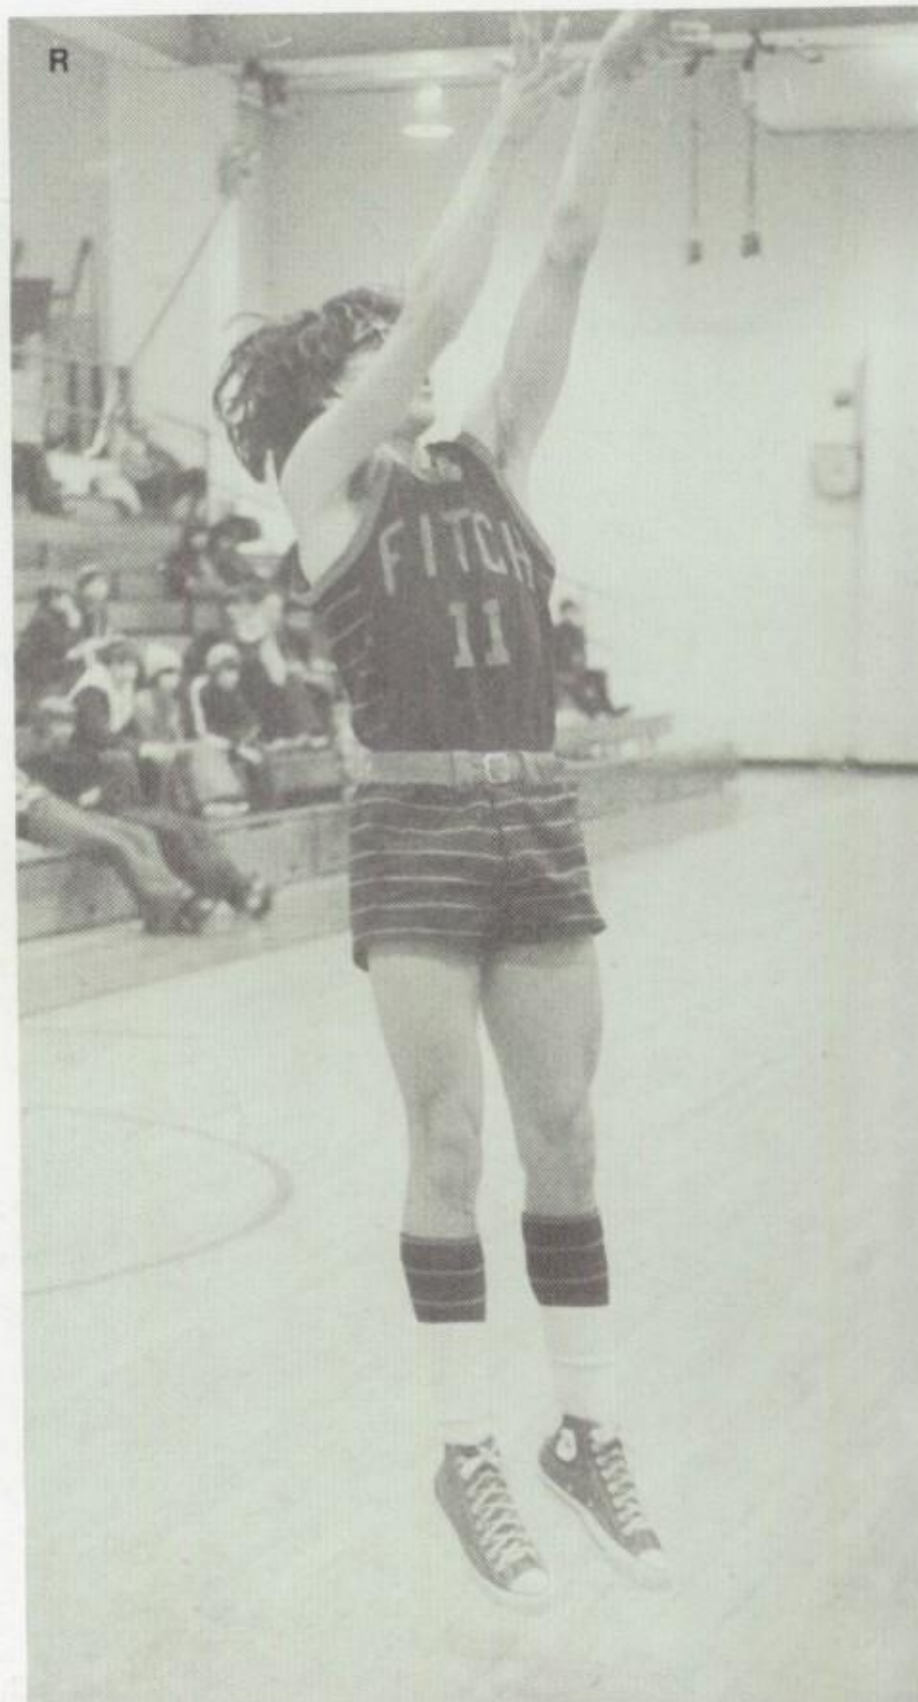

- T. "Another Falcon score."
- S. Tim Stevens displayed "inside strength".
- R. Defense, displayed by Bo Pritchard.
- Q. Tod Pancoe has another great year to look forward to.
- P. "Let's shape up and look alive out there."
- O. Don Lee had a successful outside shot.

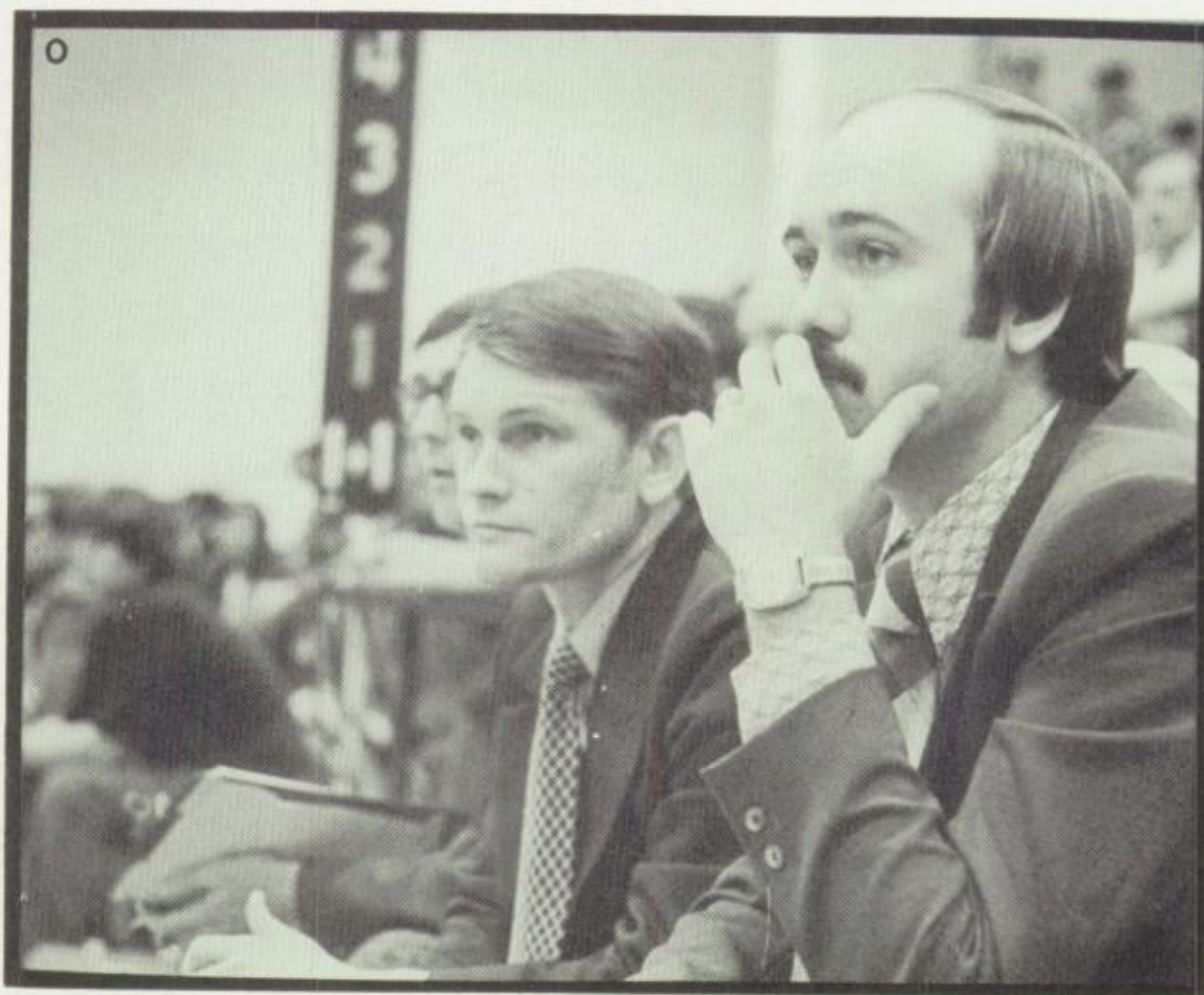

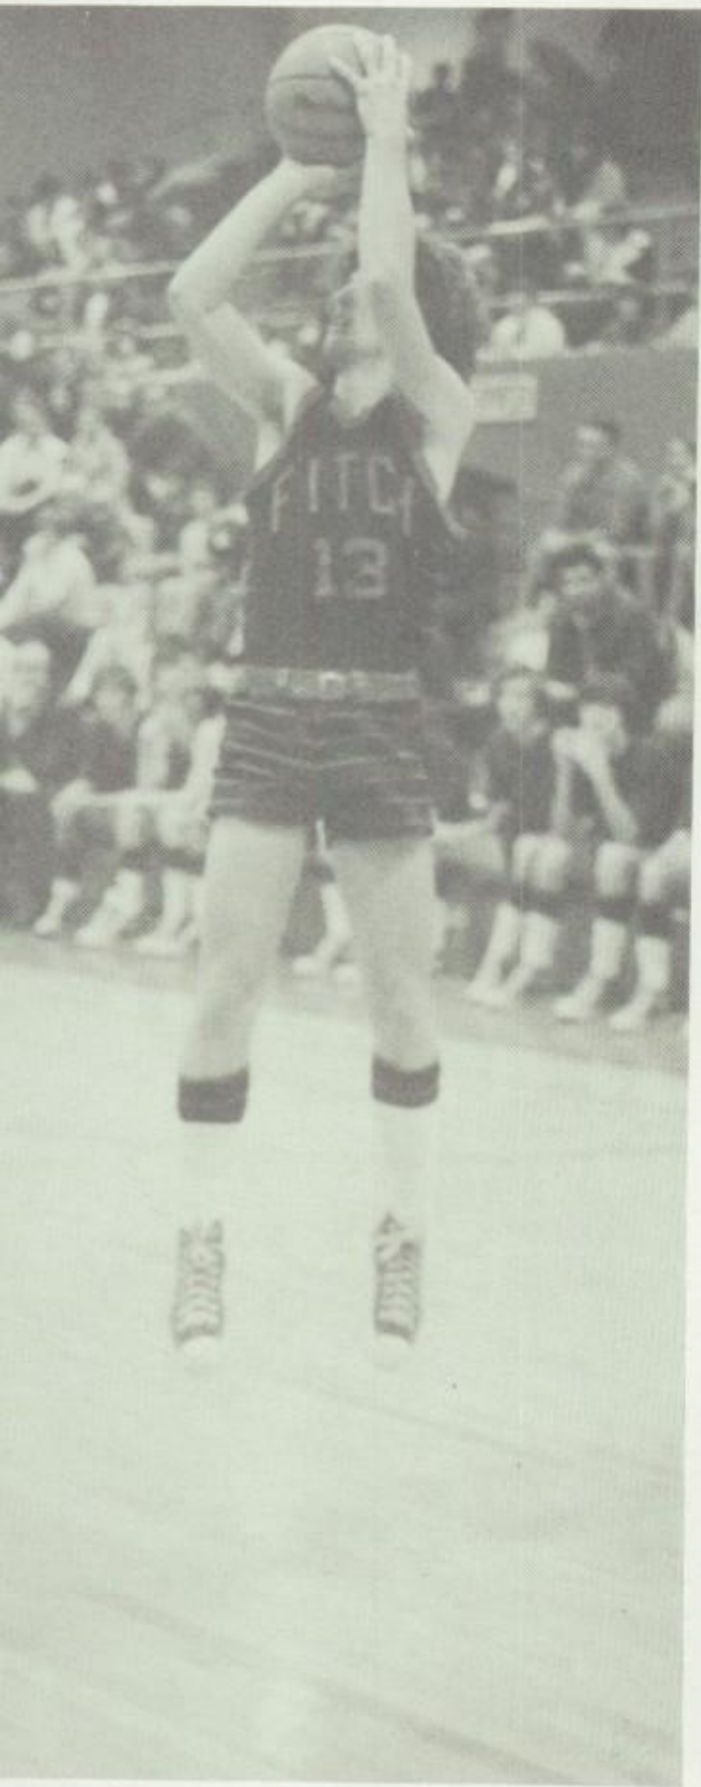

"Coach" Stressed Conditioning

Coach Morgan's team was made up of many experienced players this year. Tod Pancoe, only a junior, was back on the squad. Bob Naples and Keith Lemke, both seniors, were both big additions in shooting and rebounding. Bo Pritchard had an unusual shooting form which was a big help. Don Lee, the big man, could not only rebound, but he could shoot from the outside. John Glover another tall man, was a fine inside player and Mark Kane could "put them through".

Playing Played an important role

Coach Dennemen was a big help to the team this year. Coming from YSU and playing basketball himself, he brought some good tips in shooting and rebounding. The rebounding machine also made a difference. One of the most inspiring victories was the win over Ursuline, 75 to 70 at the Falcon Gymnasium. There were other spirited games, like the game against Sharon JFK, when one had to display a skill in something else than basketball. With many young players this season, next year the Falcons should go far.

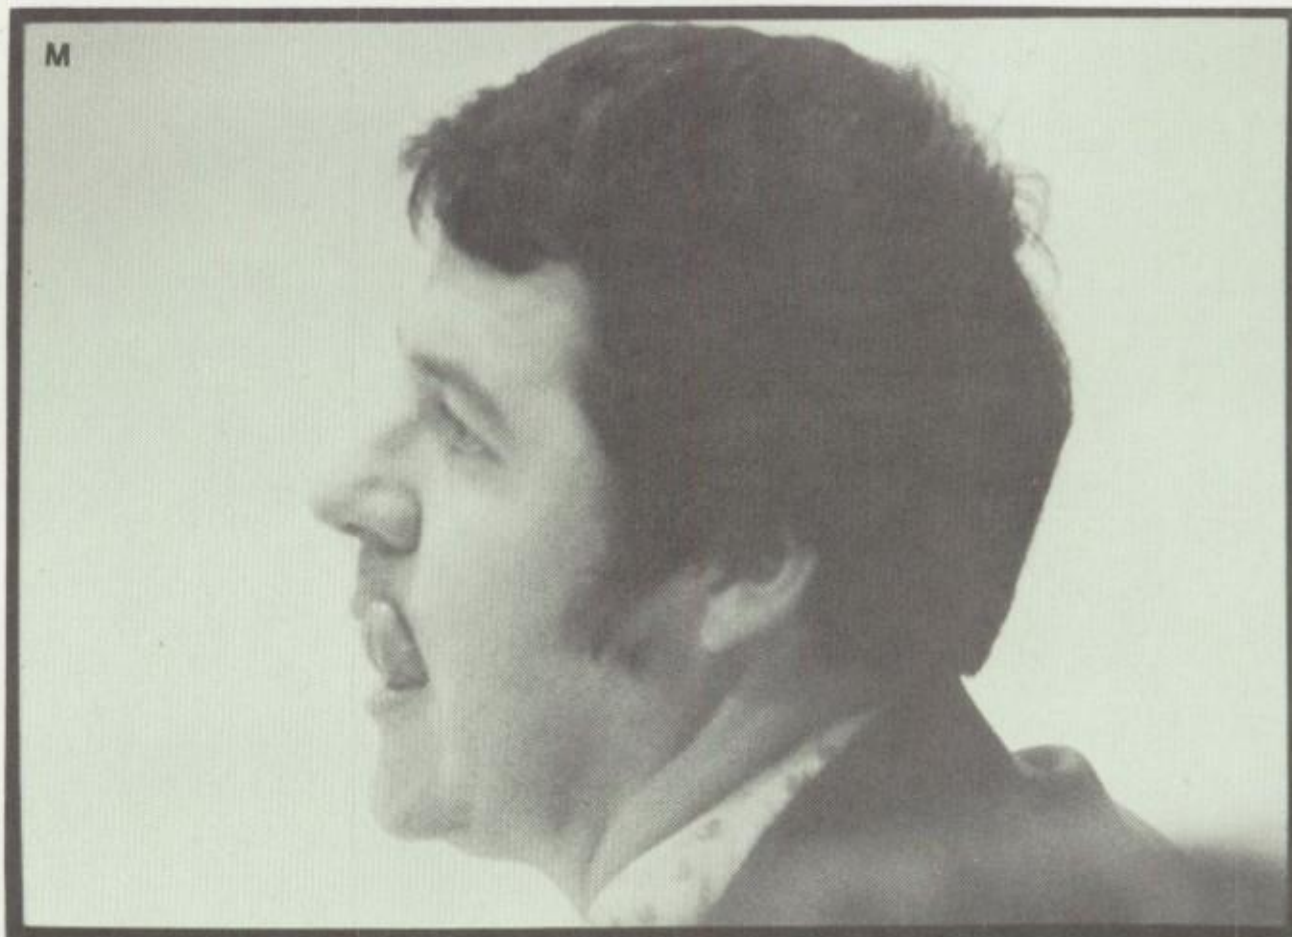

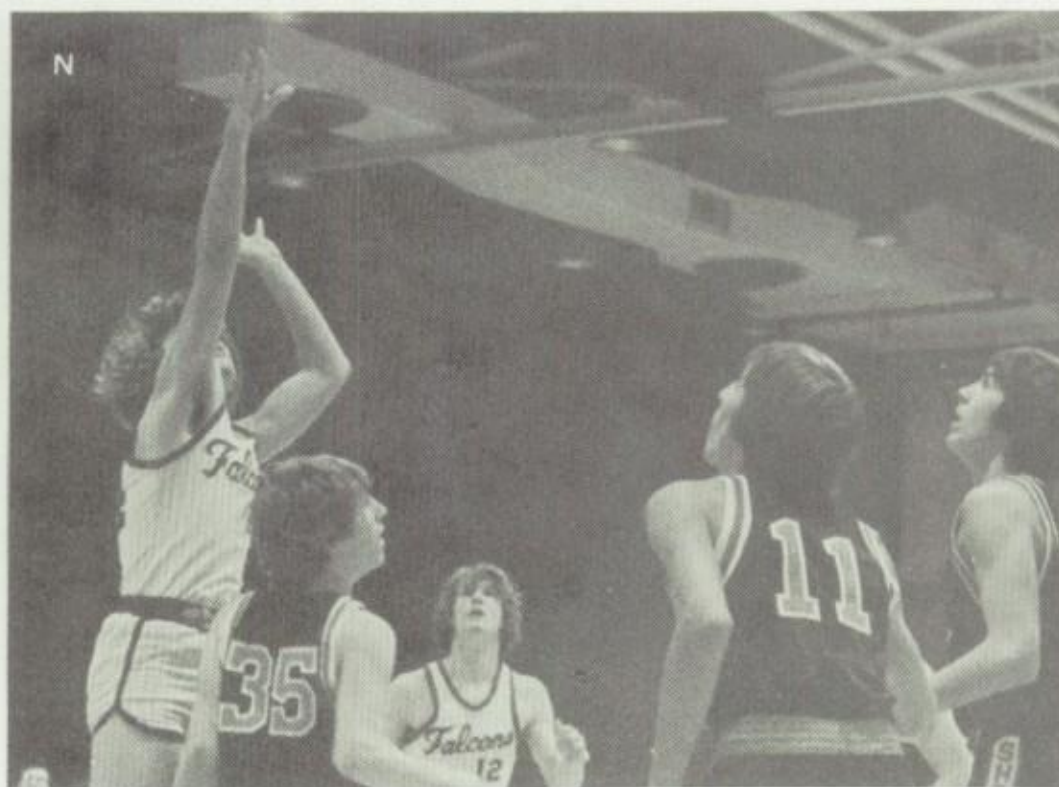

- T. The passing game, was the Falcon's offense.
- S. Occasionally the Falcon defense had holes in it.
- R. Jump shots were well ...
- Q. ... executed by the Falcons.
- P. Who'll get the ball.
- O. Y.S.U. star, Mr. Deinnemon, made a great coach.

- T. Height, speed and agility aided the Falcons' strategy.
- S. Coach Sachire did a great job coaching the Junior Varsity.
- R. Glen Johnson believed in shooting in a crowd.
- Q. Jim Dick shot and Mat Sarago waited for the rebound.
- P. Jim Winterburn was a great help to both offense and defense.
- O. Some thought the fast break was easier than a controlled defense.
- N. Shooting was a great aid in the offense.
- M. Coach Hura's strategy payed off for this was one of the best Frosh team in a long time. When the "lane" is open, take the shot.

Frosh Looked Good

The Junior Varsity and frosh cage teams produced very fine seasons. Coaches Hura and Sachire invested much knowledge, time and nervousness to gain their winning seasons. Hustle, pride and determination were the marks of these two fine squads. The experience they gained through this year's competition will make for an even greater seasons in the future.

- T. Loud mouths aided the spirit, but was a hindrance to the spectators.
- S. Varsity: Joanie Trebella, Marla Grossi, Marie Grabovac, Shirley Fair, Linda Wiegel, and Sherri Lee.
- R. Frosh cheerleaders, Gayl Johnson and Marilyn Masters, helped the frosh squad promote spirit.
- Q. Freddie the Falcon, Marsh Gamble, did her best to promote spirit.
- P. Cold nights brought out heavy coats for most cheerleaders.
- O. Homecoming spirit was felt by everyone.
- N. Junior Varsity: FIRST ROW: Alice Finnie, Charlene Hammond and Diane Ellashack. SECOND ROW: Betsy Terlizi, Cindi Robinson, Lisa Damore.

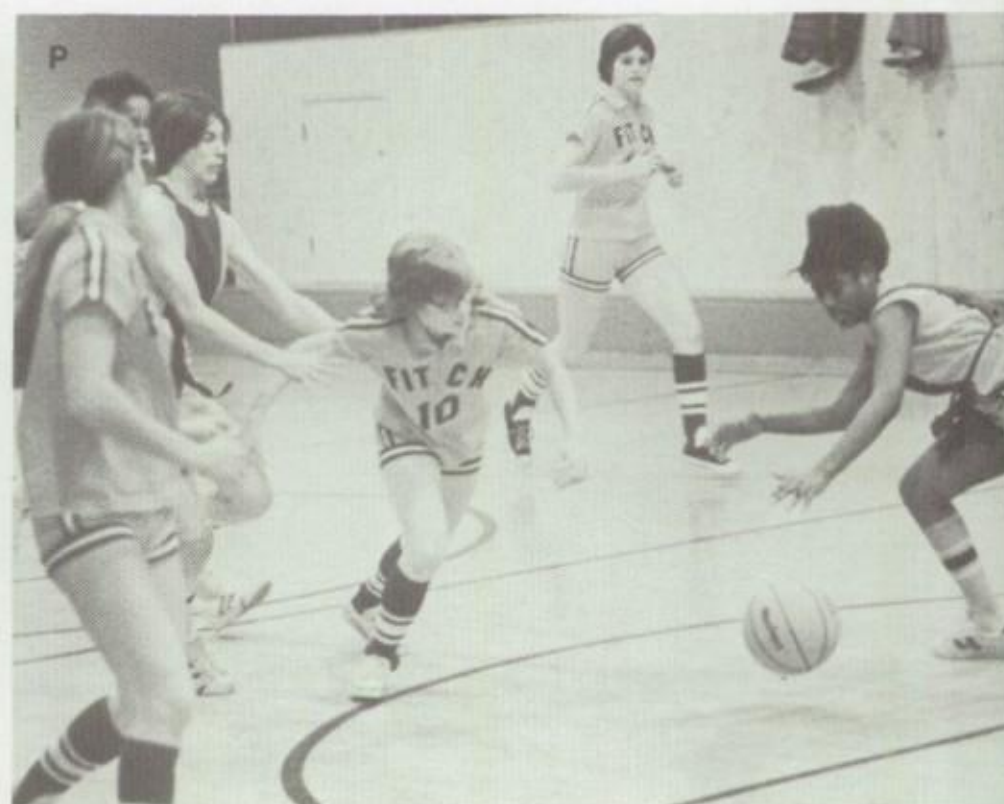

Cheerleaders made the Difference

Every spring a group of girls are picked to be part of the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen cheerleading squads. You have to give these girls credit; because it takes a lot of their time and hard work to get the cheers together, to work out new spirit ideas, and plan pep assemblies. We have the pride and spirit to back up our cheerleaders. Frosh squad: Gayle Johnson, Patty Bako, Marilyn Masters, Diane Colonna, Karen Rolfe, and Helen Maiorana.

- T. Bridget Mahoney was a great scorer for the Falcons.
- S. Warm-ups helped, the players get into it.
- R. Junior Varsity, center Lynn Swagger, did a fine job at jumpballs.
- Q. Mary Ann Magagon was a great asset to the defense.
- P. Sophomore, Carol Gifford was terrific on offense.
- O. It's all up to the ball now.
- N. "Good game, Lynn."
- M. Coach Reha pointed out the faults.

the girls worked harder

On this year's girls' basketball team, everyone could be considered a star, as all contributed to each win. The Falcons' fast break offense and 2-1-2 defense, made a winning combination. Miss Reha said that the team was exceptionally easy to coach because each had determination and desire to be successful. They worked extra hard to improve themselves and helped each to improve. "There is a great feeling of cooperation and a great feeling of the word, team."

Diana Clark

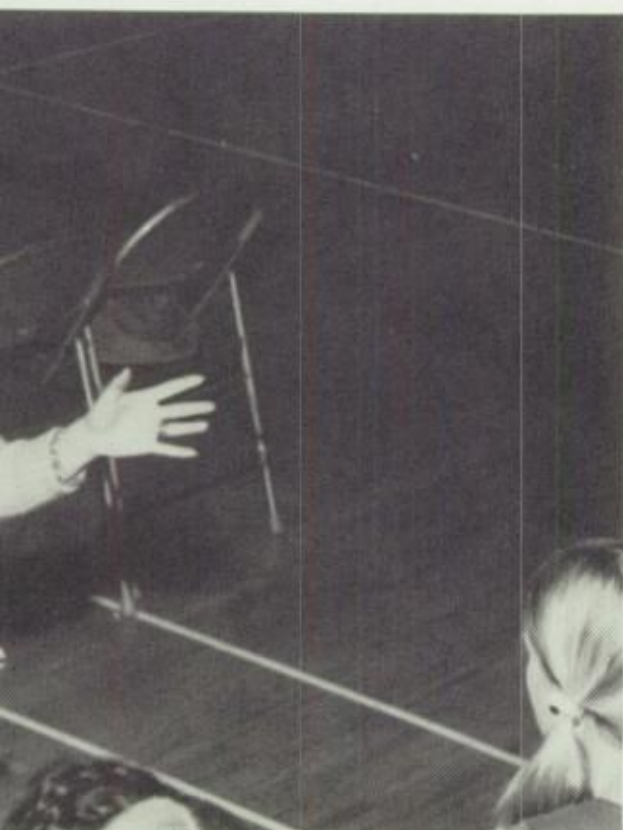

- T. Layups by Janis Miller, chalked up many points throughout the season.
- S. Coach Reha gave many helpful hints to the players.
- R. The girls anxiously awaited their turns.
- Q. Offense was an outstanding piece of the girls basketball team.
- P. Coach Logan did a fine job coaching her first year team.
- O. Gymnastics took concentration and desire to win.
- N. Junior, Debbie Tata, had an outstanding first year.

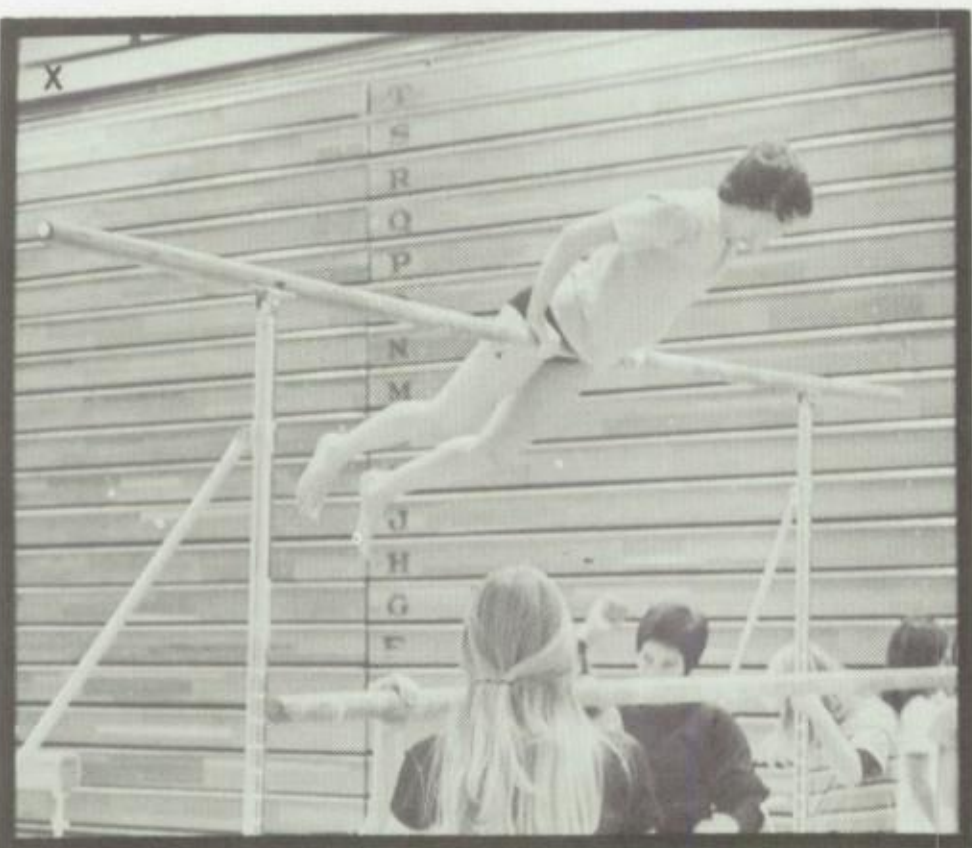

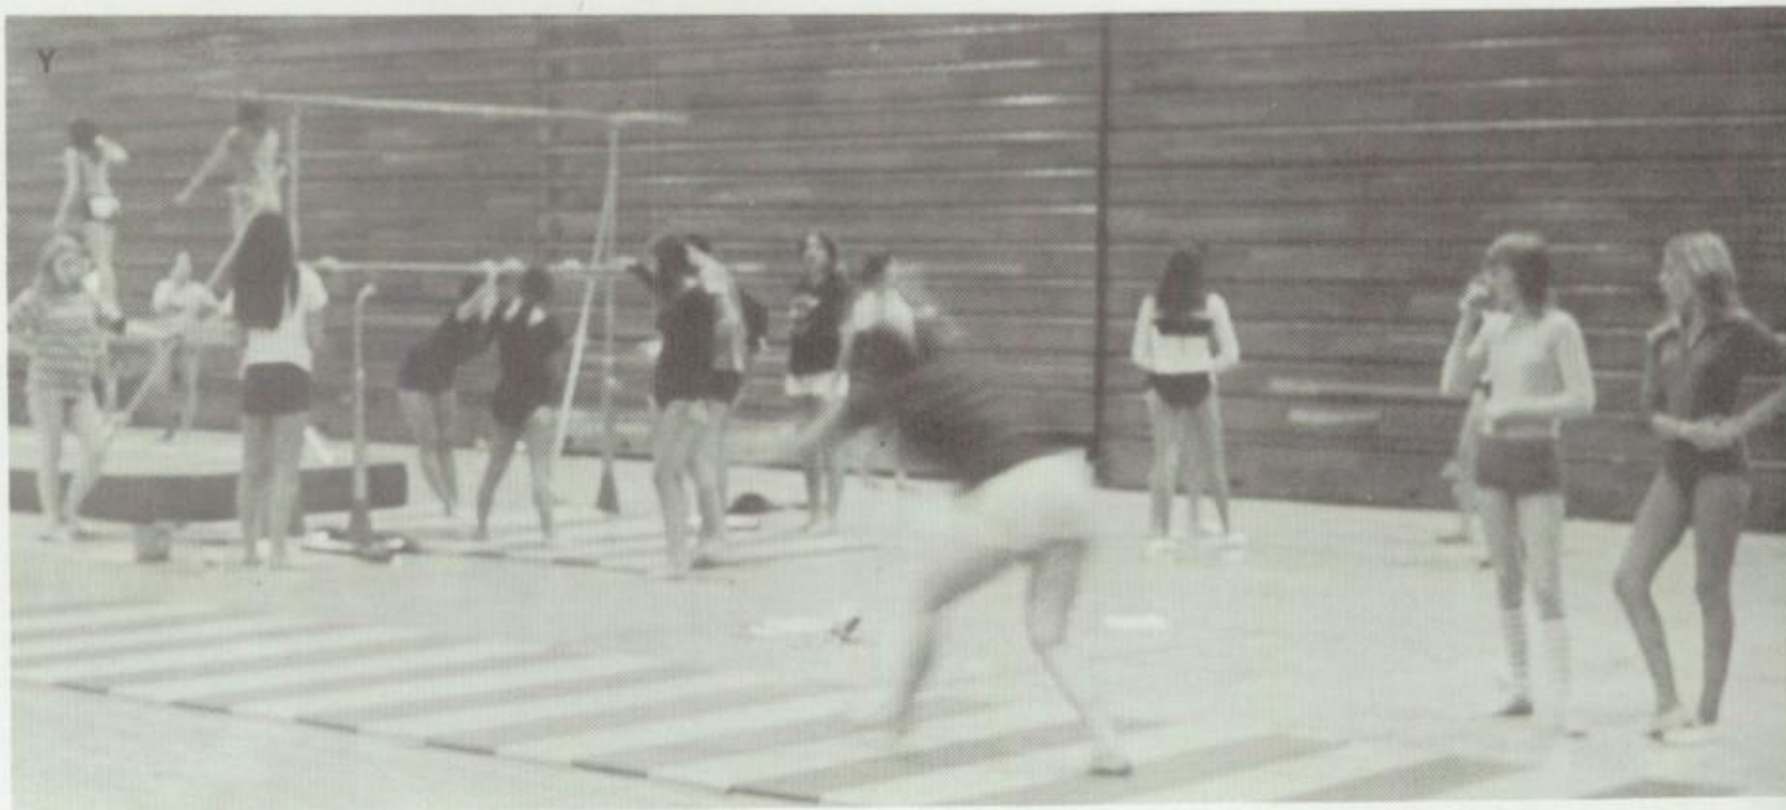

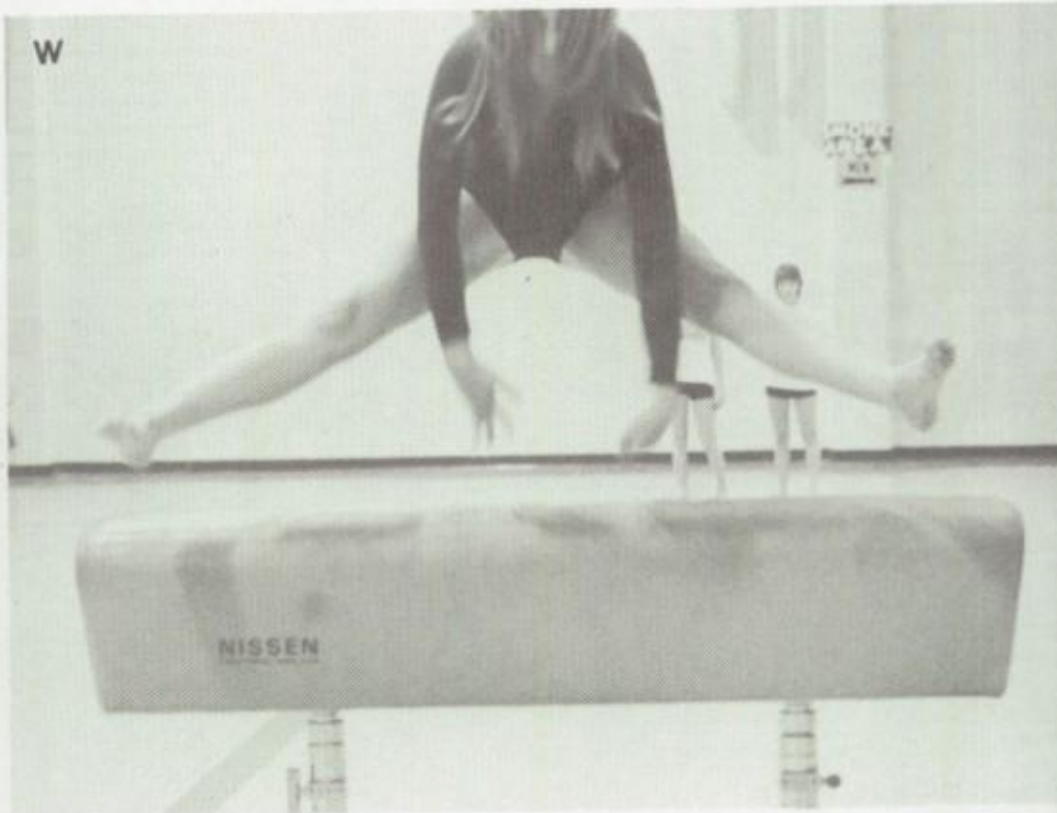

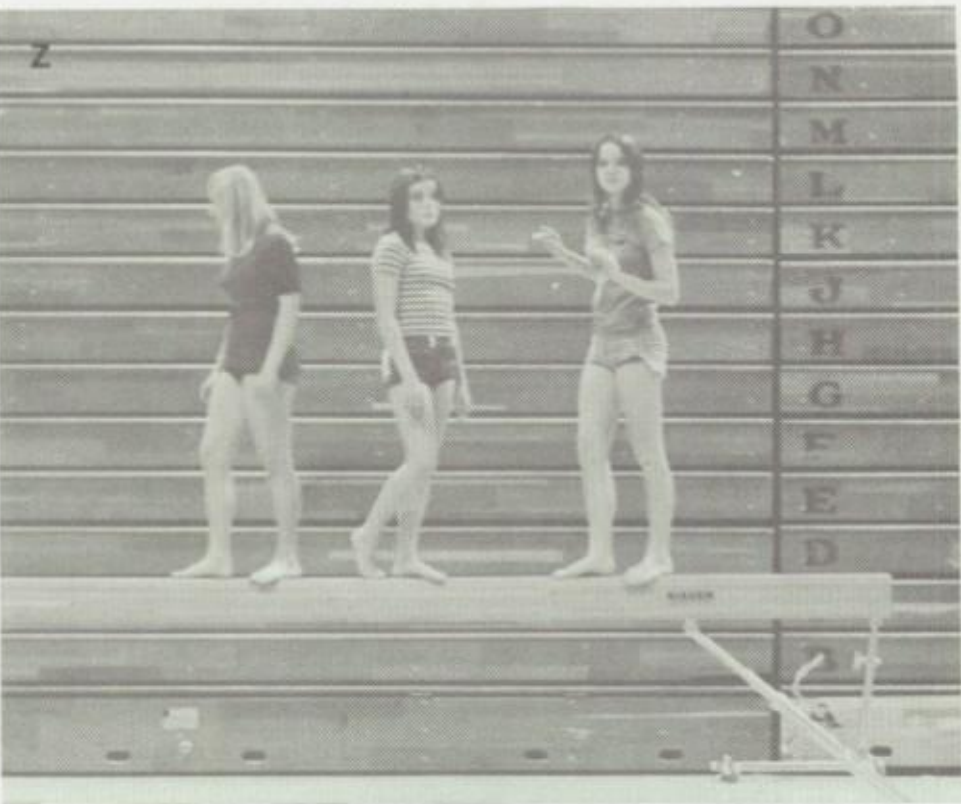

Falcon? or Falconettes?

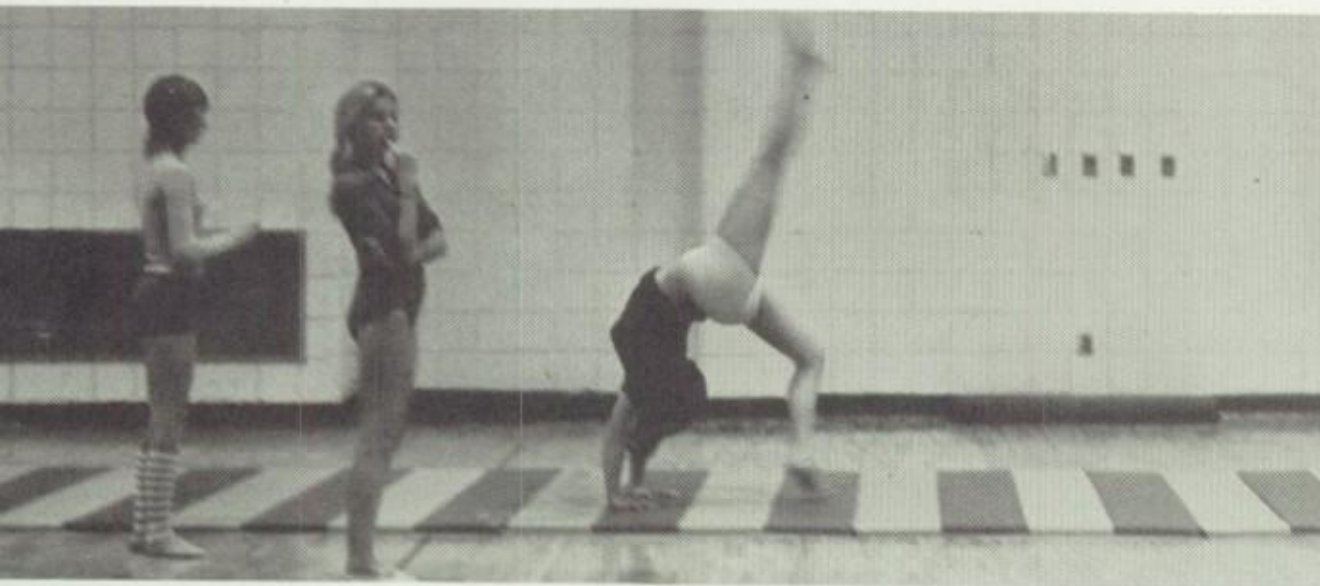

This year was the first year for the gymnastics team at Fitch. Mrs. Logan said that not only physical development was needed, but mental development too. This development is needed to plan routines and plan them right. Evidently the girls were developing, as they beat Warren Harding. Some of the girls who excelled were: Denise Colonna and Kathy Merriman in the floor exercise; Sherri Lee in the vaulting horse; Diane Labozan on the balance beam; and Linda Cooper on the uneven parallel bars.

- Z. Practice makes perfect.
- Y. Falcon excersies were one of the better areas of the team.
- X. Representatives from college teams were a big help for a team.
- W. Is this how the Cowboys did it in the old west?
- V. Sherri Lee demonstrates her ability on, the horse.
- U. Floor excersies required quite a bit of practice.
- T. Practice payed off for Kathy Marimon.

Gymnastic Competition

Finally Came to Fitch

This year was the first year for the gymnastics team at Fitch. Mrs. Logan said that not only physical development was needed, but mental development too. This development is needed to plan routines and plan them right. Evidently the girls were developing, as they beat Warren Harding. Some of the girls who excelled were: Denise Colonna, and Kathy Merriman in the floor exercise; Sherri Lee in the vaulting horse; Diane Labozan on the balance beam; and Linda Cooper on the uneven parallel bars.

- T. Girls were very much a part of every instrumental division.
- S. The tuba player's barretts added to the style of the band's military uniform.
- R. Precision was expected from each and every member, no matter how small their piece.
- Q. Rick Whitten, the assistant drum major, conveyed his pride in every motion of his directing.
- P. The total form and stance of the band made them stand for all that Fitch is, excellence.
- O. Waiting for your part always seemed longer when standing before a crowd.
- N. Practice during the summer was tire-some and tested our dedication to our music.
- M. Every beat rang out our work and pride in the departing senior class, the class of 1974.

154 marched

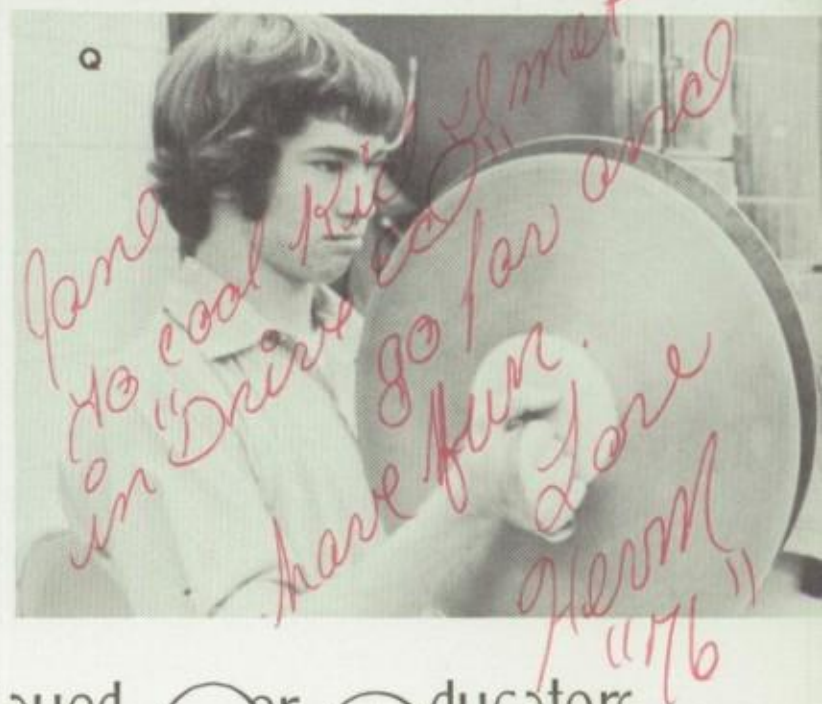

Every night since the beginning of August the sounds of music radiated from the Fitch parking lot as the Marching Band practiced for another football season. Learning new shows and songs were not easy. However many members of the band found the work rewarding. The most fulfilling rewards came not from only friendships built from their common interests, but a lasting bond to an unlimited world.

T. Darla played organ for "In Dulce Jubilo".
 S. Keith worked hard on mallets.
 R. Thr drums sounded and the trumpets blared.
 Q. It took skill to play cymbals.
 P. Mr. Snell led a dedicated band.
 O. The band played in sweet harmony.

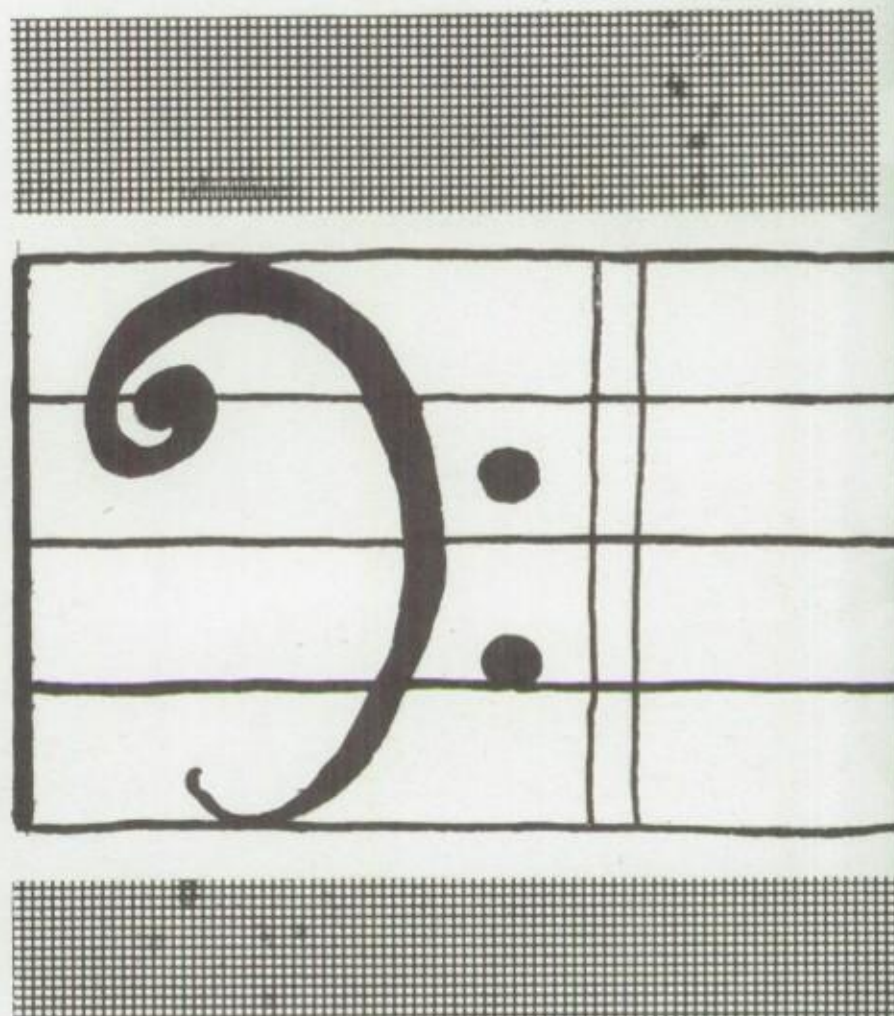

Symphonic Band Played For Educators

Symphonic Band, under the direction of Mr. Snell, acquired a new sound. The music played was expressive, precise, and mistakes were held to a minimum. Members constantly practiced to improve their timing and style. Precision was their greatest achievement.

Z, Y, and X. It took awhile, but they were all ready to begin the scales.
W. Percussion members worked hard to get the rhythm right.
V. To many, it seemed hard to play, so early in the morning.
U. Mr. Snell demanded excellence in the musical selections.

Concert Band met 2nd mod

Concert Band, consisting of about half of the marching band, this year did an outstanding job. Practicing two periods every day to improve their songs. After many hours of practicing, they performed for the school on special occasions such as the Christmas Concert.

- T. The flagline needed to know the music beat for beat to time their steps precisely.
- S. Clad in their spirit sweat-shirts and confident of our victory, the colorguard smiled reassuringly during the pep assemblies.
- R. Standing at attention was sometimes very boring, except when the school alma mater was sang.
- Q. It was a test of stamina, during the hot days, for the girls that added color and motion to the band music.
- P. Returning from the final performance was somewhat a letdown deep inside.
- O. Smooth and careful movements were required to blend flowing flags with the tempo of the music.
- N. Crowds stood back to make plenty of room for the twirling flags of the colorguard and flagline.

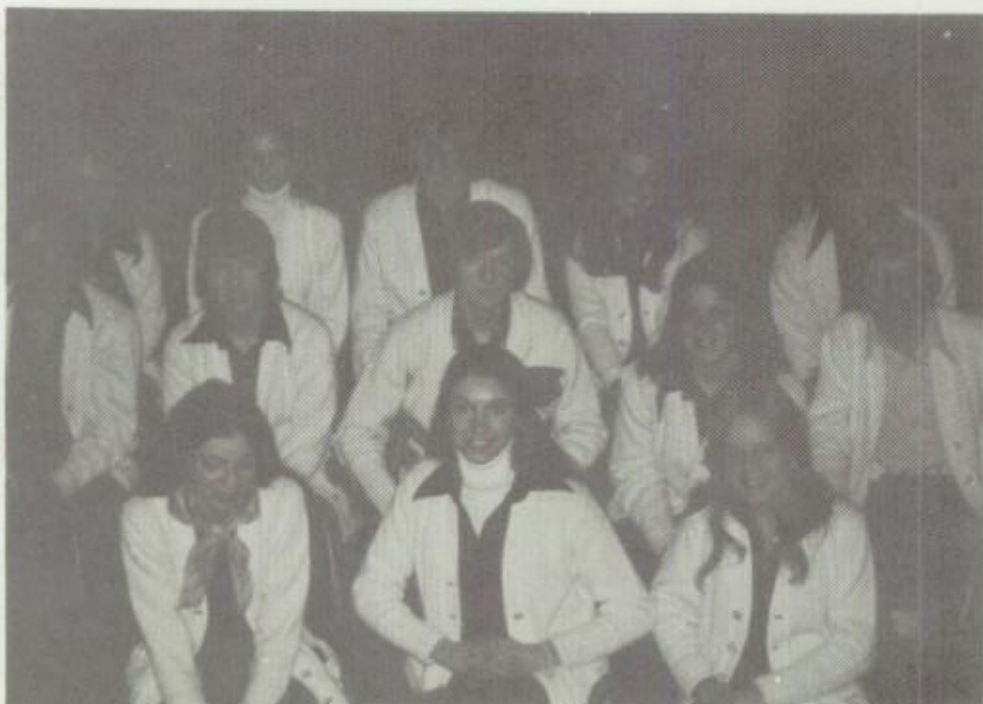

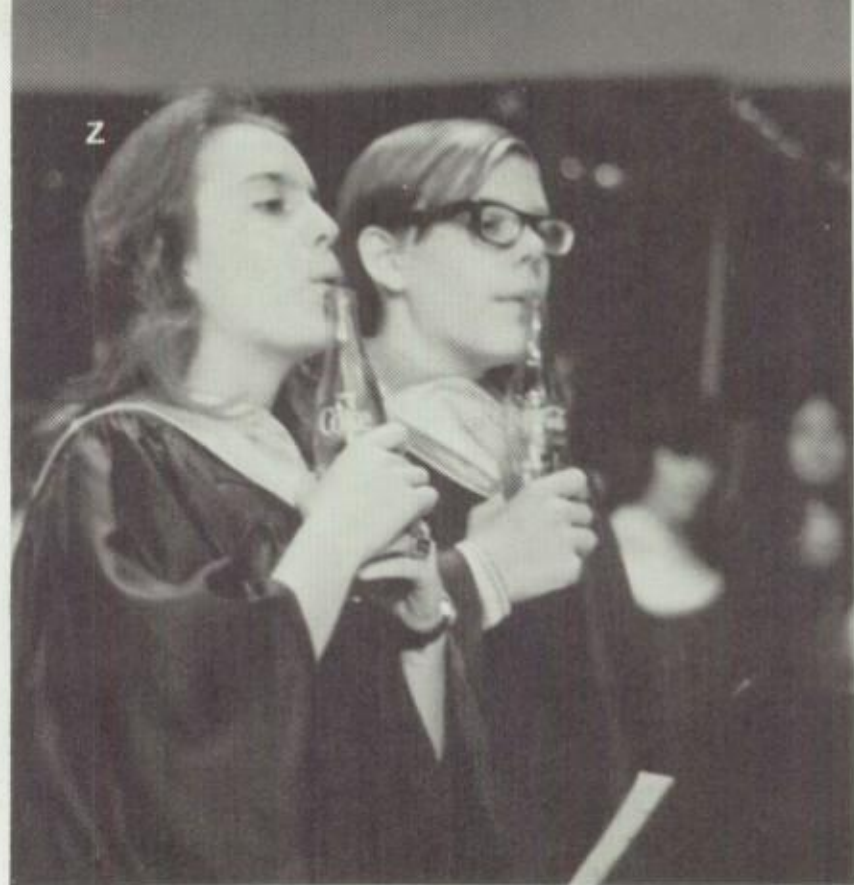

Specialty Groups Gave Diversity

Jazz Band was a group of boys and girls that played popular jazz and rhythm and blues songs. Former graduate, Jim Grinta, directed the Jazz Band under Mr. Snell's guidance.

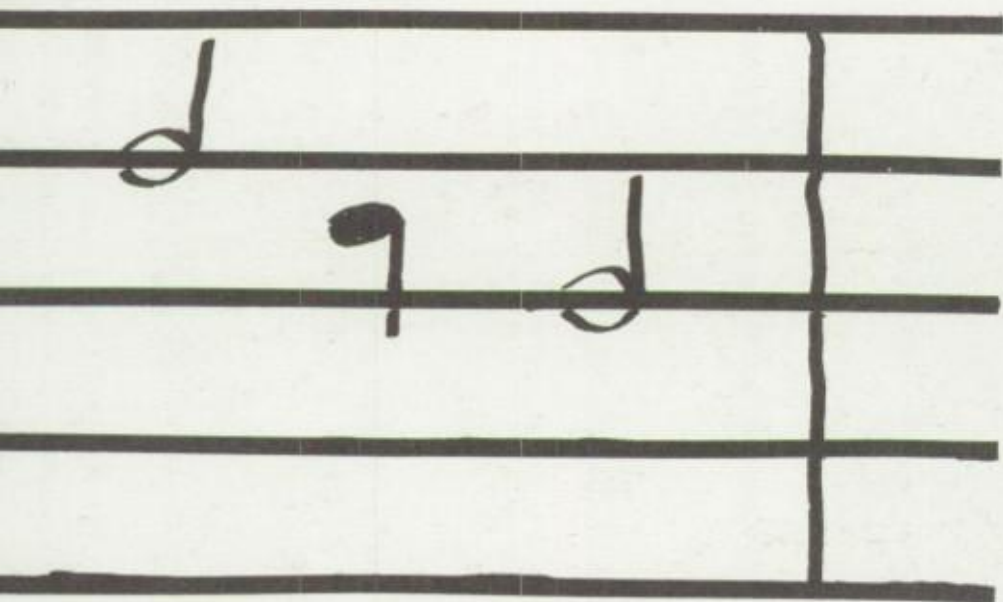

The few girls of the band chosen gave their attention to their Flagline and Colorguard routines. They practiced along with the marching band in the summer and in the gym when it rained.

Choir Entertained Uets

Vical Music, under the direction of Miss Kascher, provided us with almost every kind of music possible. About 60 students made up the concert choir class. The people in Concert Choir learned more about music, its composers and enjoyed learning it.

Z. Things go better with Coca-Cola, even music.
Y,X, and W. Freshmen girls' chorus made angelic sounds.
V and U. A few members played musical instruments as the rest sang.

Friendships grew thru music

Though the 73-74 Vocal Music Department encountered hardtimes and hard work over the course of the year. After it was all over they could rejoice in the fact that they had made the Vocal Music Department of Austintown-Fitch a name known throughout the country.

T and S. Mr. Antell lead mixed chorus.
 R. Practice made perfect as our accomplishments showed.
 Q. Hard work made rest a pleasure.
 P. Practice and determination improved us.

French Club Sponsored Play

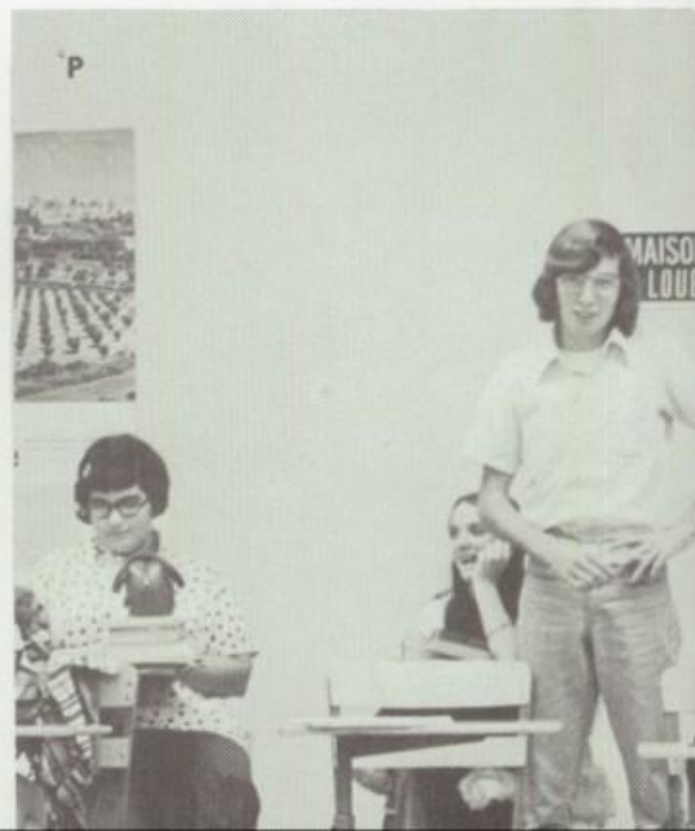

The French Club found many ways to demonstrate to its members the culture and customs of France. In the beginning of October the French Club sponsored a French play entitled Le Treteau De Paris. Not only did students attend from Fitch, but also students from surrounding area schools. On December 12, the French Club Christmas Party was held in the Commons area. The members sampled various French dishes such as artichokes, chocolate fondue, and many foods that are sometimes mistaken to be American.

- T. Nice jacket you got there.
- S. The stage crew helped prepare for the show.
- R. Surprise!
- Q. The Christmas party was successful.

Los Españoles Tienen Una Sistema de Dinero

This year the Austintown-Fitch Spanish Club, under the guidance of Senors Yeckel, started it's year off with a club picnic, followed by the ceremony for the installation of officers. Many hours of hard work were needed to prepare for their Christmas Party in December. Games, a gift exchange, and breaking the pinata highlighted the evening. Plans were made for future events.

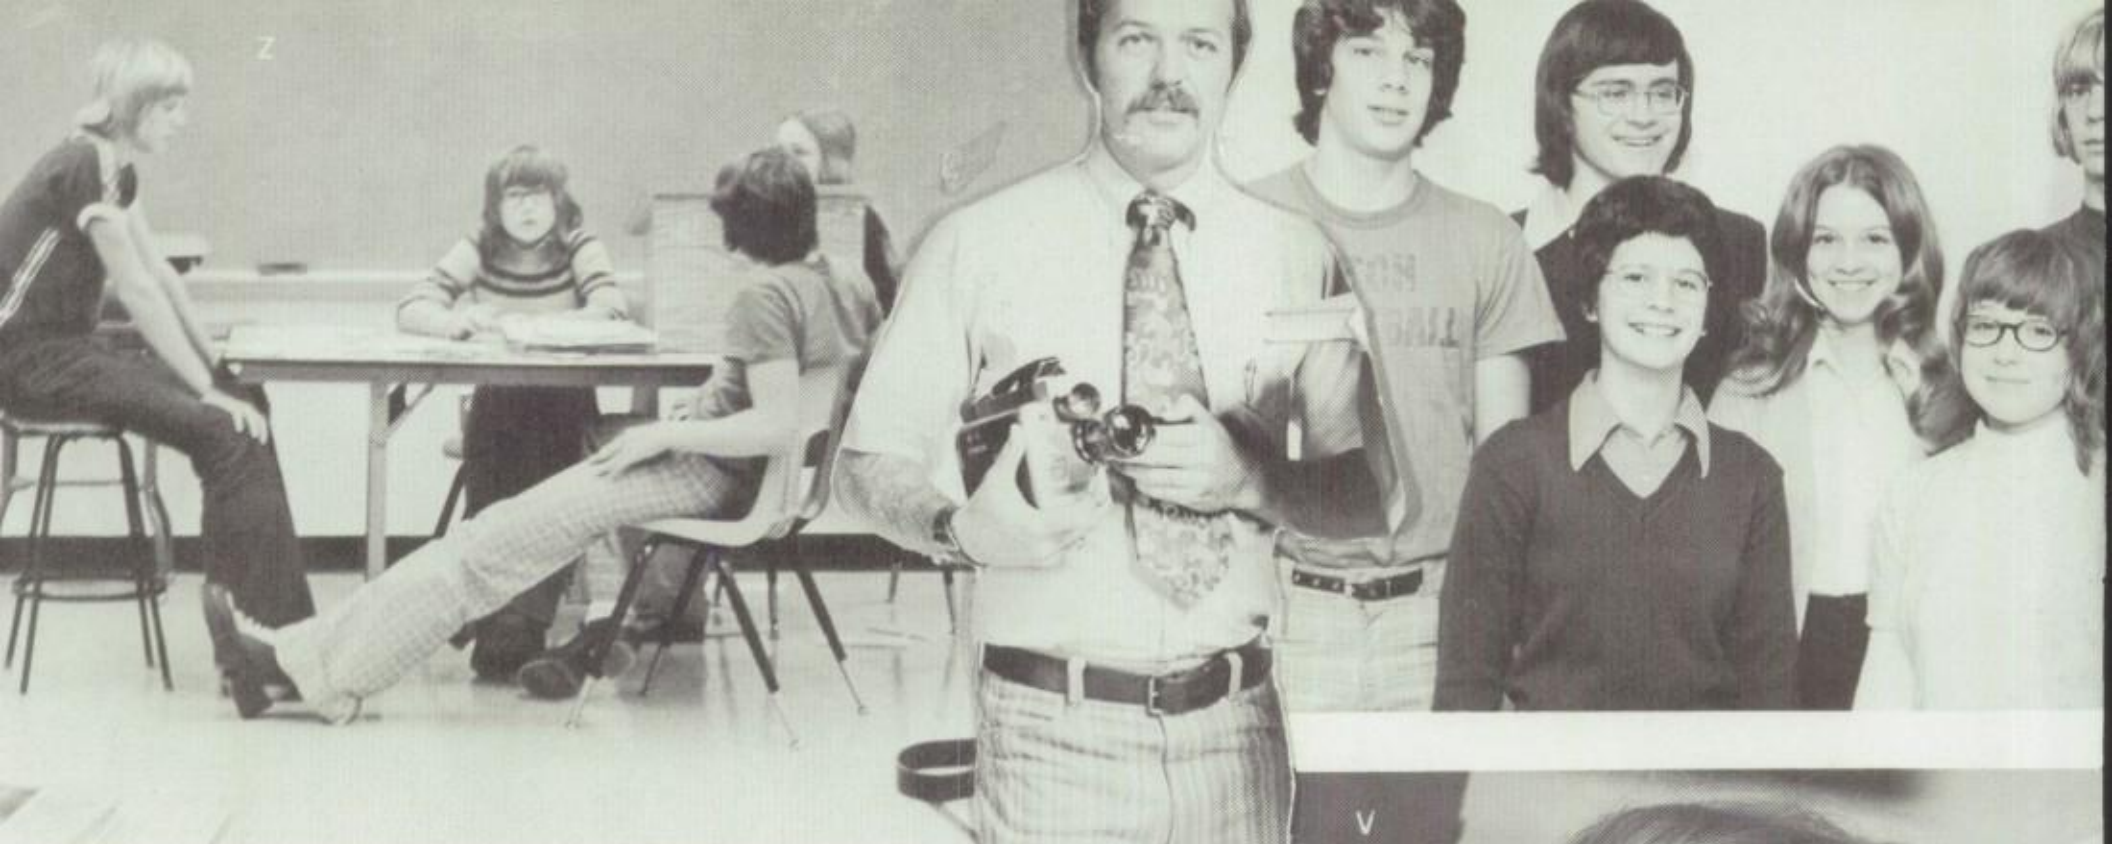

i Binna meataball alla my Life

The Italian Club was a new club at Fitch this year. Under the guidance of Mrs. Stuber, the club struggled to get under way. They planned different money making activities and their various holiday, parties.

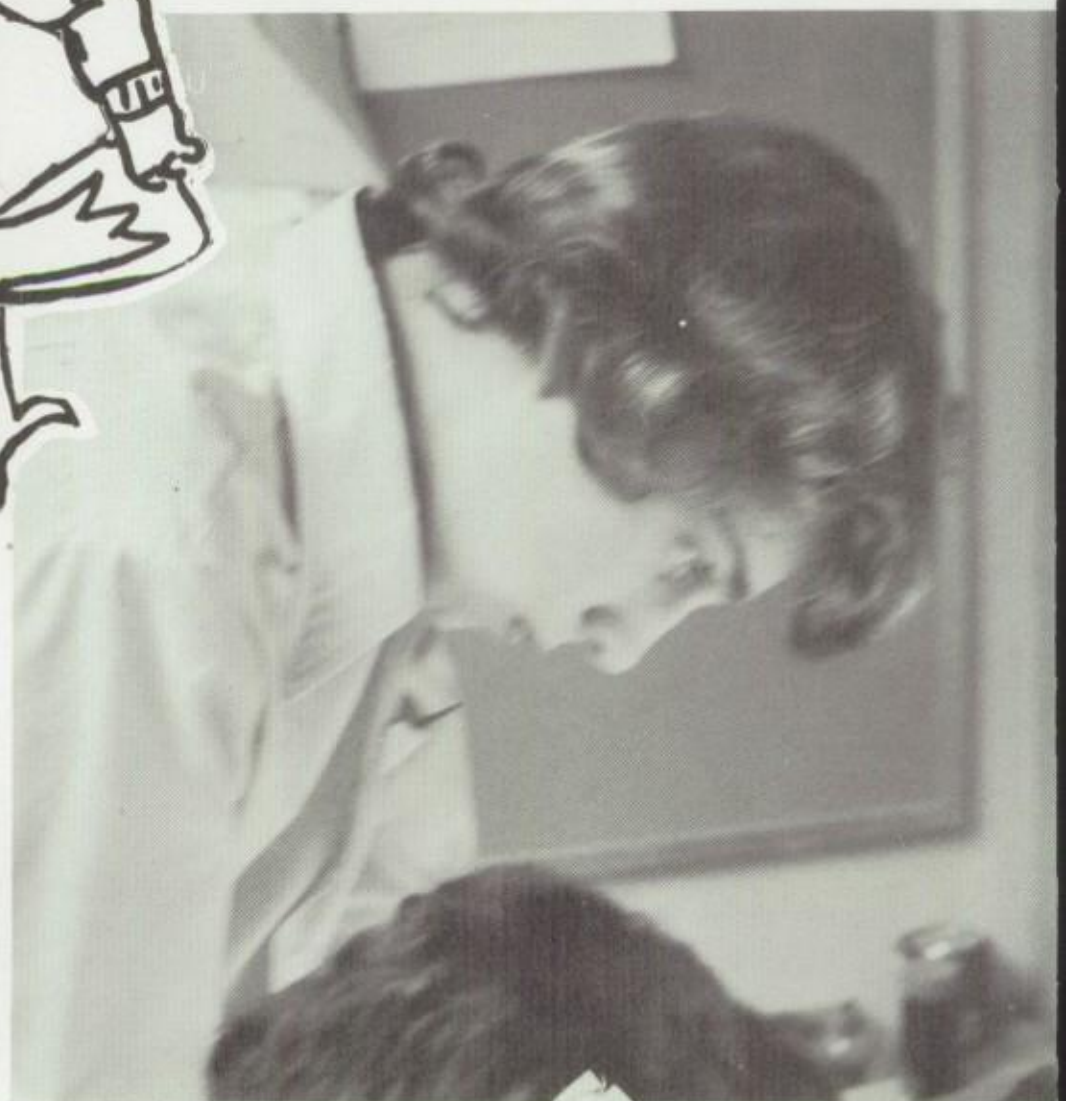

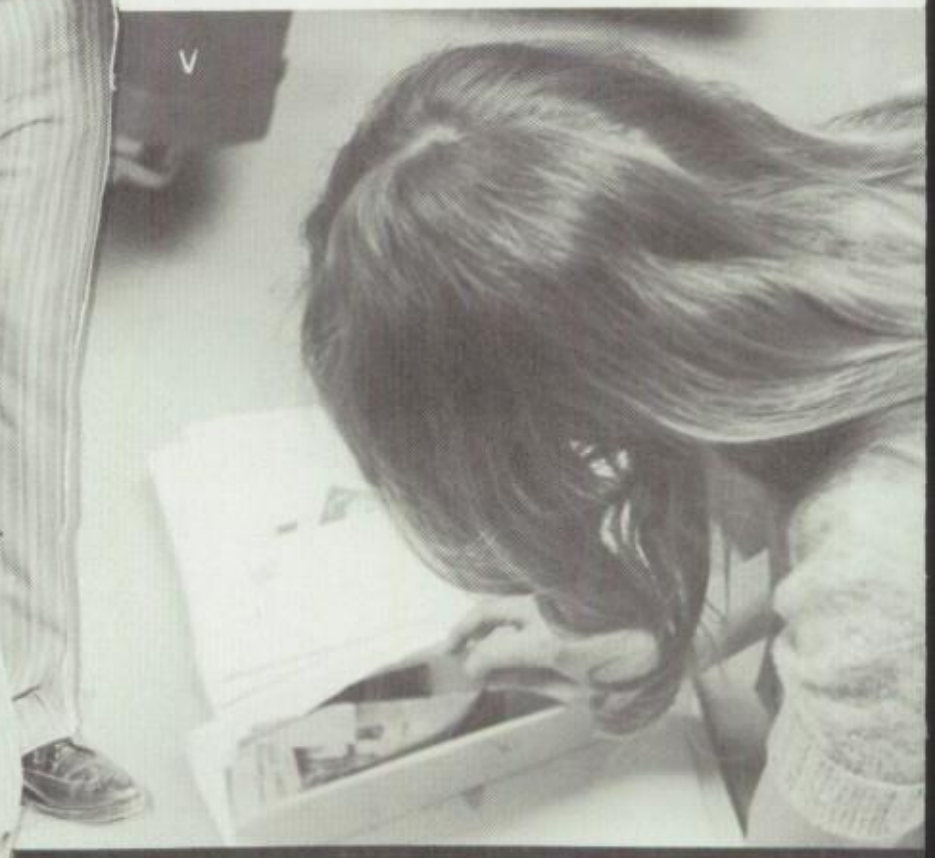

- T. Miss Haller added sparkle and humor to the informal Spanish Club dinner.
- S. There were few signs of Christmas outwardly, but many felt the true generous holiday spirit.
- R. Advisers contributed to the invention of new projects and learned which were received well.
- Q. Discussions weren't always in Spanish, but helped us learn about the people of the country.
- P. Special interests and knowledge were stated when they were thought to be beneficial to the groups.
- O. There was truly a power in learning a language that had never been taught at Fitch.
- N. Trying our new language could not always be complete with simply voice communication. Many gestures were needed to clarify our meanings.
- M. Sometimes getting carried away with knowing the answer got tenses and word orders jumbled so that Mrs. Stuber had the sentence repeated.

For the Talon told us

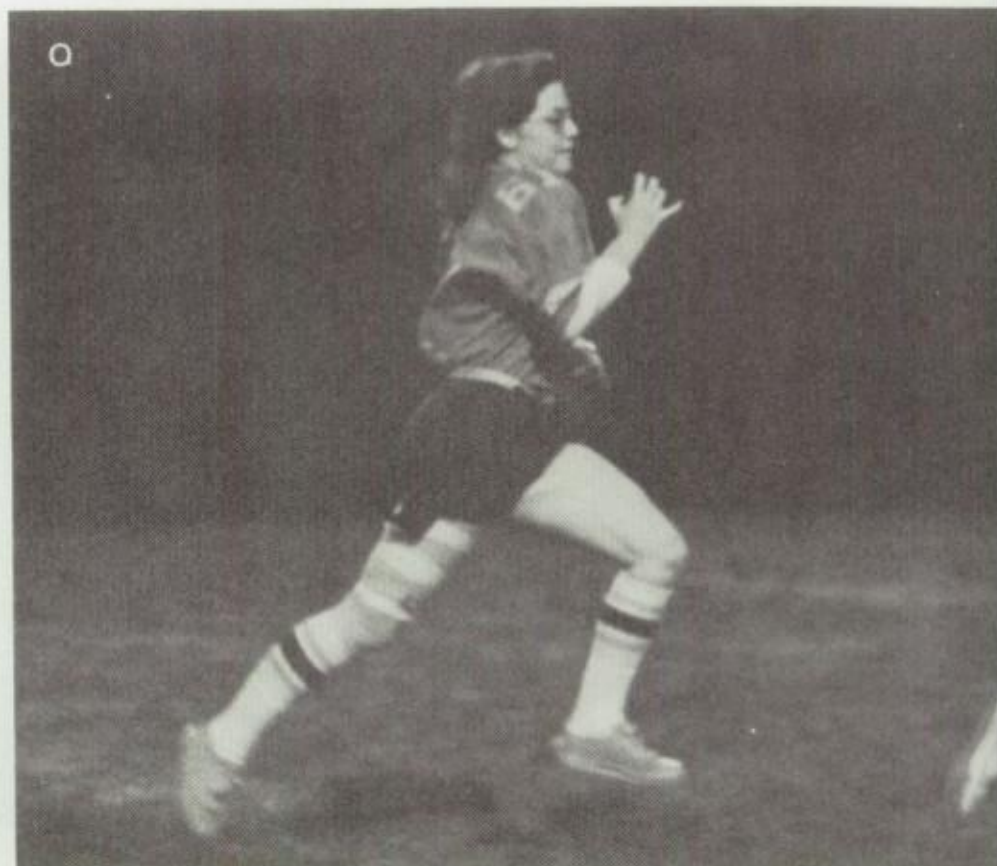

Ingenuity and consistant efficiency are the qualities needed to produce a good school newspaper. Over the years the Fitch Talon has become one of the areas best high school paper, because it has met fully these two requirements. For only fifteen cents the students of Fitch could purchase a first class newspaper which kept up with the everyday school happenings as well as the unusual.

- Z. Sometimes we sat around and did nothing.
 Y. "Well, what do you want me to do now?"
 X. Shirley Fair worked on her section.
 W. We always had fun on Talon.
 V. Even the editor worked on their sections.
 U. Jeff Hencen helped others on their sections.
 T. FRONT ROW: Sue Sangiolosi, Mary Ellen Hernan. BACK ROW:
 Bob Campolito, Dave Arnold, Sue Nagy, Rick Hamaker, and Jeff Ensign.

T. The mighty "mad hatters" came onto the field.
 S. Good defensive blocking helped the hatters.
 R. Beat Buds. Beat Buds. Beat Buds.
 Q. Sue Boyer tried for a touchdown.
 P. The Buds tried to stop forward progress.
 O. Boot one for the Buds.

mad hatters tied buds

One very cold, wet evening the Mad Hatters (seniors) and the Budweisers (juniors and sophomores) played football on a totally drenched field. As the game continued the excitement grew. They battled feverishly to the end and to a nothing to nothing tie. Even though neither side lost, both sides felt defeated. For each team definitely thought they were to be victorious.

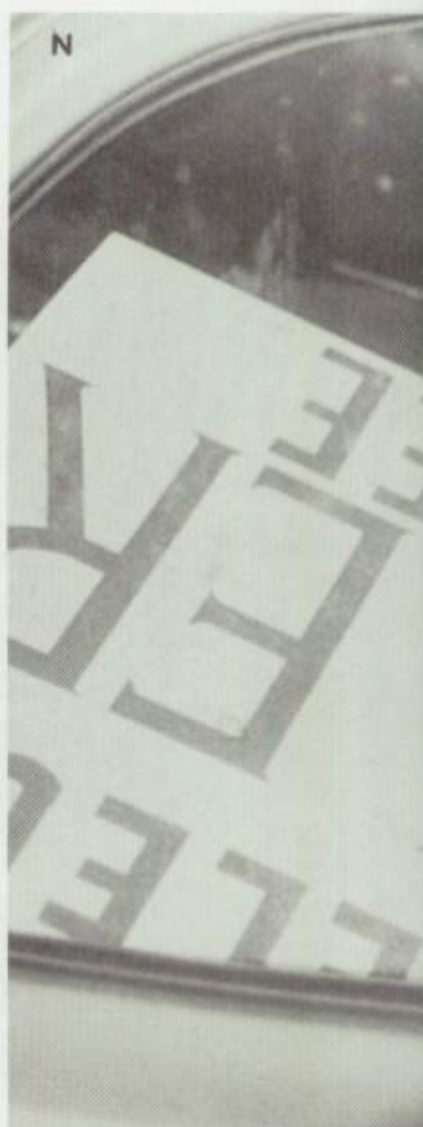

Key Club Collected Political Litter

The Key Club started the year by collecting signs after election day. They attended Kiwanis luncheons on Wednesday. The year's highlight was the annual basketball game with the Sportsmen Club.

- T. It is always nice to get out of school.
- S. "Did you really take that picture?"
- R. Superwoman.
- Q. We all loved to play cageball.
- P. Would you please hit the ball?
- O. "Da. What do you want me to do?"
- N. How many signs can you fit in a VW?
- M. We posed for a picture.

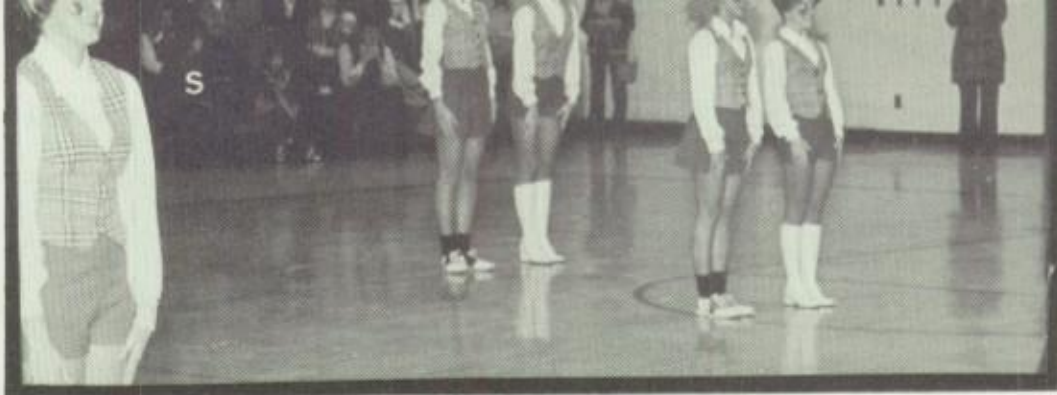

G.A.A. Played Games

The Girls Athletic Association gave Sophomore, Junior and Senior girls a chance to participate in sports. They enjoyed volleyball, basketball, track, football, and baseball. The club built the girls' spirit by increasing their skills in sports.

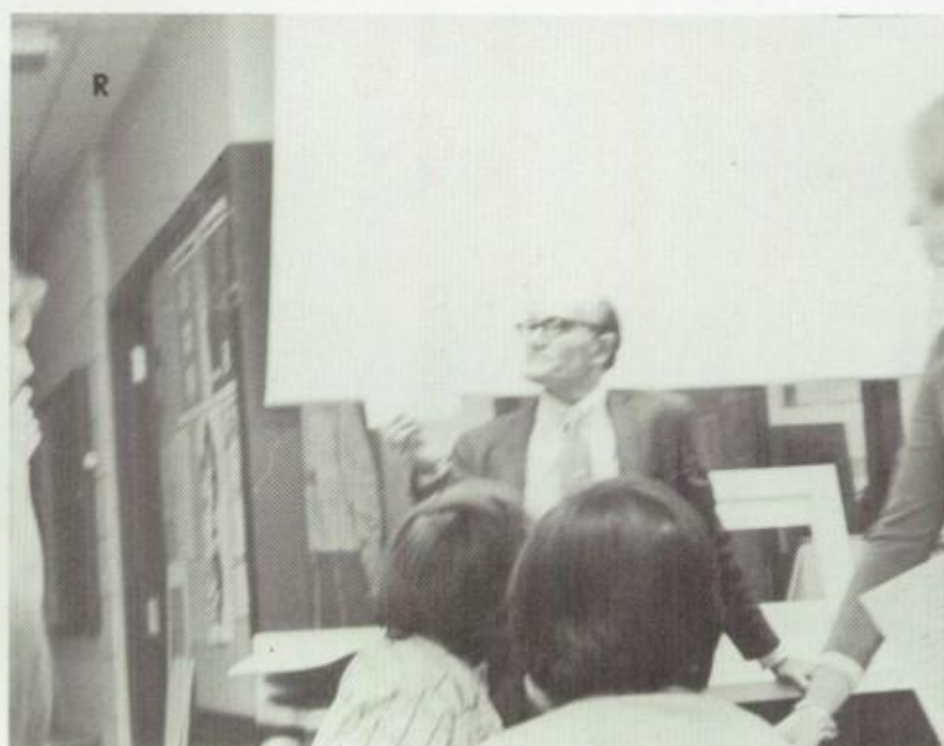

Falcon Cadets were made of tin & rags

During the halftime of every basketball game we were entertained by the Drill Team. Every Wednesday and Thursday the team practiced in the Watson Elementary School all-purpose room to improve their routines for the shows. They made their own costumes. They showed their ingenuity by making up a special Christmas program that was performed at the Chaney game. They dressed as Raggedy Anns and Tin Soldiers. They radiated a relaxed atmosphere for the audience and provided a breather for the basketball team.

- T. Cadets practiced at Watson's all purpose room.
 S. Cadets performed for us.
 R. Hup, two, three, four.
 Q. After the performance we deserved the rest.
 P. Miss Bartlemy watched with amazement.
 O. Starting a new routine was somewhat confusing.

Artists' Club's activities were abstract

The Artists' Club had many students who worked to bring out their hidden talents. In pursuit of this goal, many paintings and clay sculptures were executed. Mr. Gasser and Mrs. Pugsley, the advisers, kept the membership busy by presenting new and challenging media of the world of art.

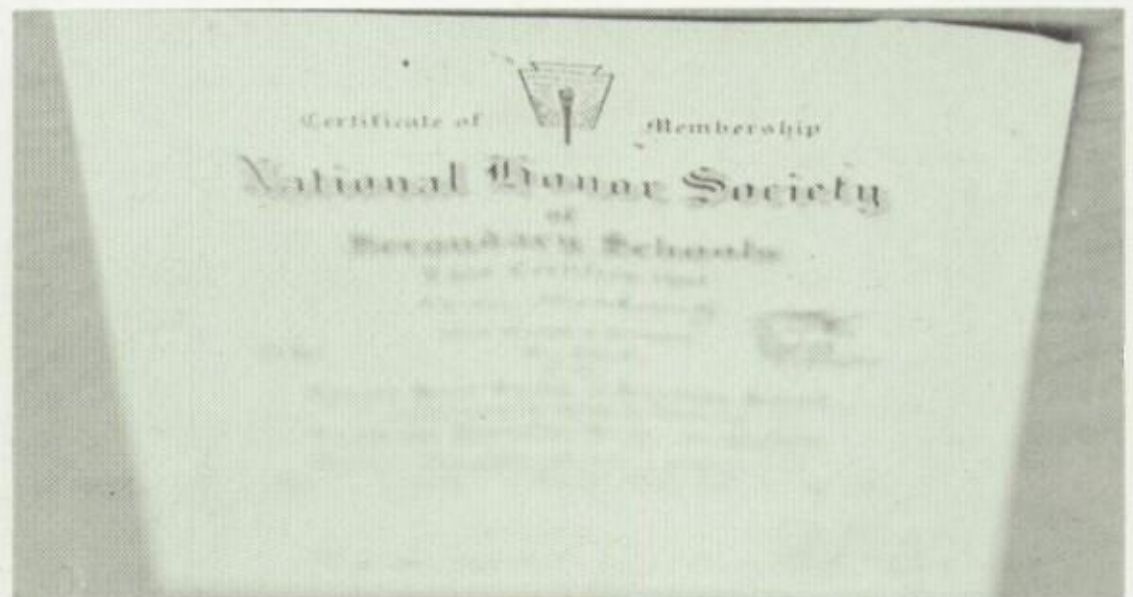

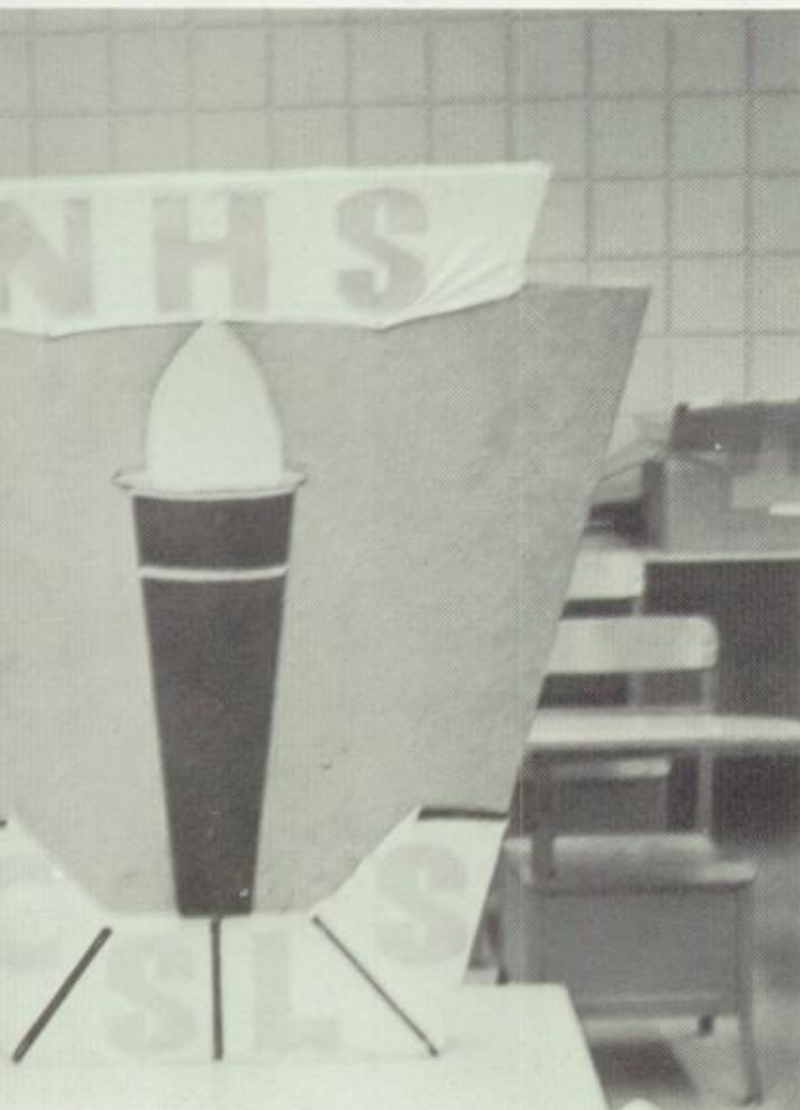

- T. Mrs. Pugsley and her art students displayed their work with pride.
- S. Paying attention always helped in understanding the subject at hand.
- R. Mr. Gasser, the adviser, tried to promote enthusiasm.
- Q. Kate Kojurich, our president, ran the meetings with artistic ability.
- P. Mr. Pallante, adviser for the Science Club.

National Honor Society sponsored BB Programs

Most Juniors and Seniors thought that three letters wouldn't make much difference in their lives. The few that were chosen for N.H.S. found that not to be true. It was a shock for those that found they met the strict requirements. Out of all the students in their class, they were decided upon by a committee of teachers for their individual scholastic records, their leadership, and their participation in school and community activities. After induction they felt the weight of their responsibilities. There were many plans to be made and provisions left for the next year's newly inducted and unexperienced National Honor Society members.

- Z. N.H.S. members sold programs at home basketball games.
- Y and X. Members devised an assembly line when putting together the programs.

Kim Crowned Kiki

The highlight of the 1973 Homecoming Game was the crowning of Miss Kiki Henchar as the Homecoming Queen for Fitch High School. Kiki and her court arrived at the stadium and circled the field in antique automobiles. As the band played, Kiki was crowned by last year's queen, Miss Kim Cunningham, who was escorted by Mark Barabas. After the ceremony the 1973 queen and her court left the stadium in new convertibles. They were later to be seen among the spectators in the home stands.

U. Queen Kiki produced a radiant smile.

T. The girls were escorted onto the field in antique cars and after the ceremony, they were escorted off the field in new sports cars.

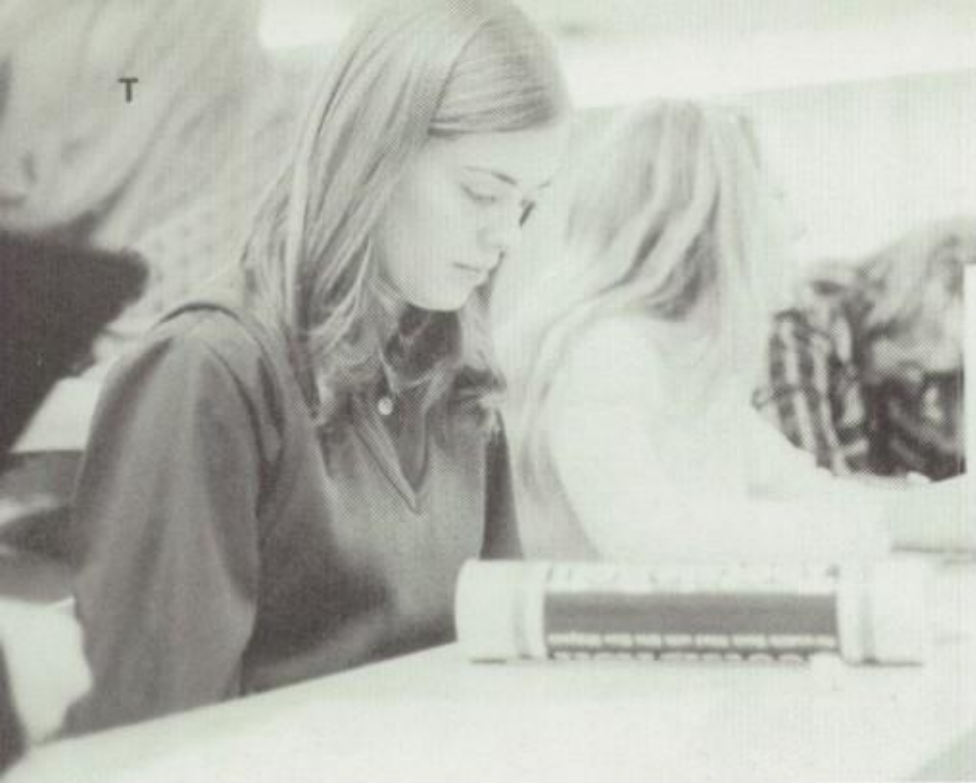

S. The music of Crimson Mist, filled the room and was enjoyed by all.

R. The candidates waited impatiently for the announcement.

Q. Onto the field walks last's year's queen, Kim Cunningham.

T

- T. Zana meditated on the problem at hand.
- S. We paid the strickest attention.
- R. For the first time the freshmen had a turn to participate in student government.
- Q. Dean ran the meeting orderly and was a great asset to student government.
- P. Mr. Razor, the adviser, helped the student council by guiding them in the right way.

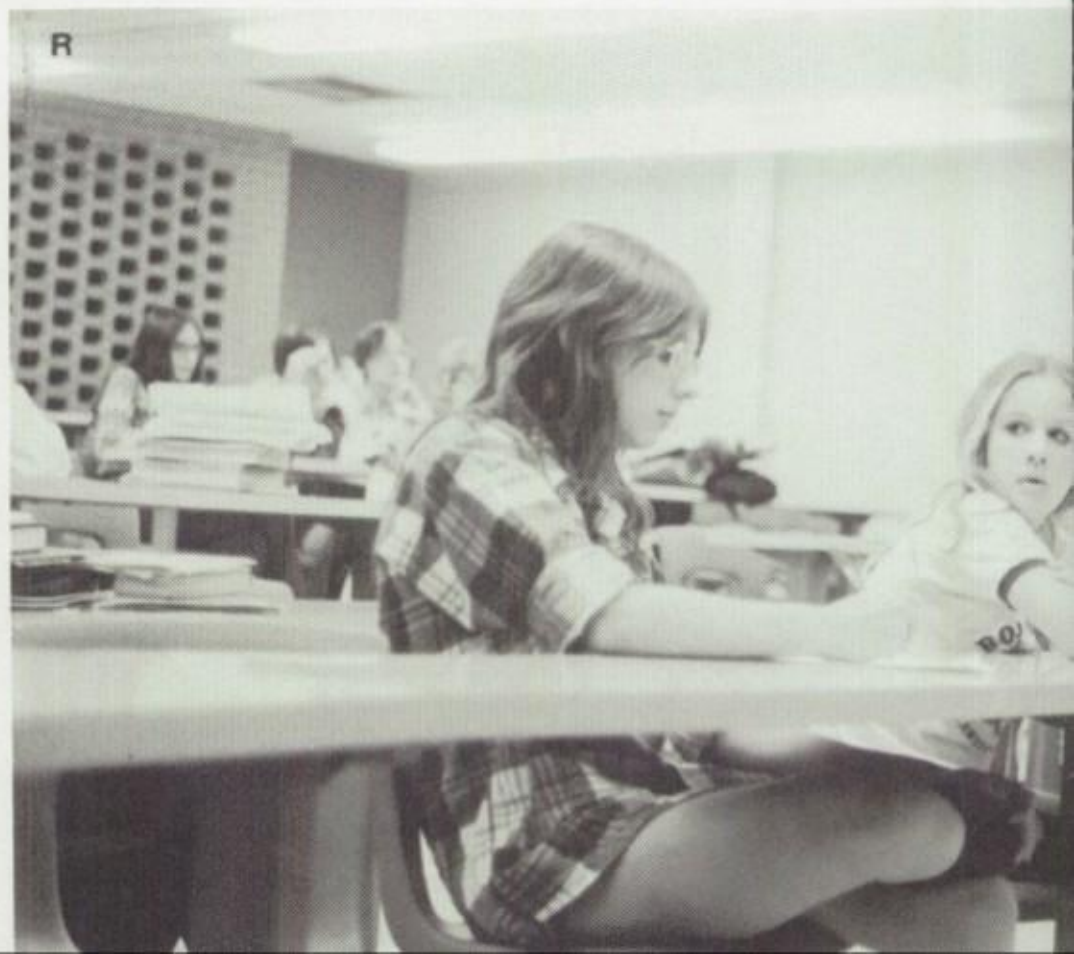

S

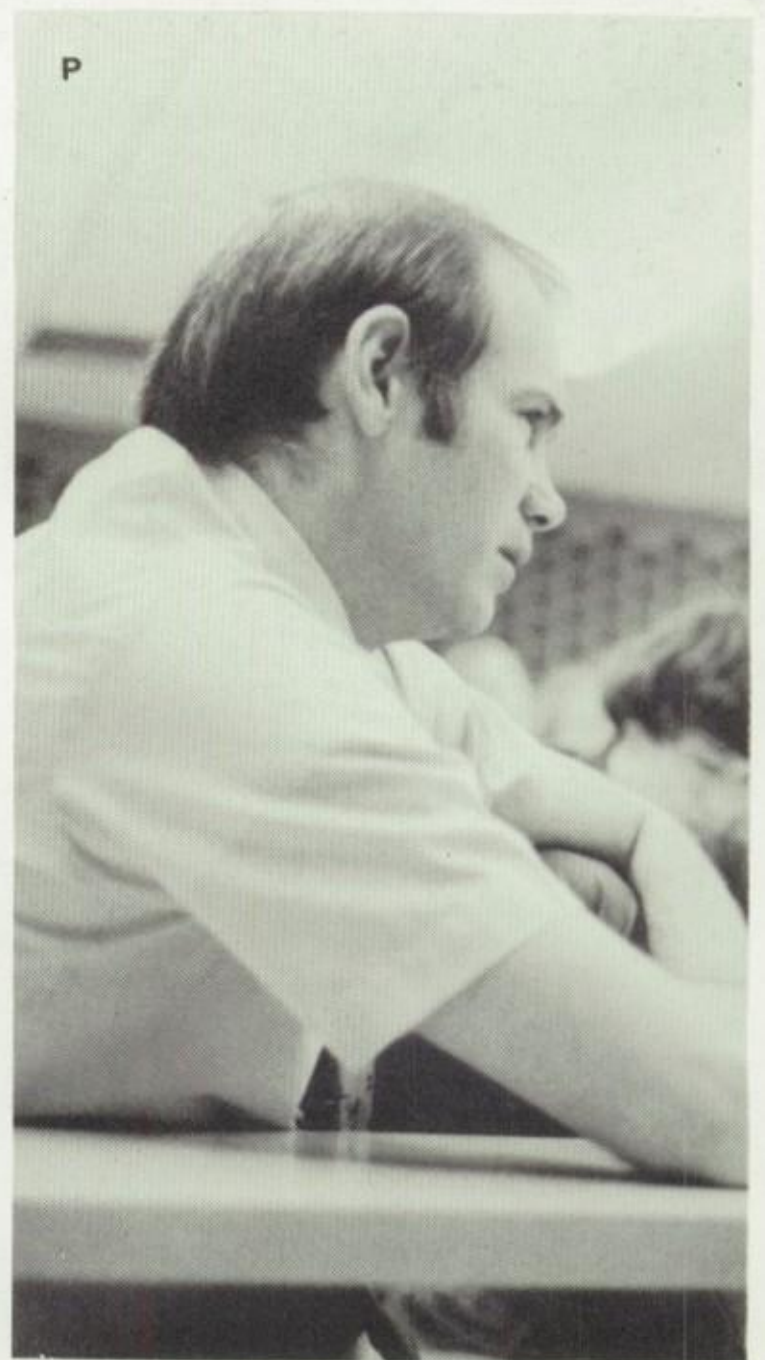

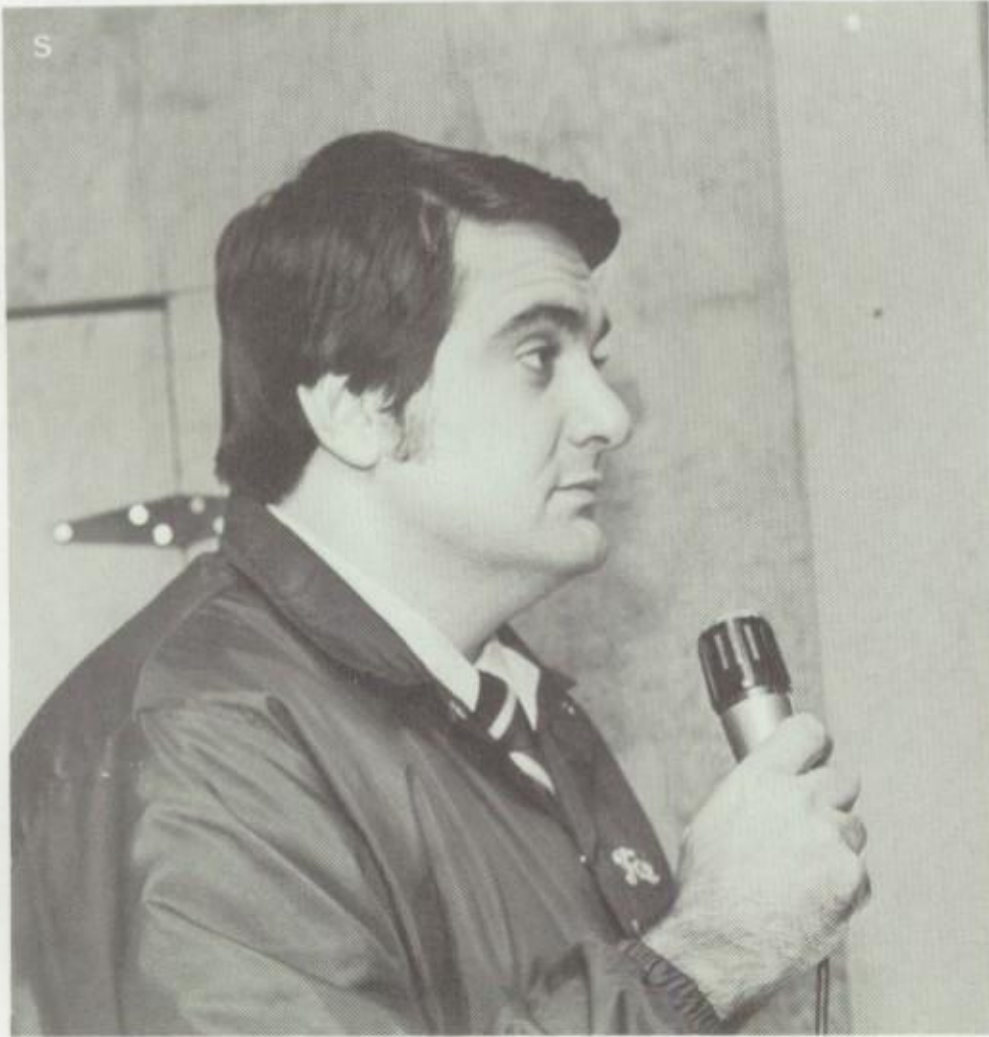

Student Council Voted "no"

Student Council this year was a hard working group of fellow students who during the year governed the student body efficiently. Early in the year the Student Council campaigned for A.L.S.A.C., the fund raising project for St. Jude's Children's Hospital. Later in the year they handled the Homecoming Dance and Powderpuff Football game. Both ventures were complete successes in the eyes of the students that attended them.

R

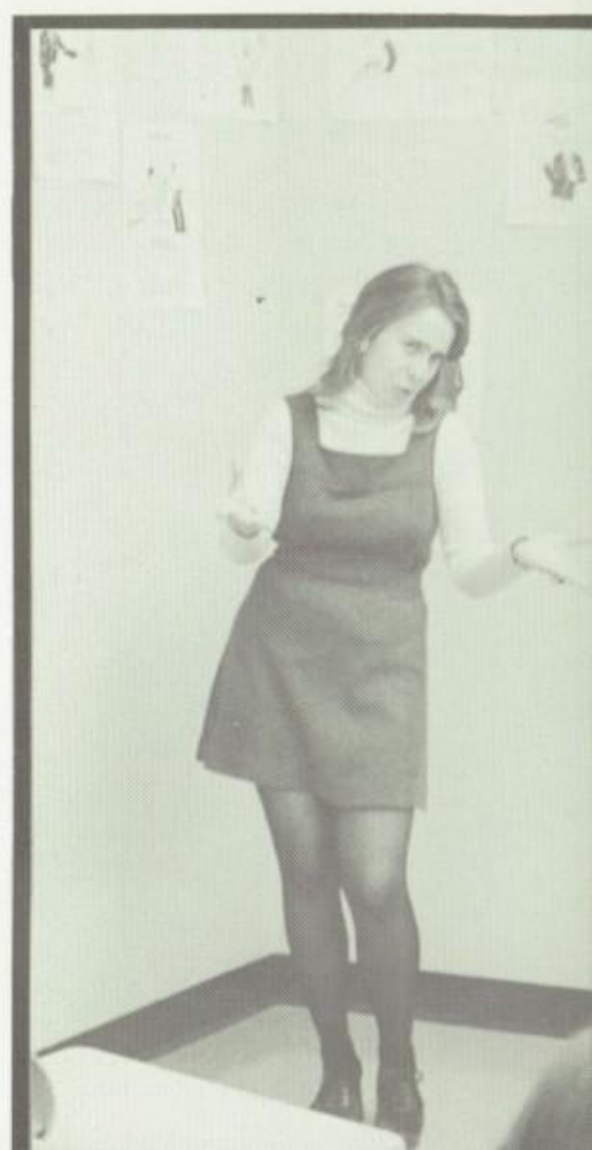

it took team work

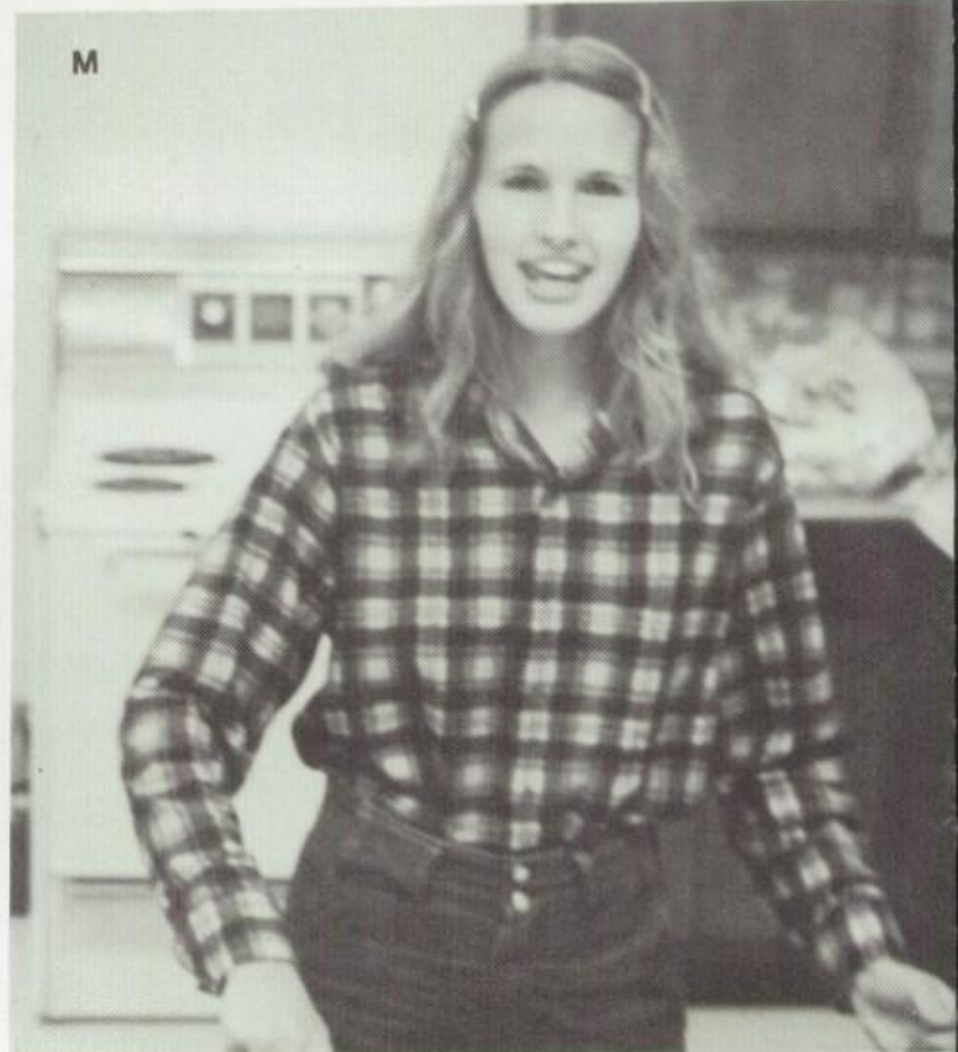

The Speech Team was outstanding this year in individual events and debate. Speeches were repeated at home in solitude as well as at school for their category coaches. They had to be best in each round regardless of the competition. They worked as a team to win Sweepstakes honors at tournaments. Not only did they develop their own styles; but, more importantly, they learned from the styles of other contestants.

- T. Gary James and John Matun kept their files up to date.
- S. Mr. Carano was always there when we needed him.
- R. Chris Zoldak practiced for extemp.
- Q. Let's go.
- P. Randy Bishop, always with an open mouth.

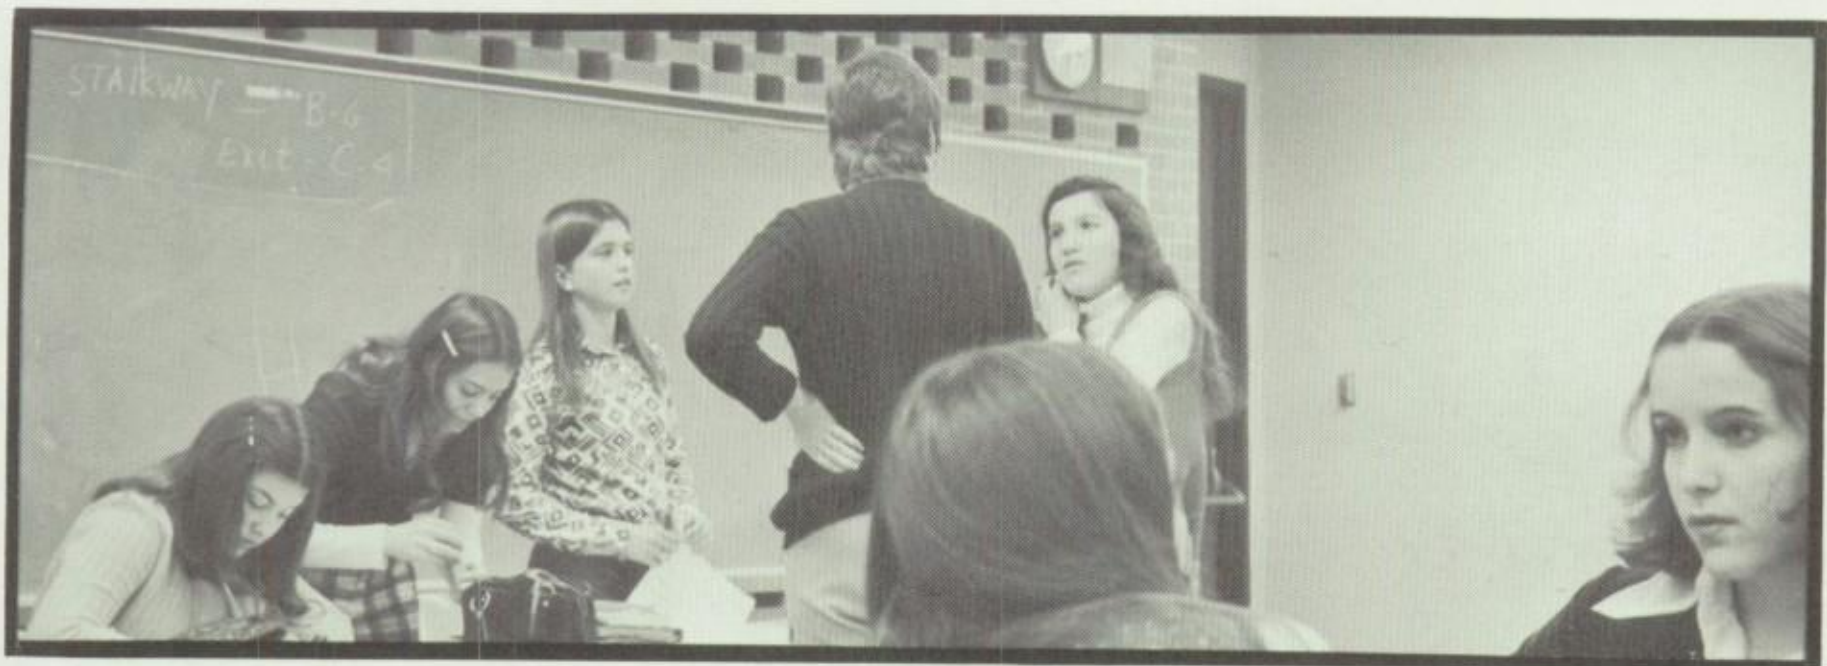

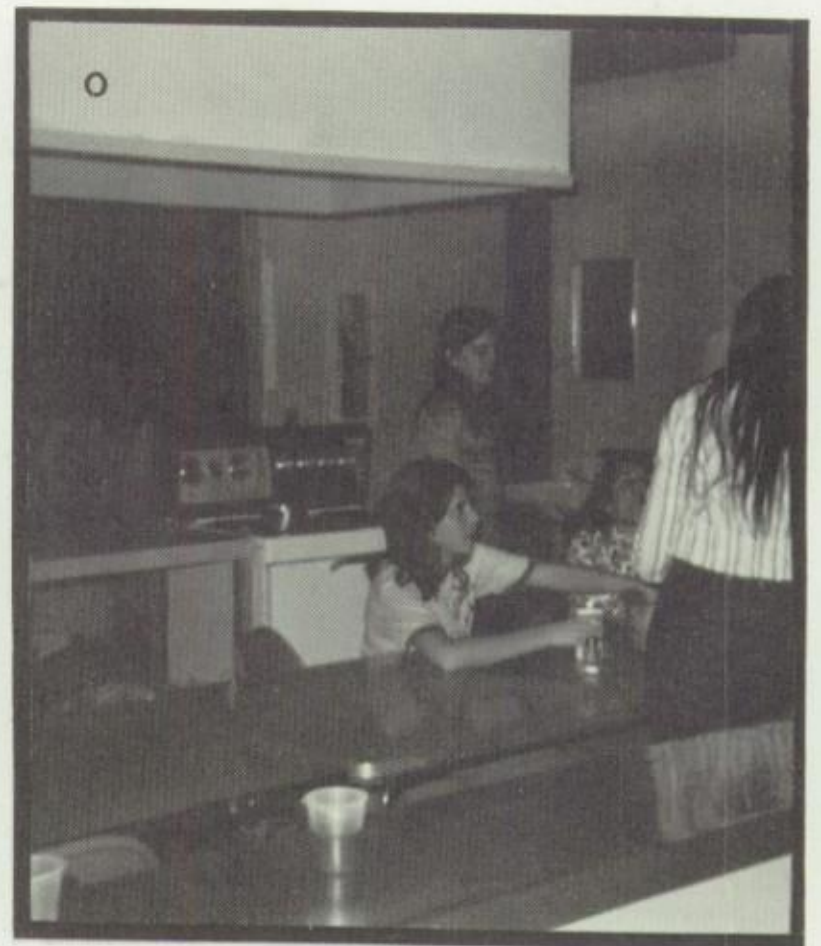

Jr. & Sr. Y-Teens

Gave Service

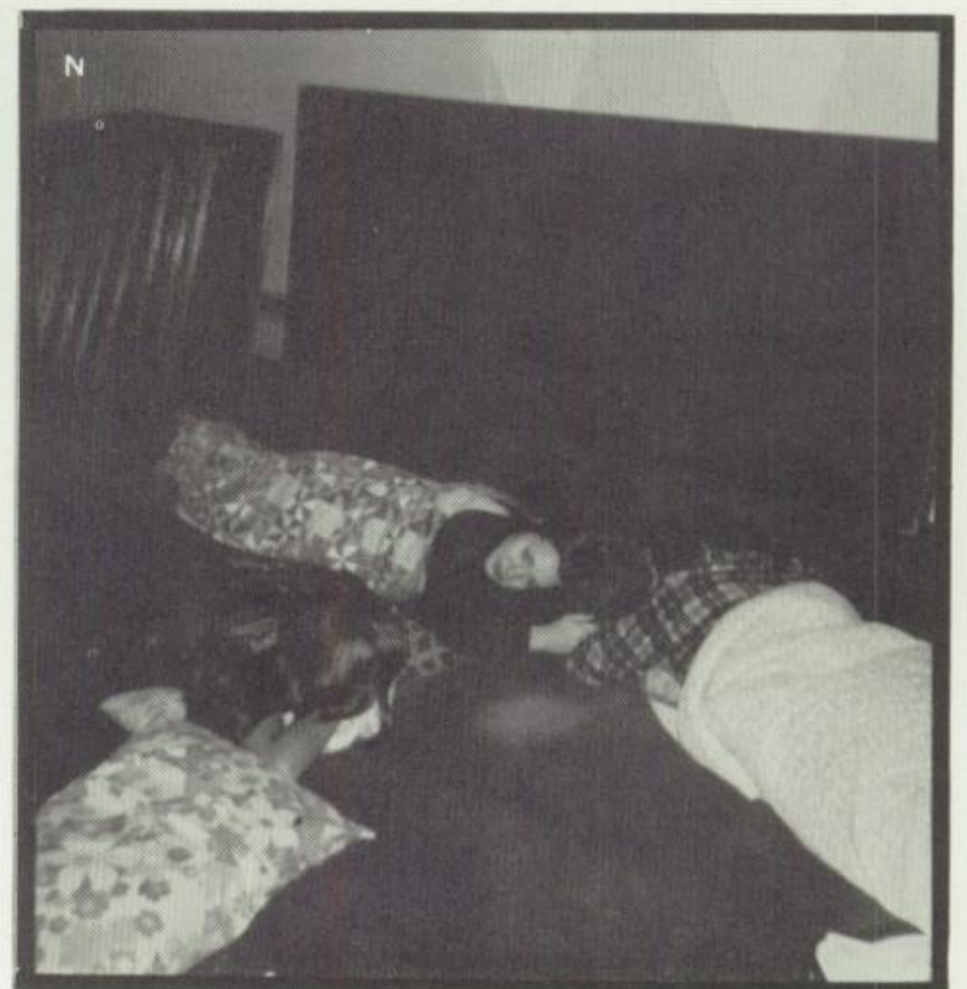

Senior Y-Teens involved themselves in many school activities. This year they sponsored a square dance which recieved a great turn out. They also had other fund raising projects, such as collecting for UNICEF, selling buttons at lunch and having a carnival. They also, sponsored many service projects.

Junior Y-Teens were very active this year. They sold multi-colored and one color carnations at the lunches. For a speciality, red and blue carnations were sold for good luck. Hard candy was also sold to raise money for a trip to New York.

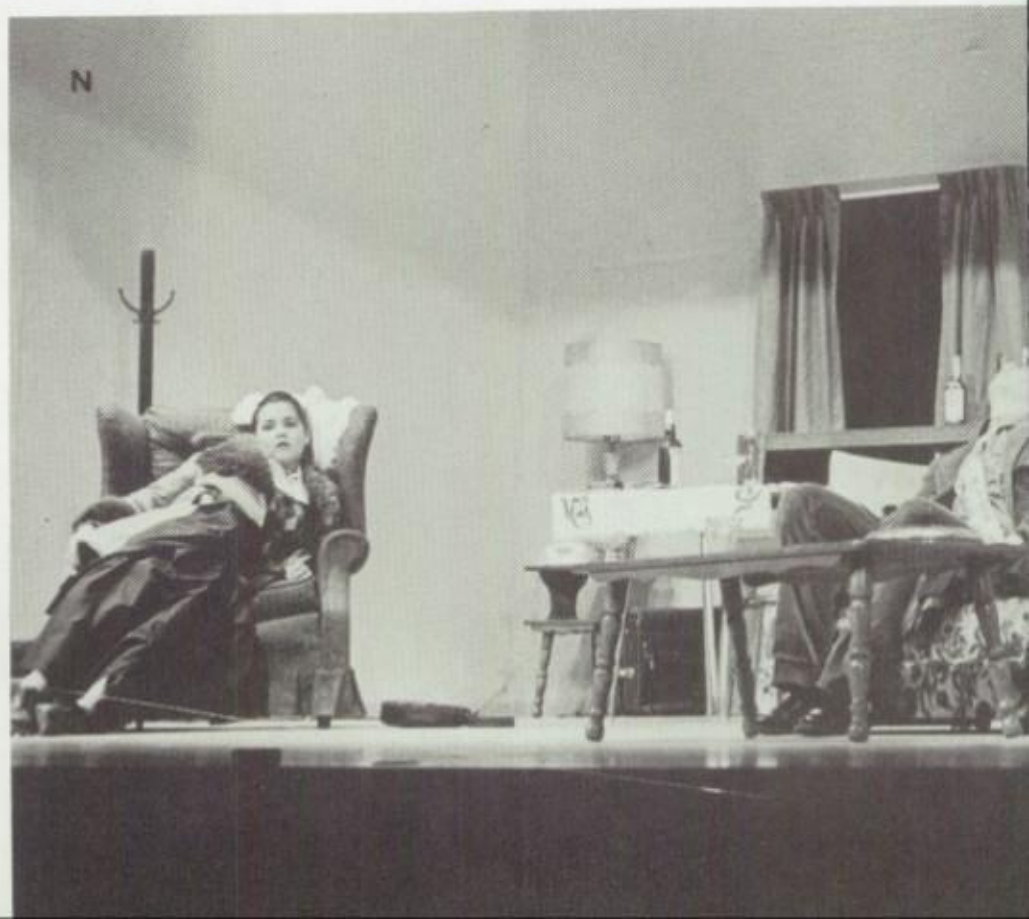

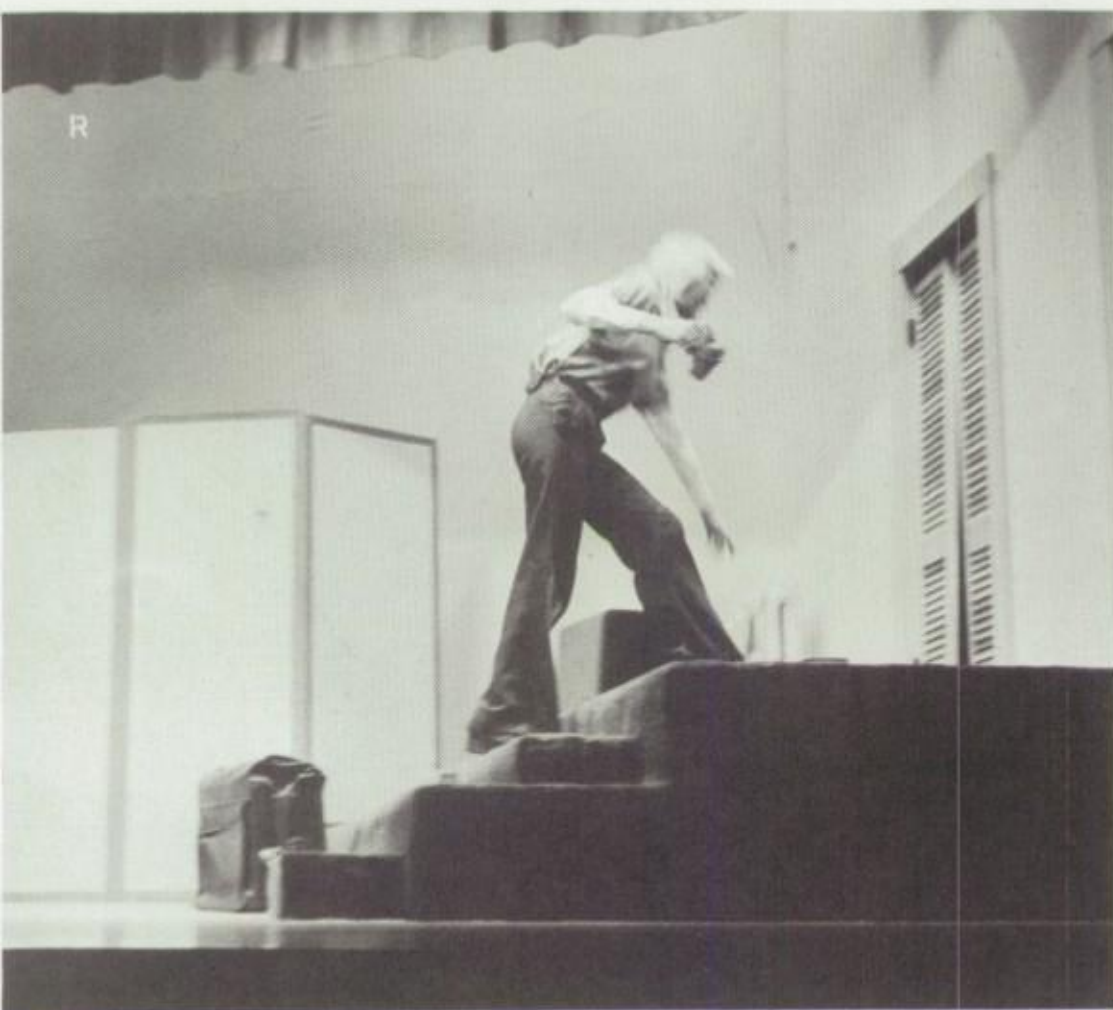

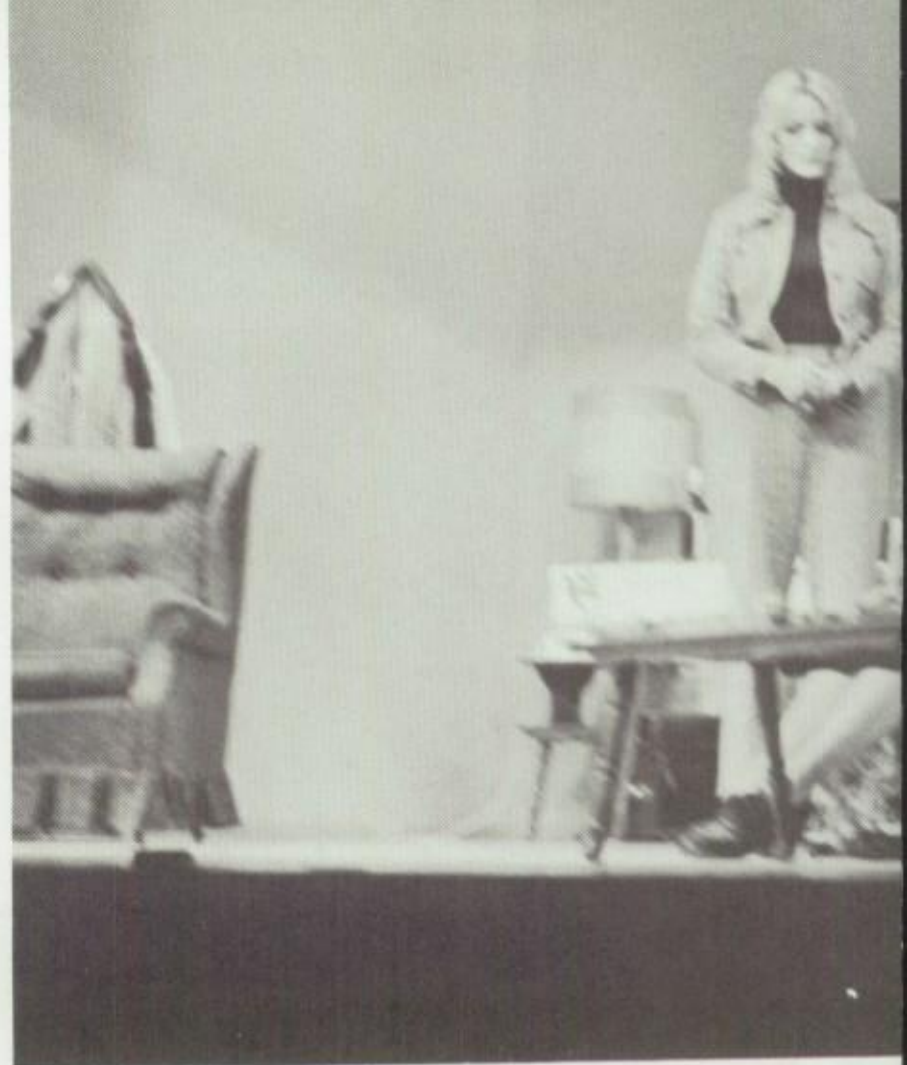

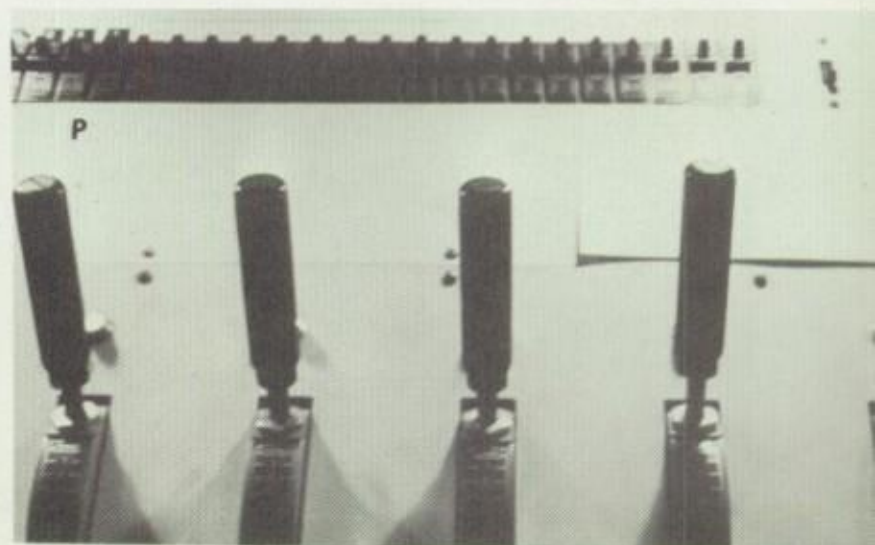

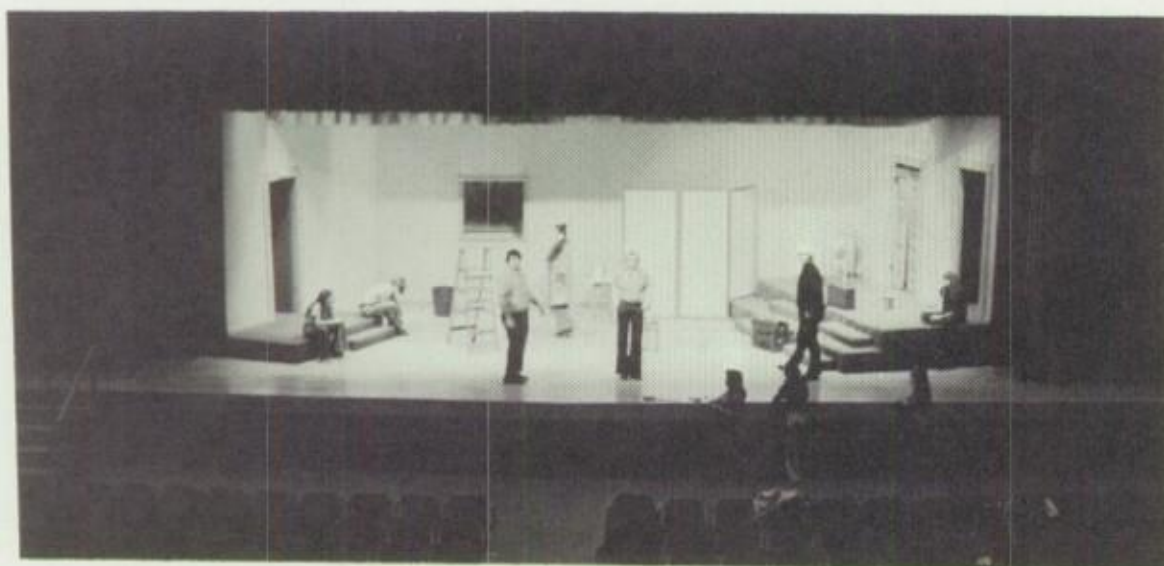

T and S. Senior Y-Teens had a casserole dinner to taste test their recipes for their cookbook.
R and Q. They also made necklaces at Christmastime.
P. A few Junior Y-Teens showed their creativity with blocks.
O and N. Talking came easy to many Y-Teens, but many never came to the parties.
M. Janice Higley led the Senior Y-Teens.

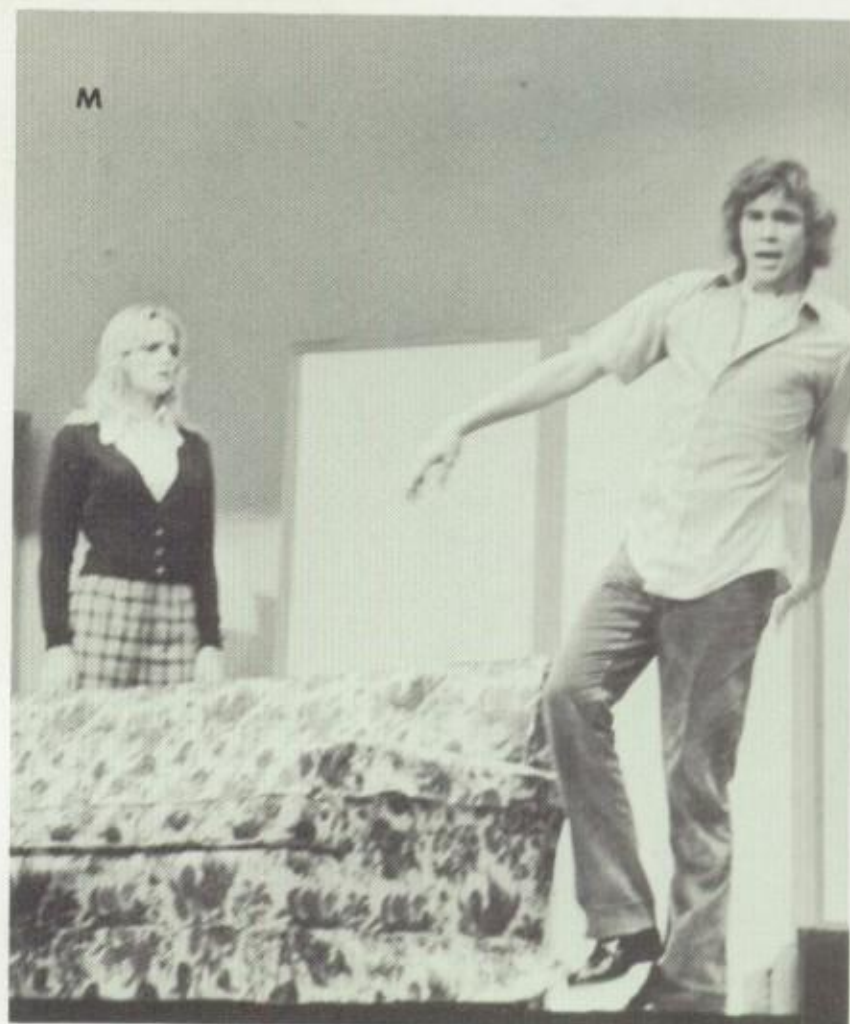

S. It took a lot of pleading to settle this little spat.
 R. Janice Roh did a great job of acting out the part of Corrie Bratter.
 Q. Lee and Jim worked on light crew for the production.
 P. These were the tools of their trade.
 O. "We made it!"
 N. Kim and Rick had one too many ozoos!
 M. Rick Whitten portrayed a vinging drunk,

Drama Club Went "Barefoot"

The first major production of the 1973 school year was Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon. The cast memorized and perfected their lines to make the play sound conceivable to have happened. At the same time the crew prepared a set that put the final touch on the play's realism. The play was presented on two different days in school for the students and once on Sat., Nov. 17th for the public. Every performance was recieved warmly by it's audience.

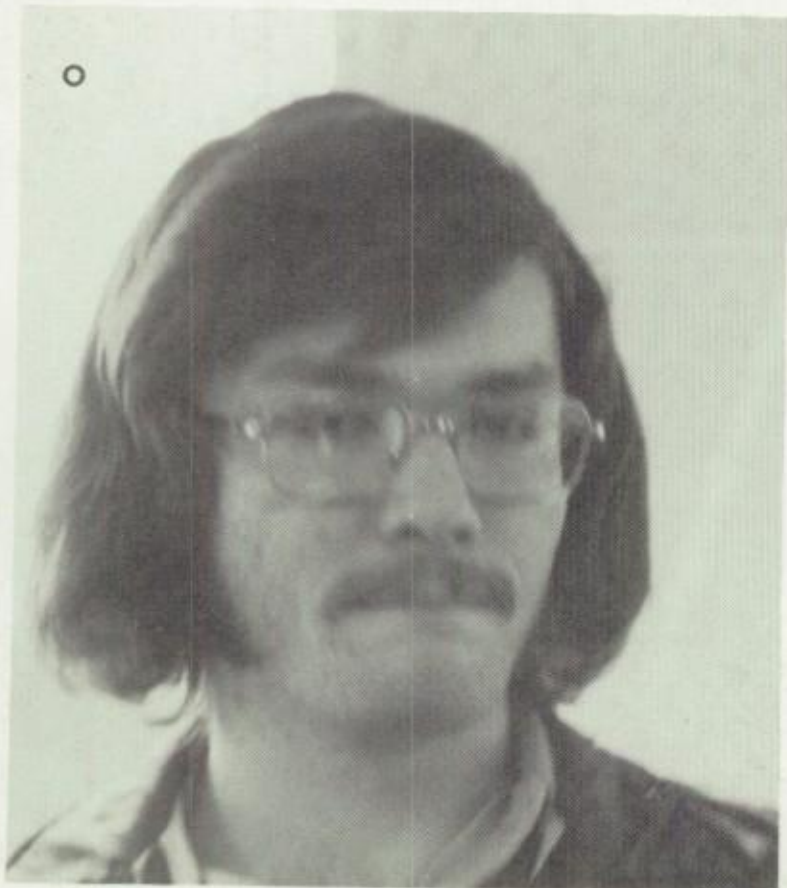

- T. Spirit Leaders practiced cheers at their meetings.
 S. The '73-'74 Sportsmen Club.
 R. Through Sportsmen Club many guys became good friends.
 Q. Some Spirit Leaders suggested ways of promoting more spirit.
 P. Nick, traesurer of the club, kept charge of the money earned from projects.
 O. Vice President, Gary Shileds helped keep everything in order.

Sportsmen & Spirit Leaders Promoted Involvement

The Spirit Leaders were a group of girls from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes. They were one of the main groups that promoted spirit in our school. They had many fund raising projects and used the money to make signs and other decorations for school spirit. They were seen cheering in their spirit sweat-shirts at the pep assemblies and the football games. We hoped they would encourage the basketball team as they had other sports.

Enthusiastic sport fans were urged to join the Sportsman's Club. The members needed not to be participants in any sports activities. They were united in their interests through sports and became great friends by watching the pro games together.

T and S. Club members looked to Latin with interest.
R. A few members helped make the club exciting.
Q. Mrs. Brown advised the Latin Club.

Latin Lived

Latin Club though not a large or widely known club was held together by Mrs. Brown, who tried to build Latin Club. Their officers were Marylou Borden, Alkie Finnie, and Charyl Boulin.

The 1973

Austintown-Fitch Yearbook

SUPPLEMENT

Last year's track team again had great expectations with thirteen lettermen returning. Coach Garcia had a lot to be happy about with a variety of sophomores, juniors, and seniors including a couple of promising freshmen. The freshmen, coached by Mr. Hura, had their second consecutive undefeated season. They also ran their way to a Steel Valley Championship.

- Z. State Champ, Bob Lunn, breaking the string was a familiar sight.
- Y. FRONT ROW: Coach Garcia, Steve Fedina, Mark Bates, Rich Kemp, Mickey Pelanda, Ron Pentz, Dave Drabison, Mike Hahn, Duane Gresh, John Alleman, Chris Davis, Coach Resch. SECOND ROW: Dalvin Baehler, Jeff Kunkle, Nick Varveris, Ken Letessa, Bill Bieltz, Bob Dimick, Alex Shaffo, Larry Bako, Tim Lane, Jeff Fabian, Bob Horvath, Coach Roberts. THIRD ROW: Jeff Walters, Eldon Jones, Bob Lunn, Bob Wire, Paul Giba, Ed Pollack, Frank O'masta, Joe Joseph, Joe Stanavich, Dave Erlenbach, Mike Katko, Joe Hammond. BACK ROW: John Daubenspek, Tony Bayer, Bill Chappell, Bob Dannels, Dave Porter, Scott Repp, Jeff Roth, Paul Pogany, Mike Nyalka, Mike Vitullo, Rick Parker.
- X. The string had to be held tightly.
- W. Trying to stand on the cross bar was very hard.
- V. Ron Pentz was congratulated for his fine performance.
- U. Bob Dimick and Jeff Fabian made up half of the great "mile relay".
- T. Dalvin Baehler sprinted across the finish line.
- S. Picture taking was made hard when the team knew they were being photographed.

13 lettermen return to lead Fitch track hopes

The Falcon Tri-State Classic was again sponsored by the Falcon Foundation and held on the Fitch oval. The varsity made a good showing, taking a variety of places. The team was Steel Valley Champs with an all out effort. For individual team efforts, Bob Lunn took first place in the State Meet running the two-mile. Dalvin Baehler finished second in the same event.

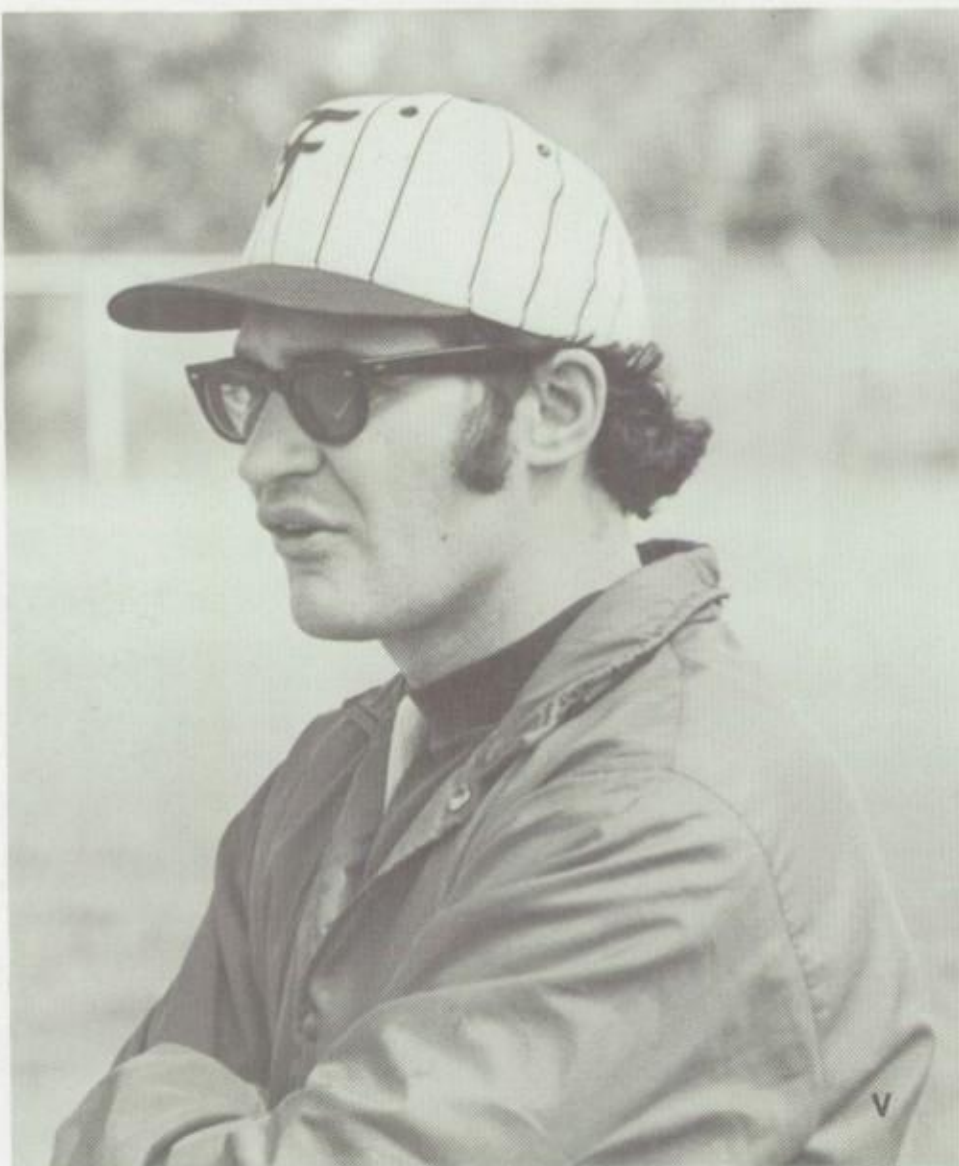

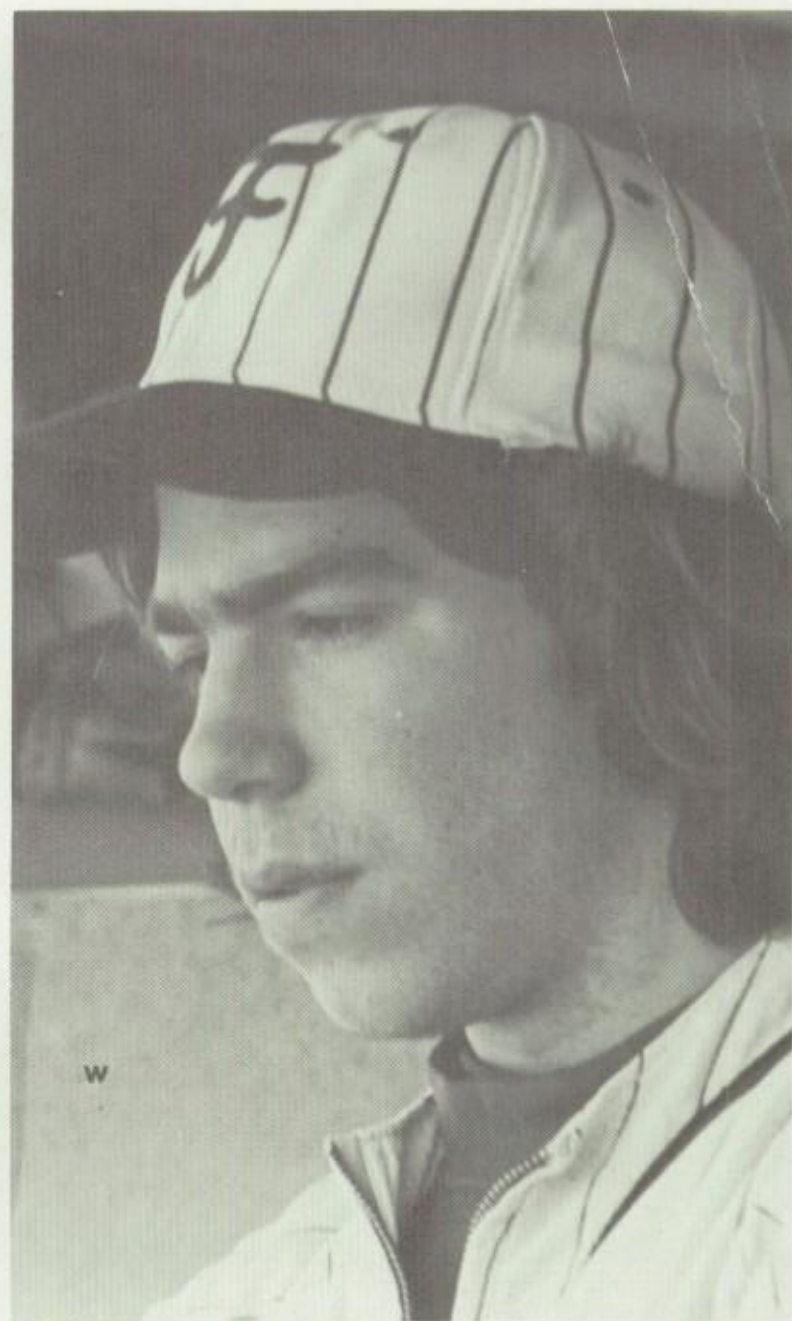

- Z. Duane Gresh placed very well in the hurdles.
- Y. Up and over, Joe Hammond made and broke records.
- X. Long strides and controlled breathing were essential for running.
- W. Paul Pogany gritted his teeth, let out a horrifying yell and put the shot.
- V. Signs were outward evidence of inward spirit.
- U. Mike Hahn and Joe Hammond made a great pole vaulting duo.
- T. Quick jack-rabbit like starts, were needed when the competition was stiff.
- S. Ken Letessa warmed-up for the discus throw.
- R. Rich Kemp crosses the finish line with both pain and relief.
- Q. Eldon Jones's style of running was very essential to victory.
- P. Bob Dimick finished his leg of the relay with a nice lead.

Baseball '73 boasted of many returnees from the '72 Batman Squad. Powerful pitching, hitting, and base-running complimented the fantastic enthusiasm of the whole team, especially the lettermen. This high spirit and qualified coaching helped the Falcons down to the season's last out.

Z. Ray Betts proved to be one of our better mound performers.

Y. Getting physically ready for the season is an all important ritual. Baseball is no exception.

X. Baseball means hustle as shown by Wally Ford.

W. Paul Pancoe revealed the concentration involved in the sport.

V. Coach Bob Lahoski surveyed the situation.

U. Keeping the runner in check was all part of the game.

T. Watching for the signal from the third base coach was runner Tod Pancoe.

S. Coaches Lahoski and Richard Coppola spent much of their time and effort teaching out batmen the "ins and outs."

R. The 1973 Falcon Baseball Team.

Q. Ray Betts delivered a strike with everything he had.

The girls on the track team tried to the best of their abilities to succeed in the event in which they were competing. The Freshmen proved their success by placing:

2nd Boardman Invitational
2nd Warren Invitational
2nd Tri-County Invitational

Varsity:

2nd Boardman Invitational
6th Warren Invitational

- Z. Following through put that little extra on the pitch.
- Y. Safe! But, next time, you'll be sorry!
- X. Hey Ump! Make him stop throwing so hard!
- W. "Can't win 'em all!"
- V. So what, I only struck out. You can't expect me to do everything.
- U. Meanwhile back at the dugout, "All right! Who stole my bat?"
- T. The "HAPPINESS OF SUCCESS" brought smiles to many faces.
- S. Skill, speed, and accuracy was needed for jumping hurdles.
- R. The expression of happiness proved she was successful.
- Q. When competing in the long jump one had to have long legs.
- P. Track involved many long hours of practice.

The Baseball Cheerleaders showed their loyalty to the team through their spirit-filled cheers. Faith in the team was displayed by their vocal support.

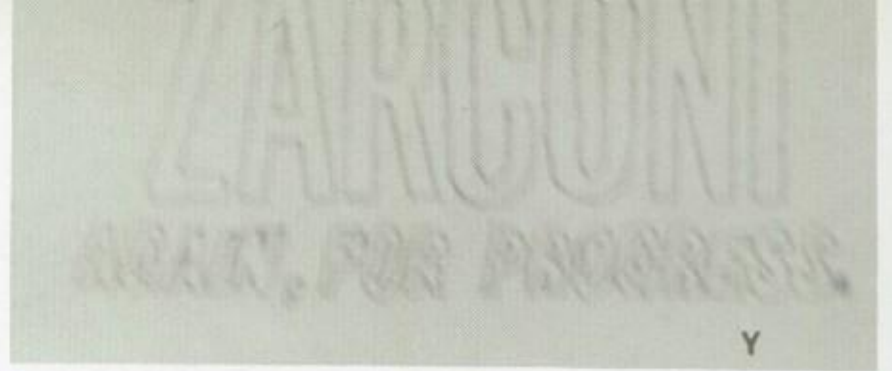

Many girls who tried out for Drill Team (The Falcon Cadets) spent many hours after school learning different steps in becoming a member of the team which performs for halftime of basketball games.

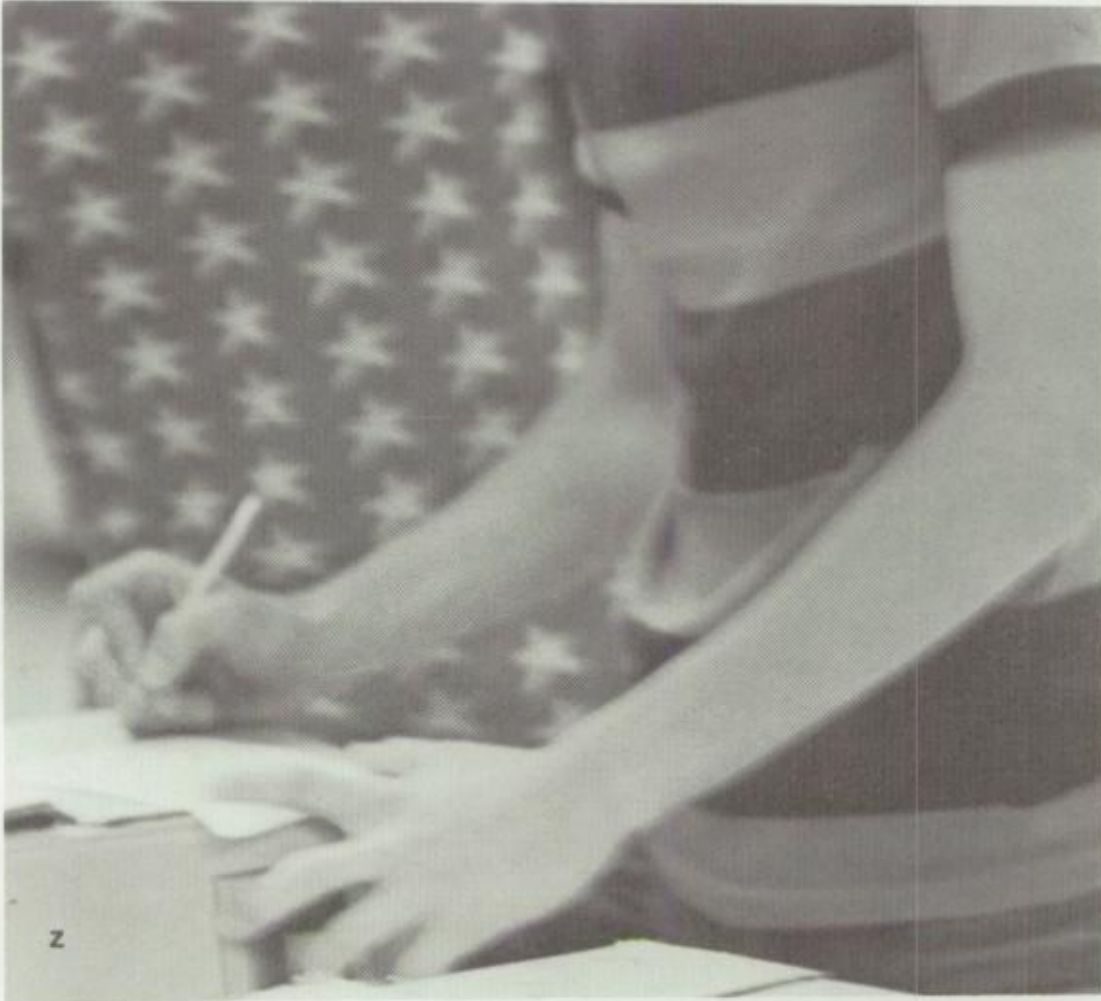

- Z. The different jumps highlighted many of the cheers displayed by Ginger Coates.
- Y. A "SMILE" was very important when leading cheers.
- X. The Baseball Cheerleaders were: Cindy Gasior, Ginger Coates, Dee Davenport, and Sue Christy.
- W. The split also added to many of the cheers.
- V. Through their cheers the cheerleaders helped to swing the team on to victory.
- U. Drill Team tryouts meant many long hours of practice after school.
- T. During a break, the girls would think of what steps they should improve.
- S. Interested teachers observed each girl as she practiced.
- R. Each girl had to learn a routine.

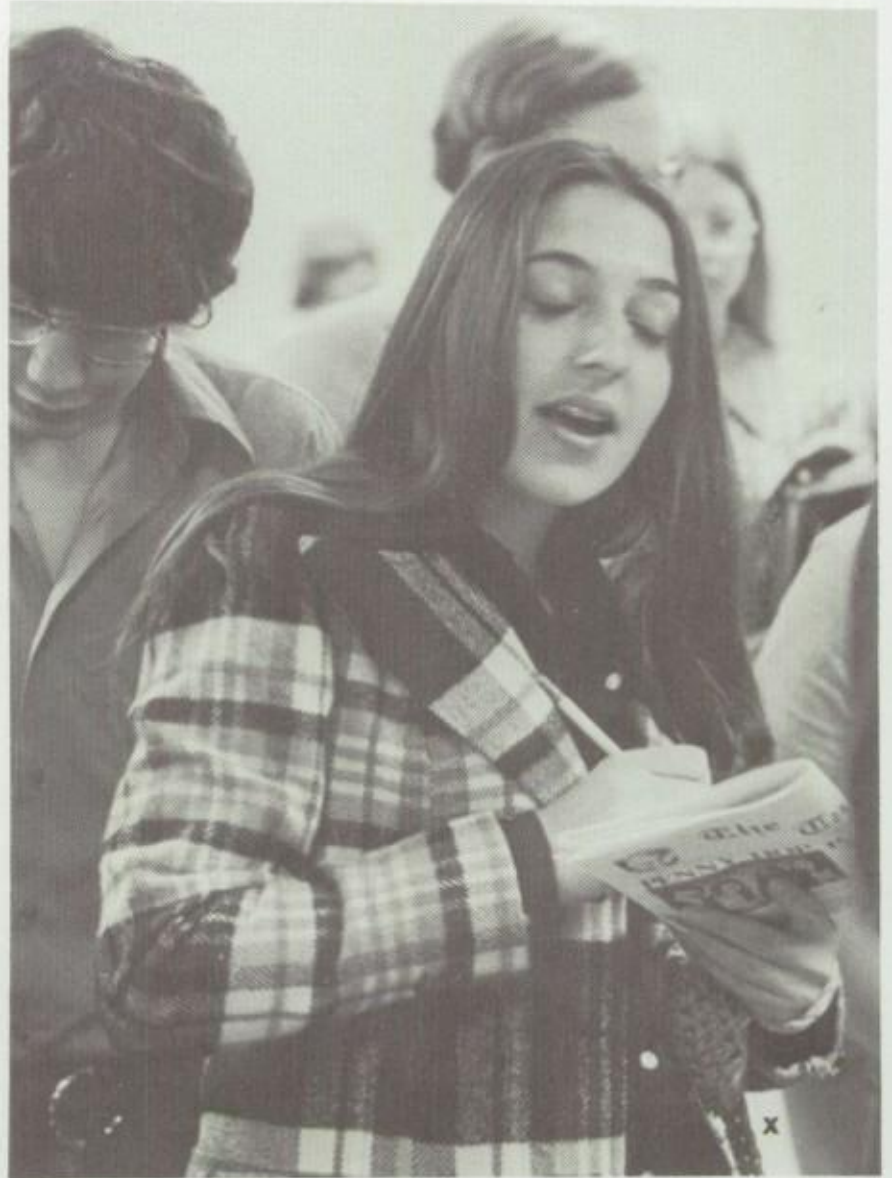

Not all of the candidates were able to win, but the student body felt they had elected the best qualified. Everyone of the candidates worked to get elected. This work consisted of making speeches, putting up signs and just plain talking with fellow students.

- Z. Voting was a privelege which was given to those who were registered.
- Y. Joe Zarconi was running for Senior Class President.
- X. Barb Shick voted for whomever her pencil indicated.
- W. At times, voting did get a bit hectic for those who helped.
- V. Outgoing Senior Class President, Kurt.
- U. Joe Zarconi and Debbie Remias voted Wonder for whom?
- T. Voting took time . . .
- S. Especially if your best friends were running.
- R. Joe had signs up all over the building.
- Q. The new Freddie for 1973-74 worked hard to get elected . . .
- J. ... and Marcia Gamble worked the most.

On May 29, 1973 the annual Memorial Day Service was held at Austintown-Fitch High School. A large part of the service was the music of the band. A corp of ROTC riflemen presented a seven gun salute. The respectful speakers and the patriotic music added greatly to the solemnity of the day.

The Poobah and Dakota concert was held in May also. Those who came to the Falcon Cafeteria went away with the memory of two great groups. The concert was sponsored by Student Council. Thru the diligent work of Mark Sarago and few others, the event got off the ground successfully.

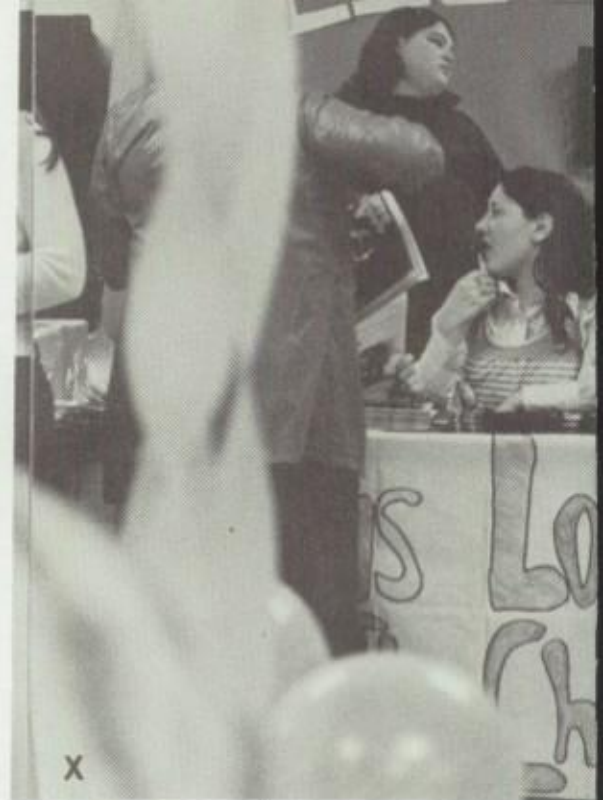

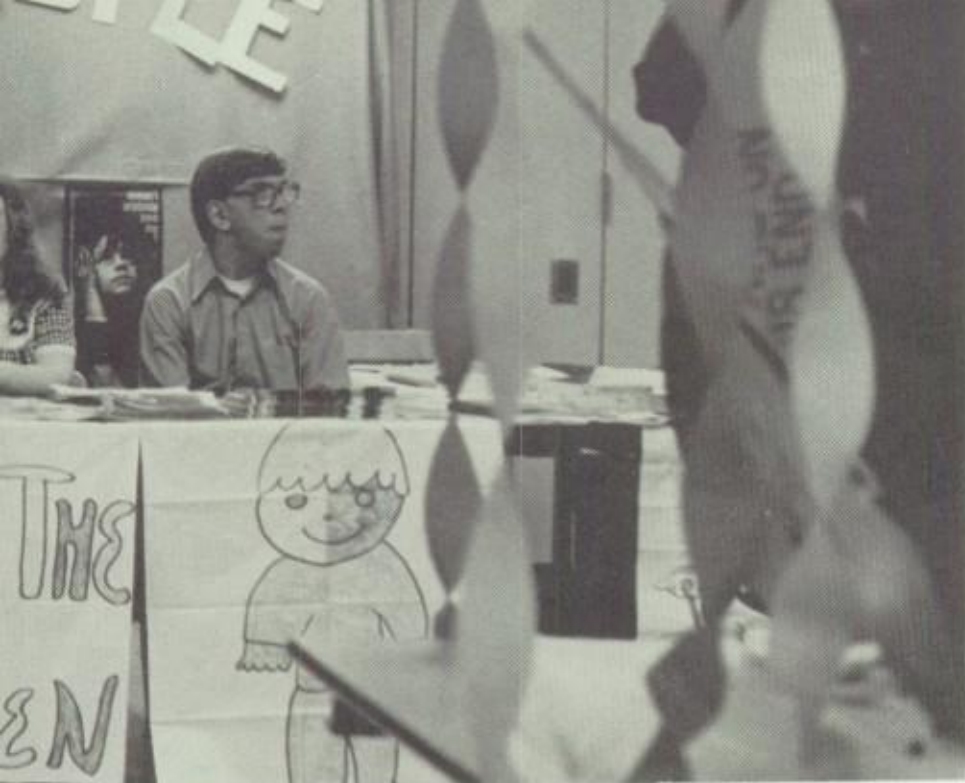

- Z. The band was on hand to give musical support to the ceremony.
- Y. Wreathes were placed at the foot of the flag to commemorate Memorial Day.
- X. Lt. Col. Dean Merriman led the audience in prayer.
- W. Hundreds of people crowded in front of the school to hear the speakers.
- V. Pooba's music was as outstanding as ever.
- U. The music of Dakota ended a great concert.
- T. Even though the music was loud in front of the band, people stood there anyway.
- S. Everyone danced as the music filled the room.

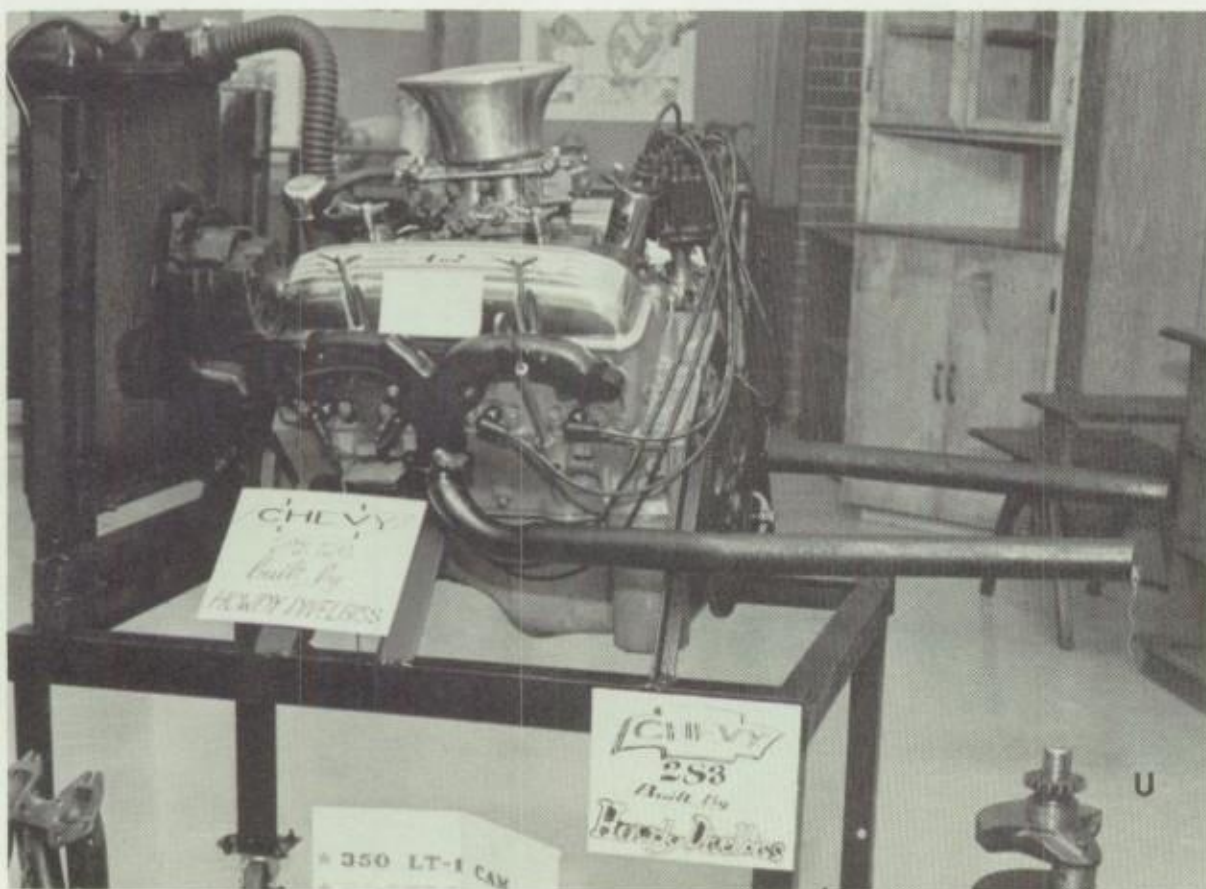

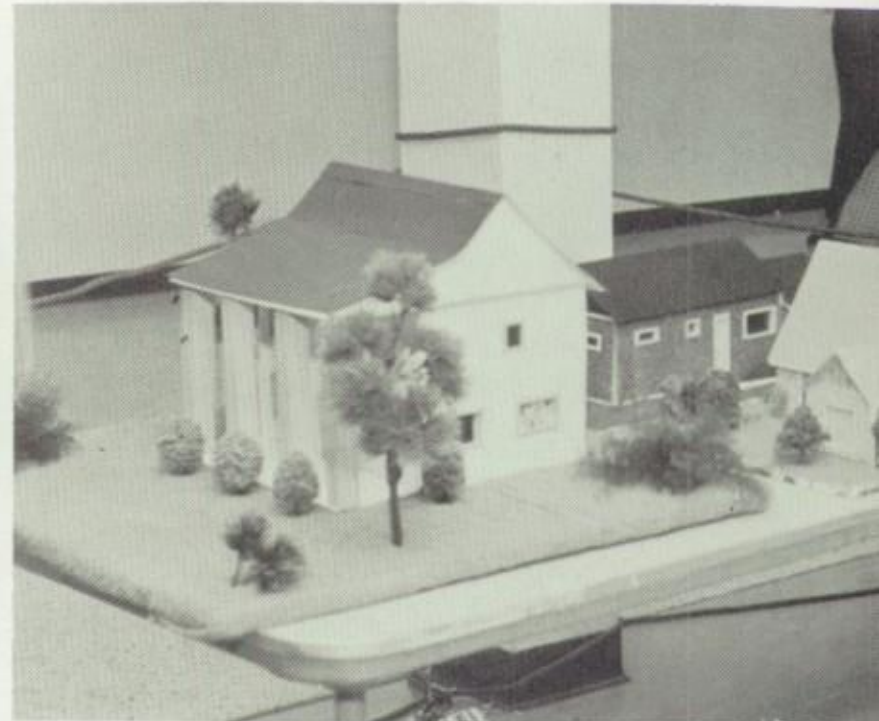

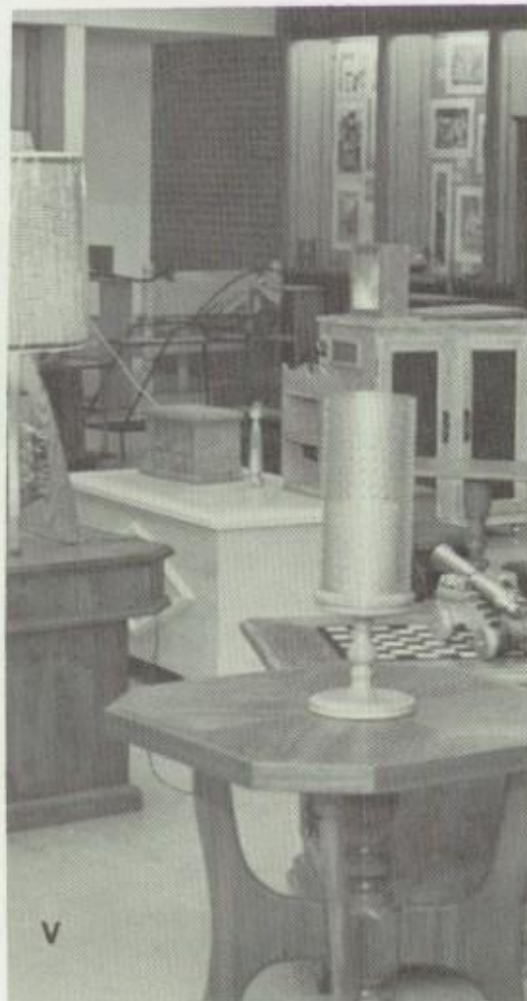

- Z. Jennifer Shreve and Mr. Demas enjoyed themselves at the Carnival.
- Y. The Y-Teens sponsored a successful Carnival.
- X. All of the clubs had their own booths, showing their individuality.
- W. The reality of the world became a fantasy "Through the Eyes of a Child".
- V. The boys showed their craftsmanship in wood and displayed it proudly.
- U. This engine, built in power mechanics, really worked.

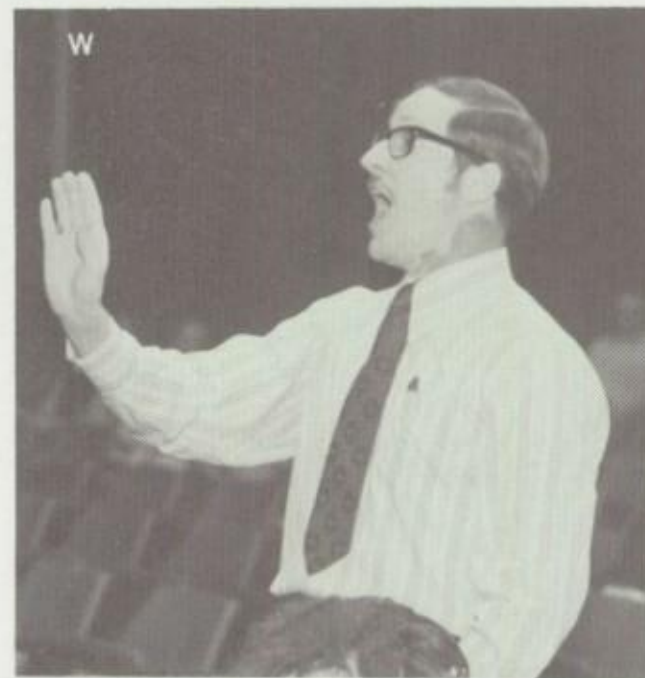

In the Industrial Art Classes boys used their abilities, to cut and shape wood into beautiful pieces of art. This art work was displayed in the Commons area after many months of hard and dedicated work.

After many weeks of planning, the Sophomore and Junior Y-Teens sponsored a successful Carnival! The different clubs had their own stands related to the general theme, "Through the Eyes of a Child". The French Club won first place prize for being the most creative.

- Z. The Concert Choir did an outstanding performance for their Spring Concert.
- Y. Members of the music department had to be ready for whatever direction Miss Kascher gave them.
- W. Mr. Antell kept everyone singing in "Perfect Harmony".
- V. The Symphonic Band highlighted the Spring Concert.
- U. Fourth graders from the Austintown Elementary Schools led in the singing of "It's a Small World".
- T. Mr. Snell accepted the Ohio Music Education Award on behalf of the band.
- S. The music of the Concert Band was an exciting way to start a performance.
- R. Concert Choir girls dressed appropriately for their Women's Rights number.
- Q. Sue Grist recieved the Paul Cline Award for leadership, scholarship, and musicianship.
- P. It was hard to keep one's eyes on the conductor and the music at the same time.

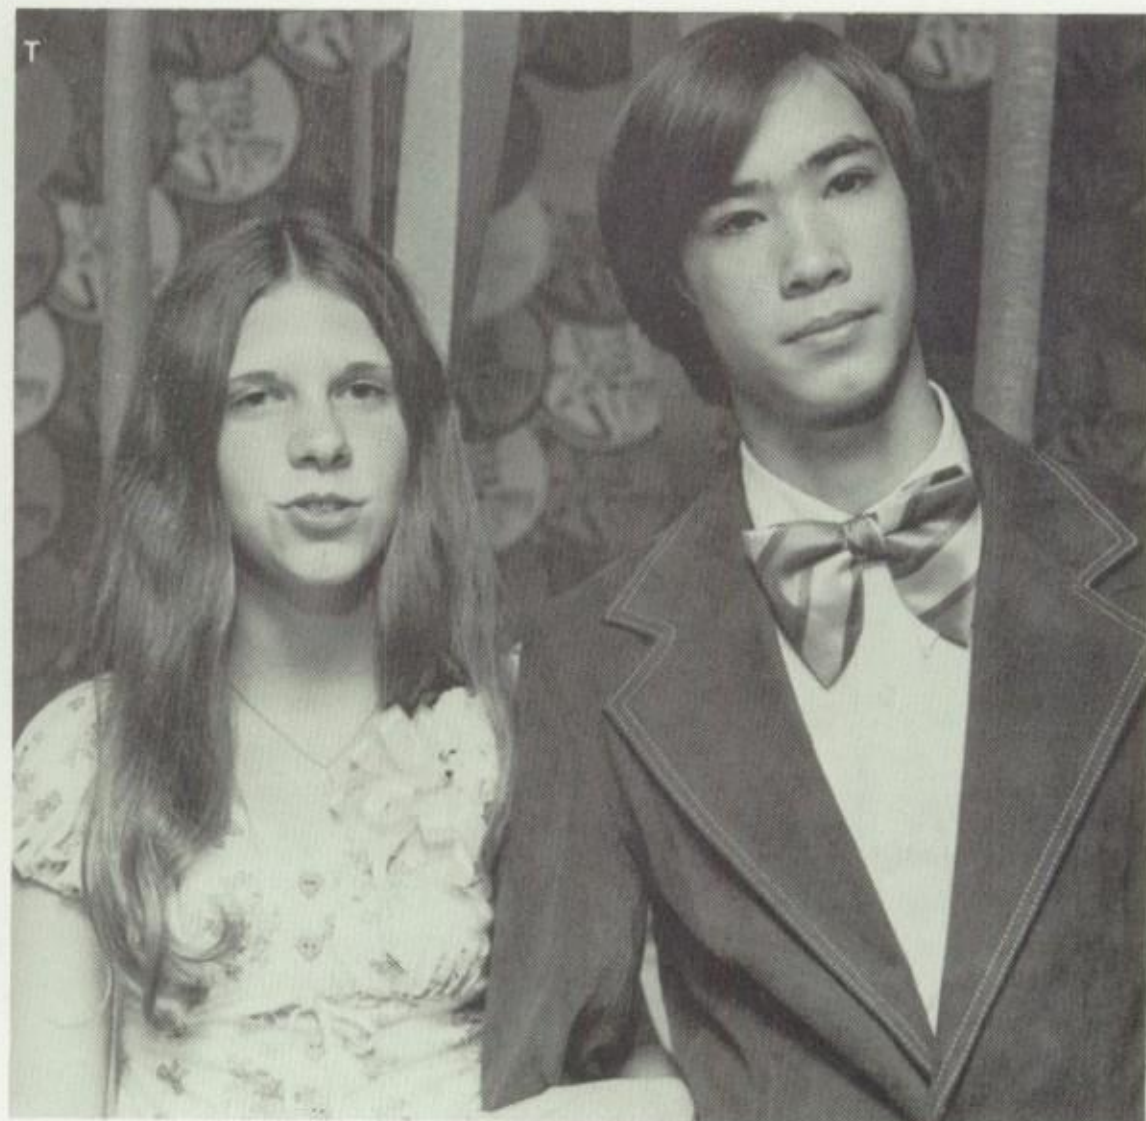

The entire Vocal Music Department finished a very successful and active year with their Spring Concert, entitled "Our Musical World". To add to the success, the Concert Choir placed first in the nation in the National Public Radio Contest, and made their second veteran hospital tour, in the Washington D.C. area.

The Band's season was also a very good one. This included two Spring Concerts and superior ratings at both the district and state competitions. It took hard work and time to achieve these, but the applause and recognition made it worthwhile.

On Saturday, May 12th at 7:00, the 1973 Penny Hop Dance took place. Candidates of each class picked their own money making staff. These staffs worked hard to dream up and put into action various types of money making schemes. Each staff tried to do their best because they knew that only one girl would be queen. Linda Matthews, the junior class candidate, was crowned as the 1973 Penny Hop Queen. The remaining candidates placed in the following order: First Attendant: Jana Dahmen, Sophomore Class; Second Attendant: Cheryl Parker, Freshman Class; and Third Attendant: Pam Davis, Senior Class. For all classes, it was a job well done.

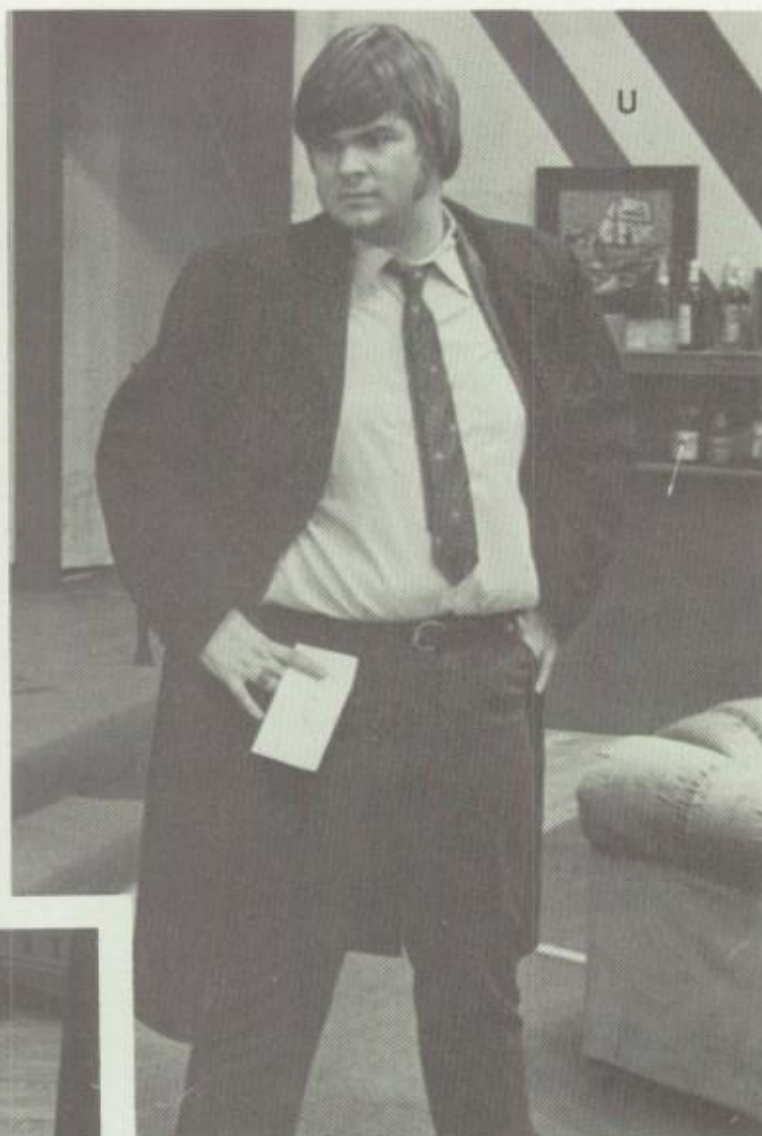

- Z. Linda Matthews, escorted by Julius Delisio, approached the new seat as Queen.
- Y. Bitterweed did an excellent job of playing both fast and slow music.
- X. Fast dancing was enjoyed as much as slow dancing.
- W. Senior Pam Davis, escorted by Keith Clemons, was third attendant.
- V. The Second attendant was Freshman Cheryl Parker, escorted by Jeff Fabian.
- U. Some enjoyed just being alone .
- T. The Sophomore Class did an excellent job in seating Jana Dahman, escorted by Bill Chappell as first attendant.
- S. Last year's queen, Nancy Sciortino, crowned Linda Matthews as the 1972-73 Penny Hop Queen.

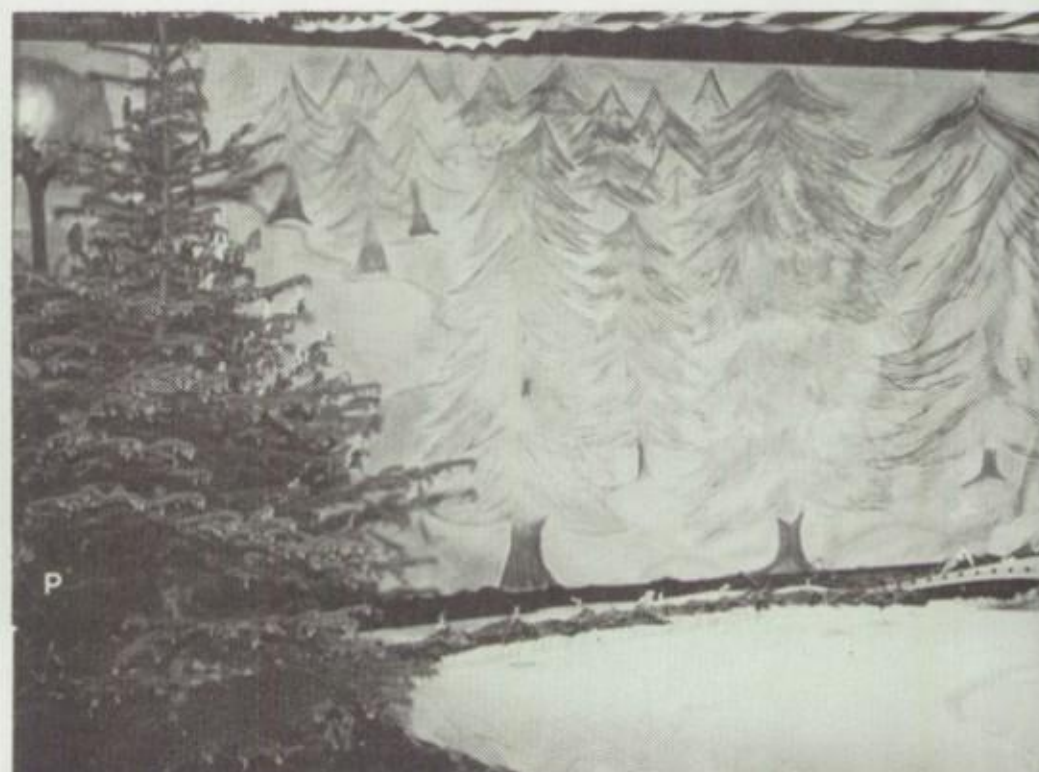

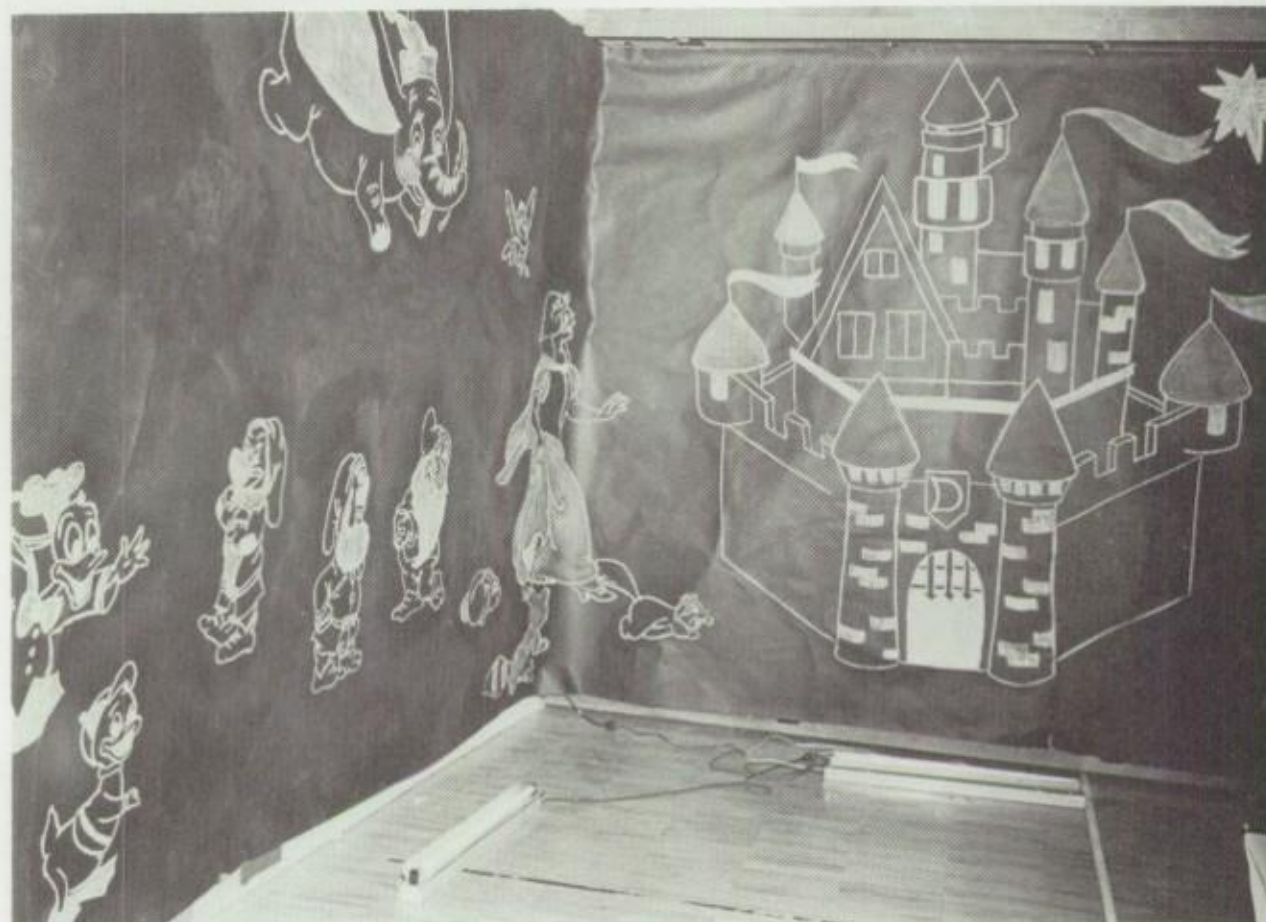

The play stars an awkward young man who left his home to live with his brother Allen in his bachelor apartment. Their father allowed Buddy to stay but, fired both sons from his business. Buddy learned all the bachelor tricks while Allen closed a large deal for his father's wax fruit business. Winning respect he felt worthy to marry his true love, Connie Dayton.

- Z, Mrs. Baker (Kelly Shreck) took many of her son's confusing phone messages.
- Y. The light crew, directed by Dale Camens, added a certain realism to each scene.
- X. Peggy Evens (Janice Roh) gave a relaxing head message to Buddy (Sam Sangialosi).
- W. A son moved along with his family into a bachelor apartment.
- V. Buddy fought as his brother did for his freedom.
- U. Mr. Baker, the father (Carl Bauchpiess), disowned his sons.
- T. Allen (Tom Whitten) told everything to his sweetheart, Connie (Rose Wolf).

Z. Students as well as teachers helped to prepare for what they were hoping to be the best Prom ever.

Y. The results were exceptionally beautiful.

X. Tedious work made possible . . .

V. . . . a beautiful entrance to paradise.

U. Several people copied their imagination onto paper. T. The Juniors' efforts created a beautiful world of fantasy.

S. The murals and streamers transformed the gym . . .

R. . . . into a wonderland.

Q. A pile of rocks and a "puddle . . .

P. . . . soon became an enchanting scene.

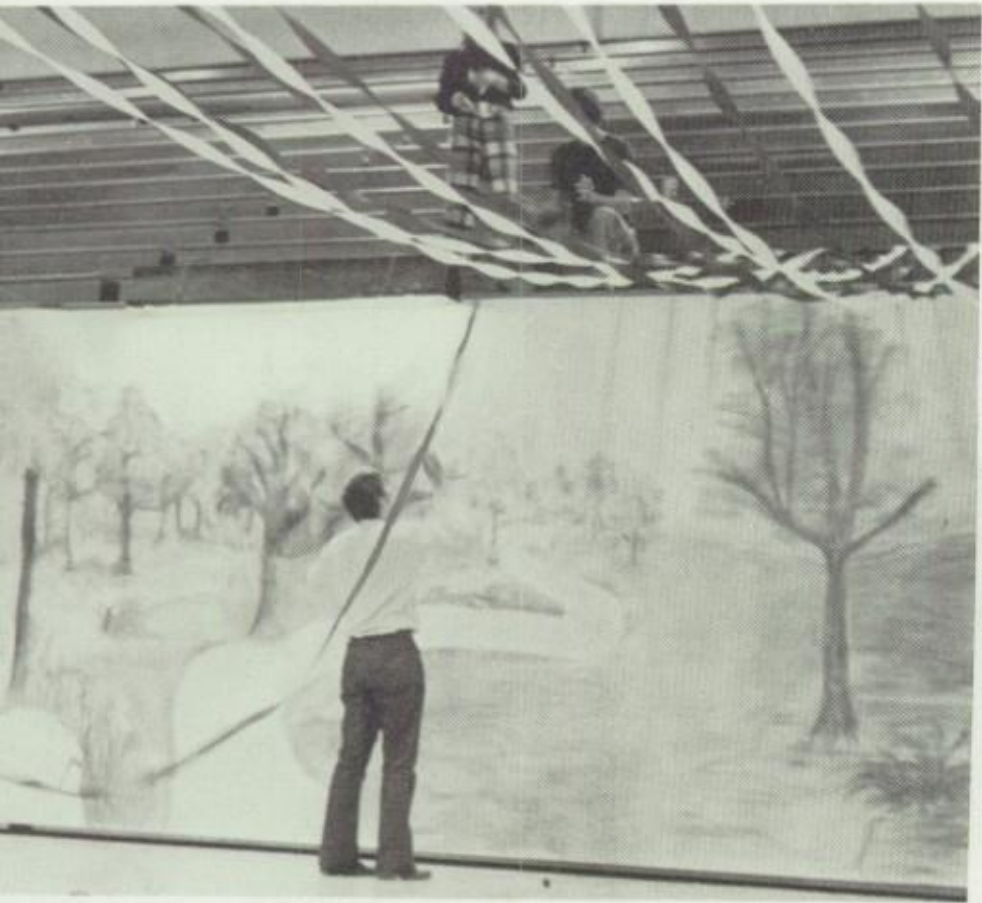

O. Ask Bob Moynihan who he recommends for rental of formal wear.

N. Kathy Naples and Ken Erdner announced each couple's arrival.

M. As everyone danced, the fountain reflected the glimmer of Prom '73.

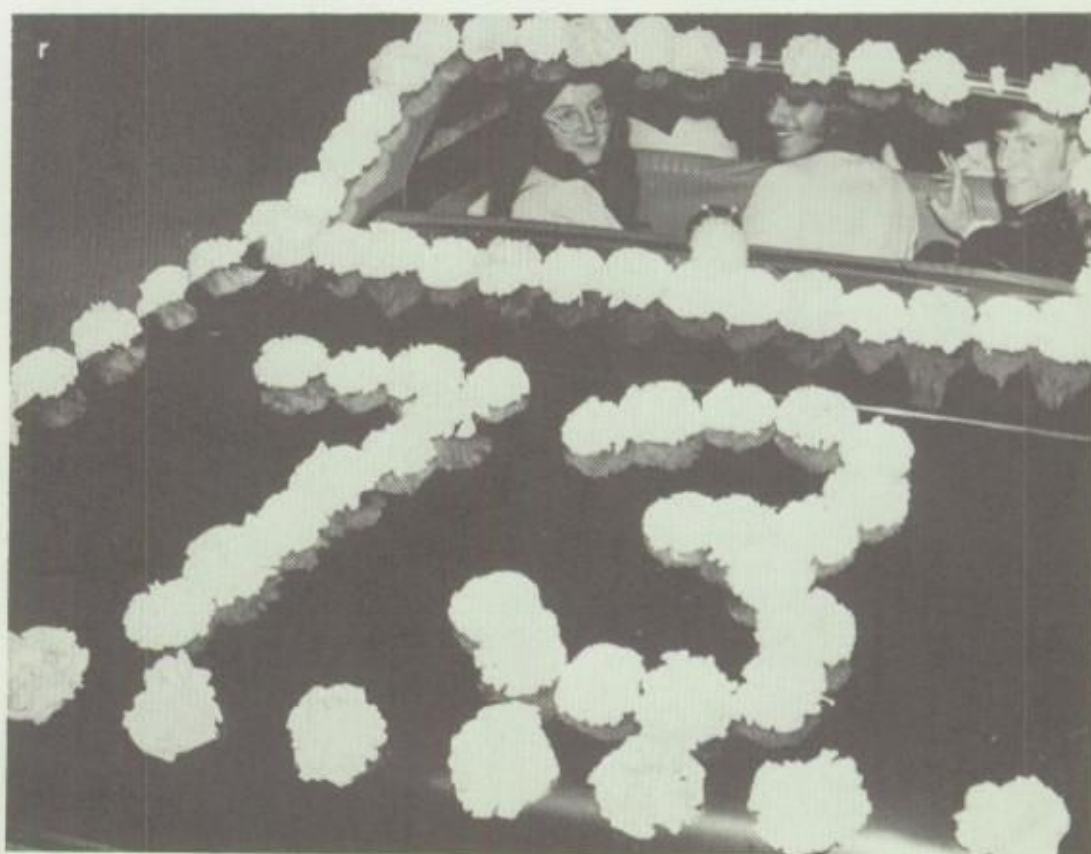

This year's Prom Committee of the Junior Class Council did a tremendous job of creating a paradise of nature and fantasy. The murals and decorations depicted a world of beauty that was difficult to "Imagine." Hours upon hours were spent building bridges, ponds, fountains, bandstand, and more. It is interesting to wonder if this prom committee's work will ever be equaled.

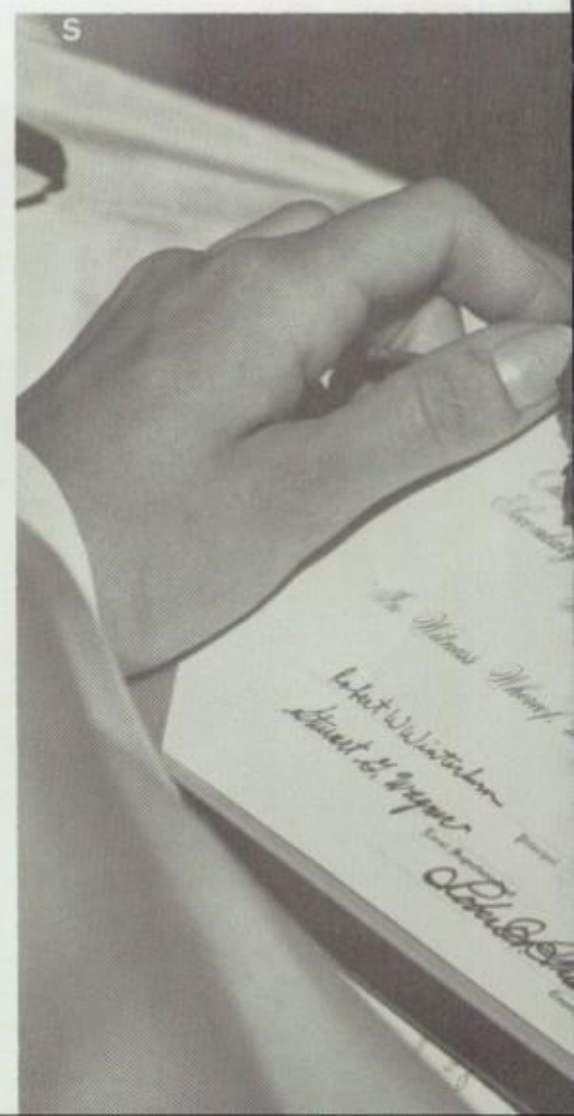

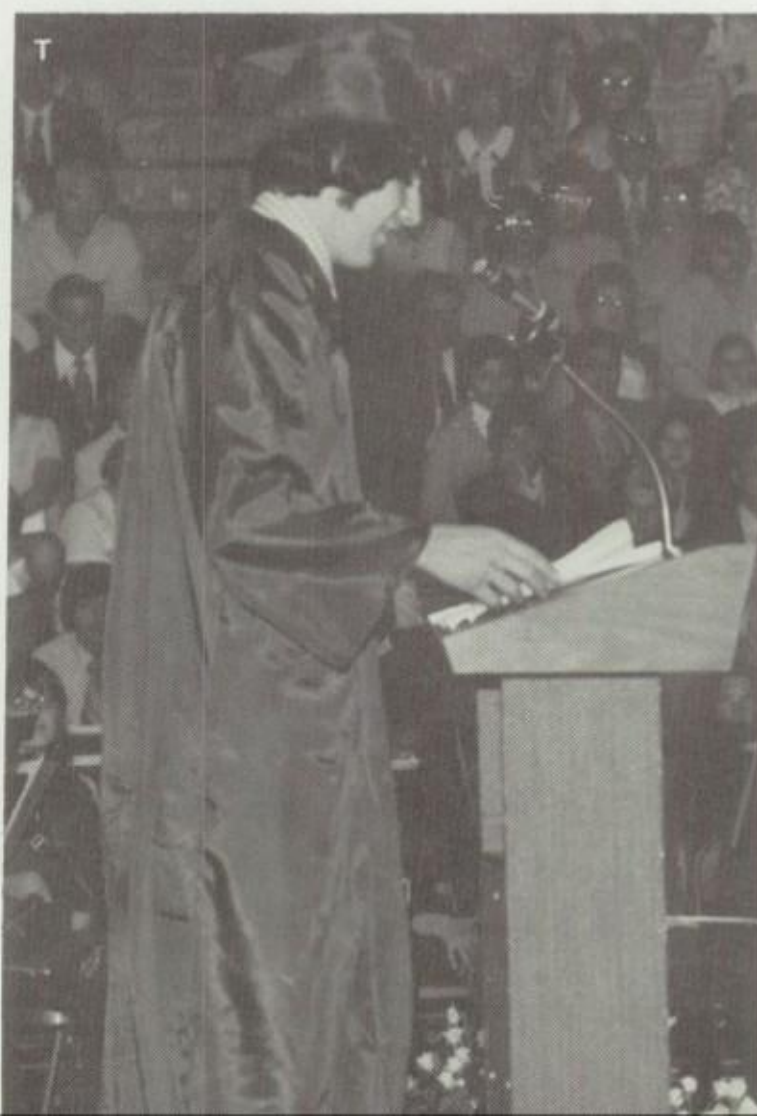

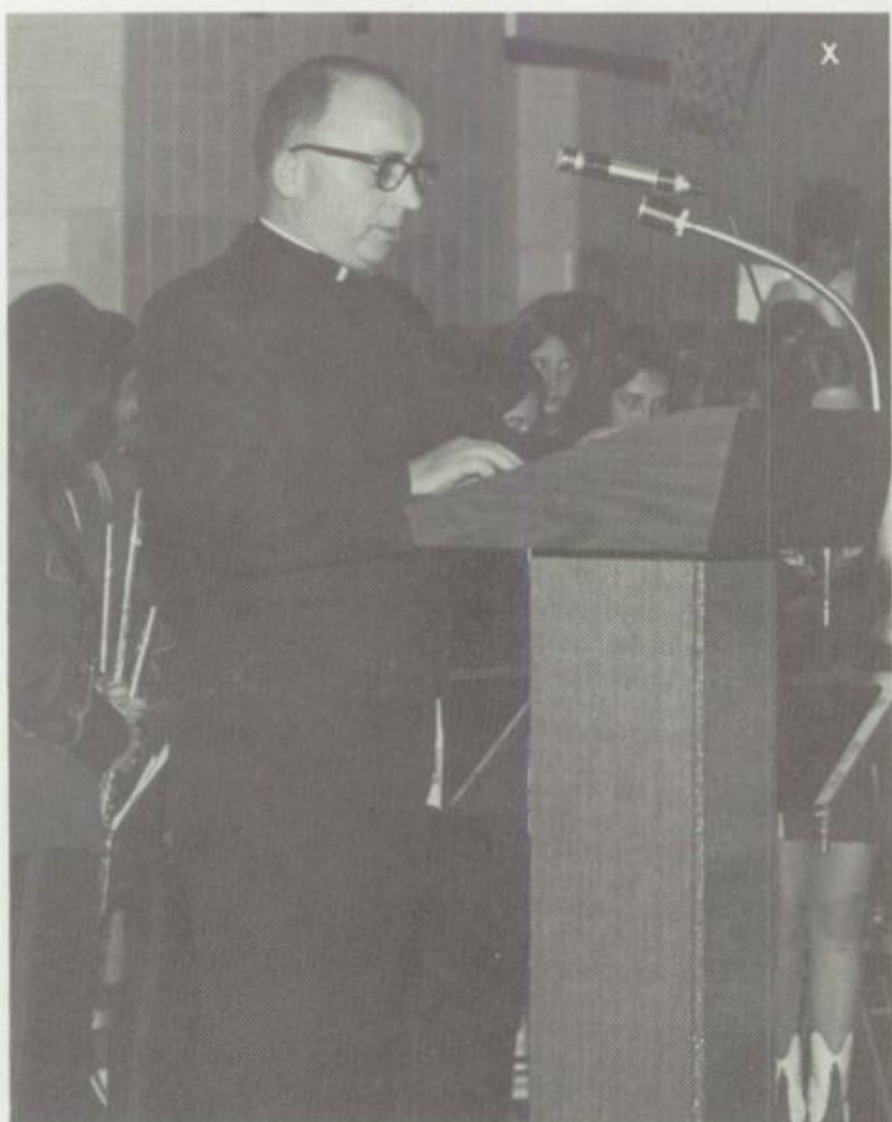

May twenty-sixth, nineteen hundred and seventy-three was a memorable evening for many. The juniors had worked to provide Prom 1973. The theme was, "Imagine," and the murals and landscaping helped to intensify the theme. All the beautiful people danced to Donny Ambrose's orchestra, and enjoyed a simply wonderful time. A request for "In Heaven There is No Beer" set everyone to polkaing and afterwards, when they rested, Barb Badaski was crowned Prom Queen and Gary Zalac king. They reigned over a wonderful prom, of which everyone holds a memory.

- Z. Don Ambrose's band provided the music.
- Y. Private wishes ...
- X. ... made some people's dreams come true.
- W. There was time for "new" dances.
- V. The wonderful attendance at Prom '73 spoke for itself.
- U. To highlight Prom, this year's king and queen were announced; Barb Badaski and Gary Zalac.
- T. The crowns were presented by Sally Grabovac and George Pino.
- S. Prom Court '73; 4th: Ron Pentz and Diane Nunemaker, 2nd: Frank Yasbeck and Janice Rief-ler, King and Queen, (Barb Badaski and Gary Zalac), 1st: Shelia Conte and Ted Sloan, 3rd: Theresa Rondinelli and Mark Bates.
- R. At 12:36 a.m., May 27th, 1973, Prom '73 became a memory, it was no longer something to be imagined.

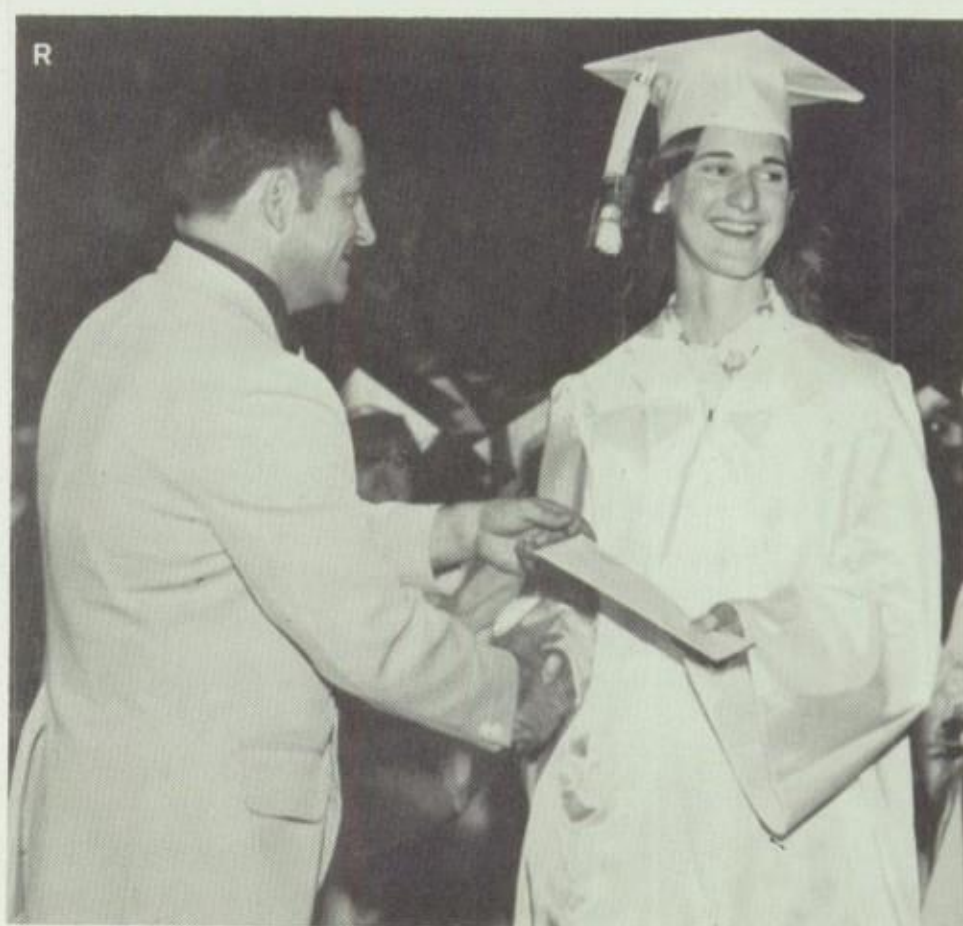

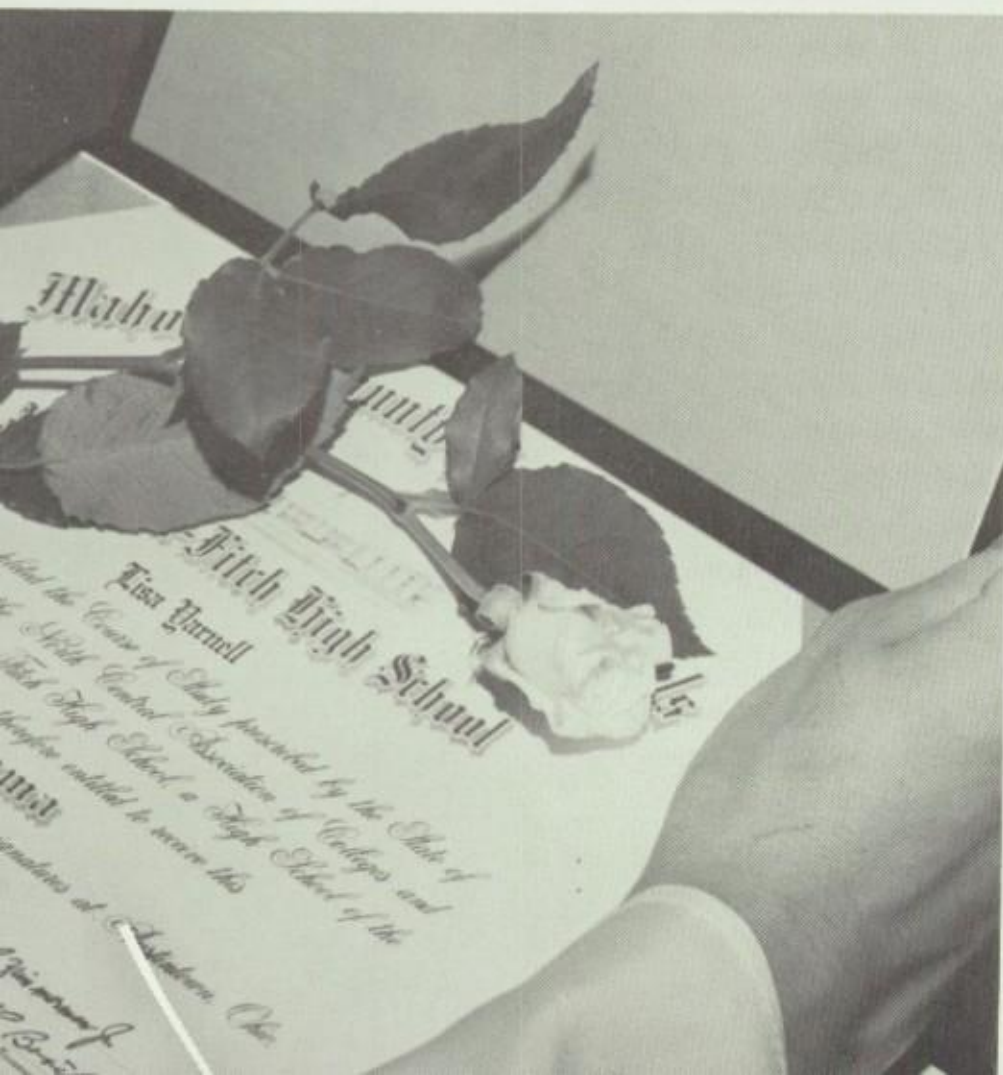

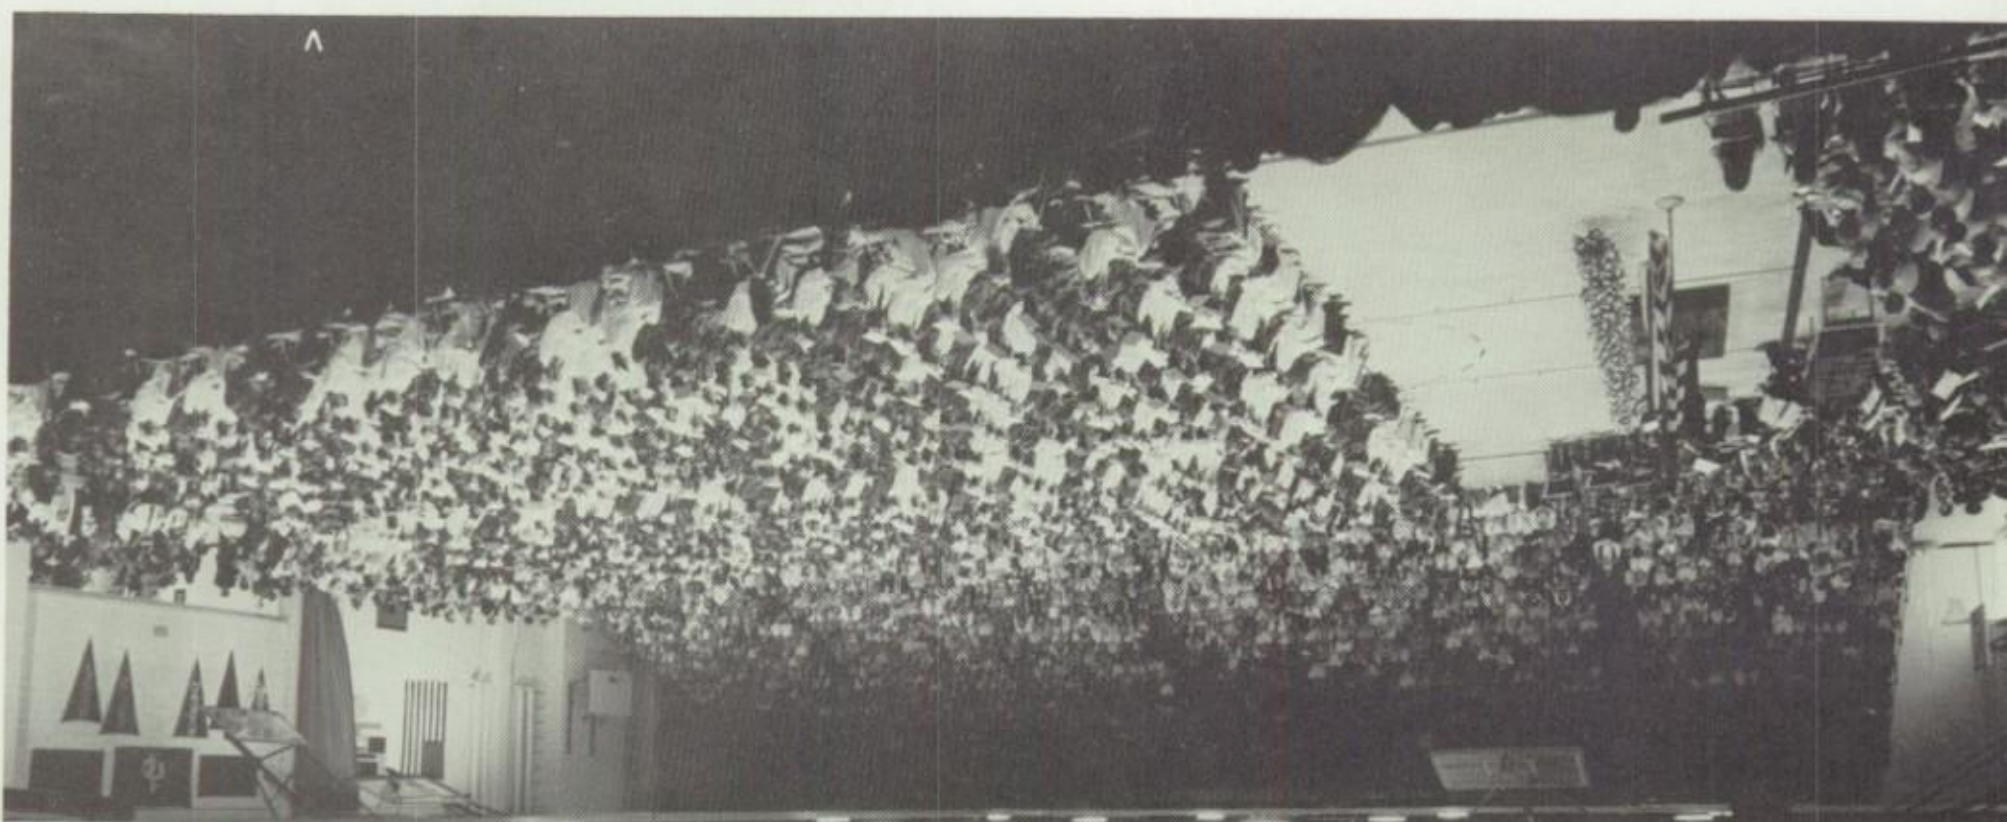

All the glory and splendor of our short lives rolled into one day; graduation day. During the ceremony there was time to take a final look at our high school days. Woven between the thoughts of the past were the hopes of the future. There were dreams to be fulfilled and a lifetime to be planned.

- Z. A delicate yellow rose was presented to each graduate.
- Y. Marilyn Infante, the class valedictorian, expressed her view of the goals to be striven for in life.
- X. Silence settled over the crowd as Father Lyons led the invocation.
- W. Reverend David Dietzel talked to the individual seniors as well as the collective graduating class in his baccalaureate address.
- V. Due to the rainy weather, the 1973 Commencement took place in the Fitch Gymnasium.
- U. As a symbol of accomplishment to be recognized, the seniors put their tassels to the right side of their caps and turned their class rings.
- T. To his fellow students, Senior Class President, Fritz Krieger, gave a farewell and "good luck" speech.
- S. For their great achievement, they received the paper to be used throughout their entire lives; their diplomas.
- R. Mr. Lewis congratulated Sue Klus on having won one of the two $500 Wedgewood Lanes Friday League (scholarship) Awards.

Yearbook/1974- no yolk

... it was never done. Yearbook was never done. It was like frying an egg, because no matter how long it's fried, it always has a gooey white spot in it. Work piled up and deadlines were missed by certain members of the staff, and often it was necessary to sit on these bad eggs. Some good eggs were many times inspiring. We often thought that some members were even a bit scrambled, but thru it all, the mission was accomplished. Seventeen students had gotten together, and under Dr. T. J. Stellers, came out, sunny sides up!

What Bringeth Tomorrow?

Tomorrow's School — real or ideal

The future may hold a kaleidoscope of ideals - anywhere from the perfect to those most corrupt. Or shall the world become only a huge storehouse for knowledge - unfeeling and intensely searching for only logical ideas? Schools will have much to do with either of these worlds. They shall be the learning institutions for ideologies or for astronomical mental gymnastics. Education is the instrument used to shape the individuals or the mass produced society of the future. The beginnings of civilization are rooted in education and perhaps this civilization's downfall will also stem from education.

Will there be anything Left to dream?

Maybe in the future we will have every desire in life fulfilled without any work necessary. Life will be full of nothing but pleasure. Dreams once fuzzy, would become real. But what of the people living in that type of future? Will they be living? They will need dreams to fulfill their own ambitions. They would wish for their own dreams. For if someone desires what another has, it would immediately be theirs also. But dreams are for those who believe in them.

Tomorrow: Perfection or Destruction

Tomorrow may find us in the garden of Utopia or in the ruins of another Rome. There will be one factor determining the future. Many individuals between now and then will have a great influence upon society's morals and ideals. The many resulting societies can change the entire world's future to a perfection of love and total peace or corrupt one another to the point of extreme hatred, mistrust and, futile destruction. The choice will be ours.

For Both Labor, Management— '74 Should Be Happy Year

By GEORGE R. REISS
(Vindicator Business Editor)

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Most of the current economic signs indicate it will be in 1974 for both business and employment and without the usual economic upsets and labor turmoil for the Youngstown district.

Only national or international foreseen, could upset the ap-
...plecart.

church

The district's economy is usually hinged to the prosperity of two major industrial facets — basic steel and automobiles — plus other industry, which represents a considerable volume of employment and payroll, such as truck and rail transportation, scrap, limestone mining and slag machinery and equipment design and manufacture, and wholesale and retail trade.

it's been a Long Year...

It's been a long year for Yearbook, and once again, we've produced another professional annual. Financial problems stepped on our toes again, but through it all, we've been able to get it together.

The 1974 Austintown-Fitch Yearbook was printed on special order 80 pound I.C.P. suede paper with green astroparch endsheets. All colors used in the book are day-glo applied on silver. The special order insert was printed 4-color on 80 pound suede paper. The cover was printed with two day-glo applications on a gold mylar base material. All copy was set on the selectric composer in 8 point Pyramid Italic and cutlines in 6 point Classified News. Headlines were set in 42 point Camelia Letraset.

The 1974 Yearbook staff would like to extend its love and gratitude to Mr. Winterburn for pushing to get us a telephone, to Mrs. Morrison for her patience and efficiency, Neil Baldelli and Bill Abey for pictures, (Neil for many laughs) and Bert Coburn for bearing with us above and beyond the call of duty.

Epitaph For a Yearbook Editor

Yearbook isn't what it used to be. Time has taken yearbook personel and made them somewhat indifferent if not completely indifferent to the production of the book. I remember when out of a thirty-two person staff, thirty-one members gave wholeheartedly and completely, and loved the work and the good times. But thru lack of sales, lack of ads, and consequently lack of money, staffers have come to wonder if it's worth it.

I think that holding and operating a yearbook position is the hardest, most demanding job a student can have at Austintown-Fitch. No one realizes it, but it's true. And along with the work involved, these students have to swallow board decisions, general student criticism, and even criticism from their friends. Maybe that's why it's going down. I don't know. But I fear the coming years, for yearbook's sake. Maybe it'll get better, I don't know.

But I want you who read this to think a minute of what we go thru before you take to criticism. I love yearbook work, and trying to make this book for you has been the entire 1974 objective. And it tears me apart when I hear blind thoughtless criticism from you, for whom this book was made. I'd appreciate your thoughts.

Finally, I'd like to say, on behalf of all the seniors, as I, with the class of 1974, "ride off into the sunset," goodbye and thank you Austintown-Fitch High School. It's been an eventful stay at Fitch, and we've learned some interesting things. God bless all of you.
